According to a census report just out Oregon is one of the healthiest states in the Union, our annual death rate being a little less than ten to the thousand population, while the average of the United States is fifteen. Portland shows only nine and one-half. San Francisco and Los Angeles reach twenty. Savannah, Georgia, must be a good place to die in, as the death rate reaches the high-water mark of thirty-four to the thousand.

FOR THE CHILDREN

His Keynote of Success.

"There's nothing like giving a boy a little encouragement once in awhile," said a wealthy down town merchant the other day. "I know I owe a great deal to a remark a crabbed old farmer made to me when I was quite small.

"I was trying to split a cross grained hickory log, and as our wood pile was close by the roadside my efforts attracted the notice of a farmer, who stopped his team.

"I was greatly flattered by his attention, because he was the crossdest and surliest man in town and never took any notice of us boys except to sit in his orchard with a shotgun in his hand when the apples were ripe. So I put in my best licks and covered my hands with blisters, but the log refused to split. I hated to be beaten, but there was no help for it. The old man noticed my chagrin.

"Hump! I thought you'd have to give it up!" he said, with a chuckle.

"I made no reply, but the way that axhead went into that log was a revelation to me. As I drove it into the knots they yielded. There was a cheerful crackle, the gap widened, and soon the halves lay before me, and the farmer drove off discomfited.

"But I never forgot that scene. When I first went into business, I made mistakes, as every young man will do. But whenever I got caught in a doubtful enterprise I remembered that my friends were standing around waiting for the chance to say, 'I thought you'd have to give it up!'

"In spite of himself that old farmer gave me the keynote of my success.

"So you see that if a boy has any grit in him he is bound to profit by the right sort of encouragement, and in that connection, I may remark, a well placed sneer is often worth more than a barrel of taffy."

Spider and Sixpence.

A correspondent sends us a remarkable instance of adaptation of instinct in a trapdoor spider. Says the writer: "A friend of mine noticed near his camp a trapdoor spider run in front of him and pop into its hole, pulling the lid down as it disappeared. The lid seemed so neat and perfect a circle that the man stooped to examine it and found, to his astonishment, that it was a sixpence! There was nothing but silk thread covering the top of the coin, but underneath mud and silk thread were coated on and shaped convex, as usual. The coin had probably been swept out of the tent with rubbish." Commenting on this, a contributor to Nature says: "As is well known, the doors of trapdoor spiders' burrows are typically made of flattened pellets of earth stuck together with silk or other adhesive material. The unique behavior of the spider in question showed no little discrimination on her part touching the suitability as to size, shape and weight of the object selected to fulfill the purpose for which the sixpence was used."

My Lady's Tresses.

The prettiest decoration for the hair at the present time seems to be pearls, strings of which are twisted neatly and artistically amid its coils. The effect is particularly pleasing when the wearer has dark hair and is possessed of a good complexion, says Home Notes.

Though this form of decoration for evening dress is spoken of as a novelty, it is in reality a very old fashion, as may be easily proved by a glance at a book of beauty or an inspection of the portraits of our ancestresses.

By the bye, the pearls need not be real. Indeed, it would be far better that they should not be so, as contact with the hair would be likely to destroy their beauty.

She Didn't Wear a Mask.

But her beauty was completely hidden by sores, blotches and pimples till she used Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Then they vanished, as will all eruptions, fever sores, boils, ulcers, carbuncles and felons from its use. Infallible for cuts, corns, burns, ulcers and piles. Cure guaranteed. 25c at City Drug Store.

Oil for the Children.

Give them oil—cod-liver oil. It's curious to see the result.

Give it to the peevish, fretful child, and he laughs. Give it to the pale, anemic child, and his face becomes rosy and full of health. Take a flat-chested child, or a child that has stopped growing, give him the oil, and he will grow big and strong like the rest.

This is not a new scheme. It has been done for years. Of course you must use the right oil. Scott's Emulsion is the one.

Scott's Emulsion neither looks nor tastes like oil because we are so careful in making it pleasant to take.
