From the Statesman of the 24th inst. we extract the following:

"About noon yesterday a quarrel occurred in the rooms of the Investigating Committee, at the State House, the principals being William H. Watkins, formerly Superintendent of the Penitentiary, and Hon. John M. Thompson, Speaker of the House in the last Legislature. The affair caused considerable excitement as it became known. It appears, from all that we can learn, that Watkins had been summoned before the committee to tell what he knew about the management of the penitentiary, and while he was in the committee room Thompson came in, holding in his left hand a large envelope which he handed to Watkins with the remark, 'I want you to read this! It's my opinion of you!' At this instant several gentlemen who stood near, discovered that he had a pistol in his right hand, and before he could have used it—had he so desired—it was taken from him by D. P. Thompson, and further demonstrations prevented by the interference of the gentlemen in the room. The pistol, which was a small nickel-plated revolver, was loaded, cocked, and ready for immediate use. Mr. Thompson was shortly after arrested by Marshal Minto and taken before the court, where he was tried and convicted of assault and battery, and sentenced to six months imprisonment."
