PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Professor Robert Koch, the famous German scientist whose investigations of the dreaded malady of tuberculosis have been watched with deep interest for years, was the most prominent figagreeable contrast to the vast sum of false teaching which prevails on this interesting subject. It abounds in carefully considered and practical advice, and has the two great merits of wisdom and sincerity.

It is indorsed by both the religious and secular press. The Chicago Advance says: "A perusal of the book and the application of its principles will put health, hope and heart into thousands of lives that are now suffering through nervous impairment."

Al Johnson's Successor.

Robert E. Wright, who has been brought into public view as the probable successor of the late Albert L. Johnson, the deceased president of the Lehigh Traction company, is a lawyer, banker and business organizer of Allentown, whose fame extends far beyond town, whose fame extends far beyond the city of his home. Mr. Wright was born in Allentown on Feb. 15, 1848, his father having been a prominent lawyer. Mr. Wright, after his admission to the Mr. Wright, after his admission to the distribution of bar in 1868, joined with his father in the legal business, but soon became conspicuous in the development of industrial and financial enterprises.

In 1886 he became president of the Allentown National bank, one of the leading and successful establishments of its kind in the Lehigh valley. He also served as the professional adviser of the Lehigh Valley, the Reading and the New Jersey Central railroad companies. Lately he has been associated with the "Johnson syndicate," in which the famous Cleveland brothers were leaders, in trolley development. His election to the head of the Lehigh Valley traction enterprise would be a normal and natural continuation of his recent and past activities.

"The American Type."

Those who direct the state, who administer the cities, control the legislatures, the financiers, merchants, professors, journalists, men of lettersthose whom I met in society-are nearly all of American birth and of marked American type. I rarely heard a foreign accent or saw a foreign countenance. The American world is practically "run" by genuine Americans. Foreigners are more in evidence in London or Manchester, it seemed to me, than they are in New York, Philadelphia or Boston.-Frederic Harrison in Nineteenth Century.

Various attempts have been made, by omparing its area with that of modern cities, to estimate the population of Babylon. But on the lowest calculation it would be found, supposing it to have borne any considerable resemblance to one of our cities, to have had a population of 5,000,000, a supposition to which all but insuperable obstacles are opposed. The map of Asiatic Turkey shows that the extent of country around Babylon available for agricultural purposes must have been quite inadequate to supply the neces-sary demands for anything like such an immense population.

Perhaps, on the whole, we may estimate the population at from 1,000,000 to 1,200,000. This supposition derives support from the fact that Seleucia, with a population of 600,000 souls, is stated by Strabo and Pliny to have been about half the size of Babylon in the days of her greatest glory.
