

The Democratic Times.

Official Paper for Jackson, Josephine & Lake.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1879.

THE Yazoo business is not endorsed by anybody, but the deputy marshal and supervisor's act is upheld by the whole Republican party.

DAME RUMOR has it that Kailoch, Workingman's nominee for Mayor of San Francisco, is elected. The De Young shooting-match undoubtedly proved his best card.

IT is the opinion of Senator Thurman that Gen. Ewing will poll the full strength of the Democratic party in Ohio, irrespective of all little disagreements on the financial question.

It is a duty the Republicans owe the country to prove that the Treasury Department has not often secretly printed millions of dollars to carry elections for the Republican party, and subsequently pretended that the over-issue was counterfeited.

DISMAL complaint is made by the stalwarts alleging that the people of the South send so many Brigadiers to Congress. The way to offset this is for stalwarts to send the Northern Brigadiers in the place of Conkling, Chandler and Cameron.

THE Baltimore Telegram has kept at the head of its columns ever since Hayes' inauguration the disfranchised people's ticket, Tilden and Hendricks, and under this it gives the declaration of the House that the above named gentlemen were elected.

THE Standard states that in case J. W. Nesmith is not nominated for Congress by the Democratic Convention next year he will run as an independent candidate. Nes' chances of being elected Congressman and getting to Heaven are about on a par

THE Oregonian at this late day faintly desert its Republican idols and worship at the shrine of Democracy. In sounding the slogan of free trade, a cardinal tenet of the Democratic party, we see the light of its better days dawning and we have strong hopes of Bro. Scott's proselytism before 1881.

REPUBLICAN orators have as yet failed to tell us what has become of the five thousand millions of dollars which the people have paid into the U. S. Treasury since the war closed. They boast of having reduced the debt some five hundred millions, but with the amount collected from the public the whole debt should have been paid long since.

THE Salem Mercury having doctored a patent outside confirms what we have always held, viz: That no first-class interior newspaper can maintain itself with a subscription price placed at $1 per annum. Bro. Cornell has tried it and, notwithstanding his very large subscription list, no doubt discovers it to be at least a partial failure. The newspaper pasture has always been overrowed and short enough and innovations of so radical a nature cannot but prove disastrous.

THE fact that but few of the new school books have arrived is ominous. Six months only being allowed for exchange and introduction, the firm who are possessed of the exclusive privilege of furnishing the State with them will not be unnecessarily exercised in complying with the first part of the contract. After that there will be no lack of books, of course. Many saw a job in the contract with Bancroft & Co., of Pacific Coast notoriety; but if their suspicions were well founded they seem to have only "jumped from the frying pan into the fire."

CONGRESSMAN SPRINGER thinks Mr. Tilden is very strong in New York, and if he carries that State in the coming contest will have the best call for the Democratic Presidential nomination. In hinging the probabilities of Mr. Tilden's renomination on the result of the New York election Mr. Springer virtually admits him to be the coming man. A Democratic triumph in New York is a foregone conclusion, made so by the compromise between all rival factions that will certainly take place at the ensuing State convention.

SIR ROSCOE CONKLING, New York's gay Lethario (not unlike our own illustrious Mitchell), seems to firmly believe that his connection with the Sprague scandal entitles him to more consideration in political spheres than ever, notwithstanding the energetic protests of the New York Times and other leading journals of his party. He has insisted on being elected a delegate to the Republican State Convention, soon to assemble, and will exert his heightened influence in behalf of A. B. Cornell for Governor. It is an edifying spectacle to behold the great State of New York thus aping Oregon, and the average Oregonian cannot but appreciate the situation.

A SLANDER ON OUR PIONEERS.

It has remained for that blatant political parson, Bishop Gilbert Haven, who has just shook the dust of Oregon from his feet, to assert that there was no worse class of morals among the Chinese than existed among the pioneers of the Pacific slope. Such ebullitions may sound elegantly in the East, where the facts are entirely unknown; but where we have an opportunity to pass judgment upon such mendacity no ceremony is made in giving the lie to such an infamous slander on the early residents of Oregon and the Slope, who go to make up the flower of our enterprise, respectability and refinement. A little genuine experience in this Chinese question is all that is necessary to convince the people of the East of their fallacious comprehension of its merits. They do not make enough allowance for the colored stories of such mendacious emissaries as Gil. Haven, who, employing the garb of philanthropy, seek to distort the features of this greatest of all evils. It was just such influence, unduly exercised, that induced Mr. Hayes (poor, deluded individual), to veto the Chinese restriction bill from which we expected so much. There is not a resident of the Pacific Coast, if we may except the soulless monopolist, but that would be only too willing to transfer the whole horde of Chinese that infests our territory to the East without consideration, unless it is the one that they should never be permitted to return. Bishop Haven has not hesitated to misrepresent us abroad; but in giving vent to his last slander in our very midst he has added insult to injury, which no honorable resident of the Coast is disposed to brook. We are amazed that the pioneer ministers of the State, of whom there were several, could sit quietly by and listen to the harangue of their impudent dignitary without vouchsafing a word in reply. An untrammeled press will do its duty, however, and hurl back this slander into the very teeth of its author.

MISDIRECTED JOURNALISM.

There are always some journals, overwhelmed with an idea of their own importance, that make it a self-imposed duty to assail public men and are not slow to charge corruption and everything that is heinous against them. There is a sample lot of these in our State; but while they fail to exert any considerable influence, they manifest a very small spirit and illustrate what they would do if able. We find them abusing such men as Senator Grover, who they expect to render them immense service at the capital of the nation; yet they have left no stone unturned to prejudice the people abroad against him and would accomplish his ruin if their efforts would avail them anything. If these self-constituted mentors were immaculate themselves and were sustained by facts, there would be some excuse for their onslaughts on public men. As it is, they devise auspicious opportunities to vent their petty spleen, and injure none but the people, for whom they profess so much concern.

SWAMP LANDS.

A private letter from Washington to one of our citizens announces the Oregonian's swamp land romance of fragile foundation and the fungus of Bro. Scott's very fertile imagination. The case he has dwelt on with such stress is an isolated one originating in Columbia county and the State's claim to that particular piece of swamp land was set aside because the survey was made about twenty five years ago and in Oregon's territorial days. The swamp lands that we are entitled to are being listed to the State as fast as possible and at least 4,000 acres have also been patented to us. We are afraid that the Oregonian was more anxious to make a point against a former State administration than to give the true status of the swamp land situation. There may have been some of the errors and abuses incident to the solution of a new question; but they have not been so general and vicious as that journal would educate the people to believe.

WHEAT WANTED.

It is estimated that six countries in Europe will this year be compelled to buy three hundred million bushels of wheat, and that France and England will need three-fourths of this quantity, while France's share alone will cost her one milliard of francs, or a fifth of the sum of her famous ransom. This means prosperity for the American farmer that has a surplus.

AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK IN THE WILLAMETTE.

A friend, writing from Salem under a recent date, says: "The late rain has done no damage in this valley. The rust has destroyed a large portion of the wheat, and this loss is deeply felt by everybody. This experience, dearly bought, will induce the sowing of wheat in the Fall almost altogether."
