

TO ADVERTISERS.

The TIMES has a circulation of 2560. The largest enjoyed by any newspaper published in the city of 700 miles. It therefore offers the best inducements to advertisers. Our list is principally confined to Jackson, Josephine and Klamath counties. Business men should take note of this.

The great trotting race between the celebrated horses Alix and Directum, which took place at Boston last week, was won by the former in slow time. The horse was drawn off after the second heat and is now in care of a veterinary surgeon. Alix trotted an exhibition mile with a running mate in 2:07 1/2 and a purse of $1000 was given.

If the coming legislature would change the time and manner for the payment of taxes so that part of the tax would be due on the 1st of November of each year and the balance on the 1st of the following May, the TIMES believes it would be better for all concerned. Under this method the taxpayer wouldn't be compelled to pay the entire amount at one time, and the payments would come when money is the most easily raised.

The murderous crank is again in the land. The latest freak in this line was at Logansport, Ind., where on the night of the 20th two men attempted to get near the stand from which ex-President Benjamin Harrison was addressing a large crowd. The police tried to arrest them, but they escaped. They declare their intention to shoot the ex-president on sight. The incident caused the greatest excitement, and people of all parties feel outraged.

The czar of Russia is afflicted with cancer and his condition is so grave as to leave no ground for hope that he can survive. He is suffering from extreme mental depression in addition to his physical malady. The latest report from Livadia indicates that, although the czar is still alive, he is rapidly weakening. His physician says that he has suffered a series of convulsions and has been unconscious at times. All Europe and Asia are much exercised over his approaching death.

ROBBRIES are becoming quite frequent and of a more audacious character than ever. Following those committed at The Dalles and Sacramento comes the attempt to rob the bank at Hillsboro, Washington county. The robbers stopped Mr. Shute, the president of the bank, when on his way home, which is some distance from town, and forced him to give up the combination to the safe and the keys to the bank. Fortunately the time lock was set for 9 o'clock the next day, and the robbers were unable to open it.

SOME of our contemporaries seem to be laboring under the hallucination that there will be more or less opposition to Senator Dolph's re-election. Their information on this point evidently is very poor. Nearly every Republican candidate for senator and representative at the June election was known to be favorable to Mr. Dolph's return, and a great portion of the money used then came from sources directly interested in that result. The railroad and other moneyed interests knew what they were doing when they put up the cards that way, too.

ROSEBURG REVIEW: We are pleased to see the press of the state, with the exception of the Oregonian, coming out squarely and plainly against a change in the present series of school books. This shows that the schemers who controlled the legislature have no hold up—a newspapers of Oregon, which are standing nobly by the interests of the public. A change at this time will entail a heavy expense upon the patrons of the public without any corresponding gain. The present series of text books is well and carefully edited and adapted to the needs of the public schools (with the possible exception of the grammar), and are being furnished by the publishers at less than the contract price, the reduction having been made voluntarily.

HILL, Tibbitts and Gibbons, the agent, driver and officer who escorted the treasure box which was stolen at The Dalles to the express office, have been arrested. They are out on recognizance. This action is due to the fact that these men possessed the only keys of the express office, and the robbers went through the front door and escaped the same way. The other parties are under surveillance. A rumor is current that Hill's bondsmen will be held good for the amount stolen. Local papers speak in high terms of Hill. Circumstantial evidence is rapidly collecting. Alleys and ruins of the old fire are being vigorously searched for the lost money. The Portland agent says the robbery was systematically planned and that the robber entered with the regular key.

The supreme court has reversed the decision of Judge Burnett in the case of A. C. Taylor vs. S. Penoyer, et al., better known as the eastern Oregon asylum case, and the decision leaves it in the same condition as the Soldiers' Home case, with no existing obstruction in the way of proceeding with the erection of the branch asylum at Union. Gov. Penoyer expresses pleasure at the result. He thinks it would be less expensive to have a portion of the insane kept in eastern Oregon, and that, as the population increases, the greater will be the need of such an institution. He is of the opinion that the board will now proceed to consummate the purchase of the land in Union county and leave the remainder of the provisions of the act for establishing a branch asylum to be carried into effect by the new board, consisting of Governor Lord, Secretary Kincaid and Treasurer Metcham.

THE QUEEN CITY OF THE INLAND EMPIRE.

During the late session of the Oregon Press Association the editor of the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES had an opportunity to judge of some of the many points in favor of Pendleton. Our stay was too brief to become acquainted with the resources of Umatilla county (of which that city is the capital) and the inducements which it offers to the immigrant; but we saw enough to convince us that it is a section of great possibilities, inhabited by people full of enterprise and sociability. It comprises an extensive acreage of land, the principal portion of which is rich and capable of cultivation; and it has a number of other advantages that must sooner or later make it second to none on the Pacific coast. Diversified farming—horticulture, dairying, hog-raising, etc.—is its only salvation, however. Its almost entire dependence on the raising of grain and wool has caused the financial depression which prevails generally to be felt here much more than would otherwise be the case.

Pendleton has a population approaching 4,000, which is characterized by its enterprise, congeniality and thrift. It contains quite a number of handsome and substantial buildings, including a fine, large temple of justice and school house. In fact, as far as our observation goes, there is no city of its size in Oregon which will compare with it. Pendleton is well supplied with water by the Holly system, the works costing a large sum of money and being owned and operated by its citizens. A company, composed principally of local capitalists, light the place with electricity furnished by a plant which would be a credit to a city of ten times its population. A magnificent Corliss engine of the latest model, 250-horse power, drives the four dynamos employed. Pendleton supports two excellent newspapers—the East Oregonian and Tribune—the latter appearing in the morning and the former, which is presided over by that original wit and companionable fellow, C. S. Jackson, in the evening. Jack is a clever writer and knows how to run a newspaper. Like every journalist ought to be, he is "as independent as a hog on ice," and strikes straight from the shoulder, showing neither partiality nor prejudice. The E. O. has a home of its own, costing $30,000, which is elegantly fitted up with presses, machinery and printing material. It prints daily, semi-weekly and weekly editions of a first-class quality, and much of the growth of Pendleton and the origin of a number of its enterprises are due to this journal. The Umatilla river is kept within its bounds by a levee built by the city at a cost of $40,000. Two grist mills, supplied with the latest processes and having a capacity of 500 and 250 barrels per day respectively, are running day and night, their product being shipped everywhere, of such excellent quality is it. The pride of the city, however, is the wool-scouring plant, which is the second one on the coast, the other being located at San Francisco. The Pendleton mill is superior to the other, by reason of having better and more modern machinery. It has a capacity of 30,000 pounds of scouring wool per day, 50,000 pounds graded and packed, besides storing for 2,500,000 pounds. The wool is sorted and piled into five grades, and in twenty minutes after it starts in the machinery it comes out snowy white, free from dirt and ready for shipment. The original capital stock, which was $20,000, has been increased to $28,000. The officers of the company are E. T. Judd, president; E. D. Boyd, vice-president; F. E. Judd, secretary and treasurer and T. E. Fell, manager. They are clever as well as enterprising, and left nothing undone for the instruction and education of the visiting editors. This is one of the most beneficial institutions in the country to the sheep-raiser. Formerly the wool had to be shipped, greased and all, involving the outlay of a large sum of money for extra freight, which is avoided now by having the wool scoured at home. Where formerly it took six cars to transport a given quantity of wool, one car will do the work now. As an ocular demonstration of this fact, those in charge of the mill had a carload of scoured wool standing on the track for the inspection of their guests. It was all ready waiting shipment to the east and contained the product of 2,000 sheep, pressed into 80 bales, and its value was $10,000. This enterprise is so practical and the good results are so apparent that the wonder is that there are not more plants of this nature.

GOV. LORD TALKS SENSE. Judge Lord, governor-elect of Oregon, has been a guest at the Palace hotel at San Francisco with his wife. They expect to remain in that city a few days, and will then leave for the east on a pleasure trip, going to Delaware, where Judge Lord will spend some time with his parents. "There is a growing sentiment in favor of the free coinage of silver," said Judge Lord, speaking of the political situation in Oregon at the Palace recently. "That is only among the masses, however, and not among the commercial classes. The way in which that subject was handled in our platform had considerable to do with the success of our ticket. I find that the people of Oregon attribute the industrial difficulties, the decline in the price of products and the depreciation of property values to the demonetization of silver, and they believe there will be no return of prosperity until silver is remonetized and placed on an equality with gold. How that is to be brought about is the subject of dispute between the political parties. They are all, practically, bimetalists; but the question of whether silver should be restored through national legislation or by an international agreement is the question on which the argument hinges. The Populists are after the free and unlimited coinage of silver. The commercial classes are bimetalists, but only in the sense that they believe silver should be restored through an international agreement. That will never come, in my opinion. England would never agree to it. The Republicans declared themselves in favor of the restoration of silver through national legislation. That plank in our platform was one of the causes of the big Republican victory in Oregon."

As mentioned in the last issue of the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES, the State Board of Horticulture held a very interesting meeting at Ashland last Tuesday and Wednesday. President Cardwell, Secretary Sargent, H. E. Dosch of Portland, Prof. J. M. Bloss of Corvallis, James Hendershot of Cove, Union county, and Emil Schanno of The Dalles, prominent members of the society, were present and contributed much to the success of the meeting. A number of local horticulturists also lent valuable aid. On Tuesday afternoon the society met at the Ganiard opera-house for the formal opening and spent some time inspecting the magnificent display of fruit, flowers and vegetables which had been collected and arranged for the occasion. The visitors were enthusiastic in their praise of the exhibit and said that it was the finest ever made at any meeting of the organization. The evening session was called to order by Mayor Casey. The opening number of the programme, "Sketch Dance," a piano duet, was rendered in faultless style by Mrs. J. S. Parson and Miss Mary Silsby. W. H. Leeds delivered a neat and appropriate address of welcome on behalf of the people of Ashland, which was responded to by President Cardwell in his usual forcible and interesting manner, in which he detailed the growth of the Oregon fruit industry from the feeble beginning to its present importance. A vocal quartette, "I Softly Dream," by Misses Carrie Roper, Egner and Mary Silsby and Mrs. Chrisman, followed. It was so sweetly and artistically sung that it received a hearty encore. E. W. Hammond of Winer read a paper upon the preservation of the forests of the country, in which he handled this important subject in an able and instructive manner. Prof. J. M. Bloss of the State Agricultural College gave an interesting and impressive talk upon the philosophical and aesthetic features of horticulture.

Wednesday forenoon they visited the orchards in Ashland and vicinity. In the afternoon the proceedings included papers upon the following topics: "The Prach Yelows," by Edwin Ross of Medford; "Oregon Fruits in the East," by C. L. Daily of Salem; "Notes by the Wayside," Dr. O. P. S. Plummer of Portland, and a discussion upon evaporation, led by H. E. Dosch of Portland. Mr. Russ urged the necessity of more rigid quarantine laws against such dangerous importations as the "yelows." Mr. Daily proclaimed his conviction that Oregon fruit-growers will make a great mistake if they depend upon the superiority of their products over those of other states to give them an advantage in the eastern markets. Such superiority is not so great as many suppose, and every effort must be made, he thought, to prepare Oregon products in the choicest manner and seek every advantage possible in marketing. The evening session included an address by Senator Dolph, and one by Hon. H. B. Miller of Josephine county. The former spoke at the invitation of President Cardwell of the association and others. The senator disclaimed any special or technical knowledge of horticulture, but spoke at length upon the importance of fruit production, as one of the present great industries of Oregon, destined in the future to be one of vastly greater consequence—in fact, to be one of the leading productive industries of the Pacific slope. In view of its great and growing importance and its peculiar needs and interests, Senator Dolph dwelt upon the necessity of further legislation in Oregon for the protection of orchards and the orchard industry. Mr. Miller followed in the same vein and urged organization upon the part of the fruit-growers, to meet the transportation problem and the question of securing and opening markets. The evening programme included also choice vocal and instrumental music by Miss Roper, Misses Esther and Mary Silsby, Mrs. Chrisman and Mrs. Parson. The opera-house was crowded each evening, and the members of the society report its quarterly meeting a great success in every way. The next meeting will be at Portland in January next.

NATHAN STRAUSS has declined the nomination for mayor, tendered by Tammany Hall, and Hugh J. Grant has decided to accept it. The State Democracy, a vigorous opponent of Tammany, has endorsed Hill for governor, which helps his chances considerably.

Life or Death? It is of vital importance that it should be understood by persons whose kidneys are inactive, that this condition of things is finally indicative of a state of organs where life hangs in the balance. Bright's disease, diabetes, albuminuria are all diseases of a very obstinate character in their mature stage, and all have a fatal tendency. They often baffles the most practical medical skill and the most approved remedies of material media. But opposed at the outset—that is to say, when the kidneys begin to discharge their functions ineffectively—with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the dangerous tendency is checked. Very useful, also, is this household medicine for those ailments of common occurrence—constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia and nervousness. It is a safeguard against malaria and averts chronic rheumatism.

A SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

KLAMATH COUNTY NEWS.

F. A. Cogswell, one of our leading attorneys, has returned from attending court at Lakeview. The case of Fink vs. Watters, decided in favor of the plaintiff by Judge Halo, has been appealed to the supreme court.

C. Cunningham, his son Howard and daughter, Rita, Belle and Anna, of Fort Klamath, spent a few days in Rogue river valley last week. Mrs. D. W. Matthews returned to Klamath last week from a visit to Salem, crossing the mountains by the Ashland-Klamath Falls wagon-road.

A company has been organized by business men of Klamath Falls and Fort Klamath with a capital of $8,000 to build a creamery at or near the latter place. It is expected that the plant, to cost about $4,000, will be in operation by next spring.

JOSEPHINE COUNTY ITEMS.

Q. Casebolt was in Jacksonville one day last week. Miss Jennie Jackson is again with us, after a pleasant visit at Jacksonville. Rev. G. W. Hoxie and wife of Williams creek went to Talent last week to attend a love feast of the Dunkard sect.

Mr. McLaughlin, who formerly mined on Talbot, has returned to southern Oregon and is now paying Jacksonville a visit. Geo. Calhoun, while at Jacksonville, made arrangements to furnish this market with the grapes for which that section is noted. Mike Clemens and his newly-made wife will return to Grant's Pass after making a short visit to California points. They have the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends.

The Most Successful Gas Engine.

In the market is run without an electric spark battery. They are all very well, but the every-day experience of constant practical use is the best test of merit. The man who runs a launch and finds himself drifting with tide and wind because the "spark" fails to ignite the charge of gas in his engine; the man who prints a daily paper and fails to get it off on time because the "spark" again fails; the man who has fruit that is injured for lack of irrigation because the "spark" fails in his engine that runs the pump; not only such parties but others who have trouble from like causes should bear in mind that the Hercules Gas and Gasoline Engine is free from such difficulties. The ignition is simple and sure. Send for catalogue. If you want second-hand engines of other makes at cheap rates we can supply you. We have a number taken in trade and cannot take any more until these are recalled in. PALMER & RAY TYPE FOUNDRY, 101 and Alder Streets, Portland, Oregon.

Hood's Is Wonderful

"At harvesting time I took a severe cold which settled in my limbs, and in a short time developed into Rheumatism. After spending a good sum of money for different remedies and suffering all winter, I became so crippled that I had to walk with the aid of crutches. By the kind advice of a friend I was prevailed upon to buy six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took the medicine and it has fully restored me to health and I think I saved my life.
