THE LAST COMSTOCK DEAL.

A few weeks ago the N. Y. Times, in an article headed "No More Deep Mining," showed that the lower deposits of the Comstock lode, providing such deposits actually exist, are practically inaccessible to the operations of man, and that in future, until some new devices of or delving in the bowels of the earth were invented, mining in this region must be confined to the upper levels. The total product of placer washshown by the fact that further attempts to go downward in Savage and the other deeper mines had been abandoned, and deeper mines had been abandoned and deeper mines are placed with a very little silver. A prominent New York banwater had increased to $4,320,000, and on Saturday following, when the stock was quoted at $55, the value had swelled to $11,880,000. This is an appreciation of over 2700 per cent. in less than two months. The man who had $1,000 invested in Consolidated Virginia and California on October 13th could have sold his stock on Dec. 5th for $27,500. The other mines on the lode have appreciated to market in the same proportion, and mechanics and miners, laundrymen and workingwomen hav ebeen thrusting their hard-earned dollars into the outstretched hands of the brokers, anxious to take a share in the deal. When it is over and the crash commes there will be a few inordinately rich men and an army of pentiless victims on the Pacific coast. The alleged cause of this sudden rise in the stocks is the advancement of the, operations into the ore section of the consentation of the potential of the proportion of the pro

It is simply an ore body that assays about $27 to the ton, which was passed over as not worth caring for while the lower levels were being prospected. It is undoubtedly the tailing off of the exhausted bonanza, from which so many millions were taken, and is liable to disappear entirely before much farther progress is made toward extraction. And yet on the strength of it shrewd operators have been succeeded not only in forcing up Consolidated Virginia and California.

The proposed plan was widely discussed at a gathering of horsemen at Lexington yesterday, and the day before and kentucky breeders seemed eager to take advantage of this opportunity for advancement of their interests. Year by year Kentucky becomes more and more distinctly the center of the thoroughbed interest, and such a stake as this, run for on her own soil, will do much to main tain the supremacy of the stake is to be call equine matters.
