BRIEF MENTION.

How about that wood you promised to bring us.

Bananas, oranges and lemons can always be found at Wetterer's.

Trespass notices, printed on cloth, on sale at THE TIMES Printing House.

The Jewish people celebrated their new year Friday, the 5662d year, according to their calendar.

In spite of his capacity for hard work the elephant seldom, if ever sleeps more than four or five occasional hours.

With six children in the White House the staid old servants of the establishment will get a sure-enough taste of the strenuous life.

A large quantity of newspapers, suitable for wrapping, pasting on walls, putting under carpets, etc., can be obtained cheap in quantities to suit, at THE TIMES Printing House.

The celebrated Soap Shot, the best medicine in the world for allaying inflammation in man or beast, can be found at Dr. Robinson's drug store, also at Dr. Hinkle's, Central Point. Try it.

Theodore Roosevelt became president before his 33d birthday, at an earlier age than any other president. Grant became president at 47, Cleveland at 48, Pierce and Garfield at 49, Tyler at 51. The oldest at succession was the first Harrison, aged 68.

Have you a sense of fullness in the region of the stomach after eating? If so you will be benefited by using Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They also cure belching and sour stomach. They regulate the bowels too. Price, 25 cents. Sold by City Drug Store.

During a very severe hailstorm recently, which was destroying the vineyards at Hoyden, in the canyon of Zurich, Switzerland, a battery of artillery fired twenty rounds with the result that the hail ceased and consequently the vines were saved from destruction.

The deadly plague continues to devastate India. If life was not held so cheaply in that crowded, overpopulated country, the figures would be alarming. A Simla dispatch says there were 6386 deaths from the plague last week, against 4822 in the preceding week and 1136 in the corresponding week last year.

Many physicians are prescribing Kodol Dyspepsia Cure regularly, having found that it is the best prescription they can write, because it is the one preparation which contains the elements necessary to digest not only some kinds of food but all kinds and it therefore cures indigestion and dyspepsia, no matter what its cause. City Drug Store, Jacksonville, and Dr. J. Hinkle, Central Point.

Czolgosz's trial was one of the speediest on record. It was begun on Monday and the jury found a verdict of murder in the first degree the next day, in a few minutes after retiring. He was sentenced to death by electrocution, and in thirty days the judgment of the court will be carried out. Czolgosz desired to plead guilty; but according to law such a plea could not be accepted.

Now that he is a United States senator, Chauncey M. Depew is not hearing as many nice things said about him as was the case during the years he devoted more attention to sociability and business, and less to partisan politics. It was predicted that sending Depew to the Senate would spoil a good railroad man and accomplish little in the way of making a statesman. This prophecy seems likely to be fulfilled. Depew was a far wiser man out of politics than he ever will be in.

SELF SUPPORTING WOMEN

Cannot afford to be sick, they say. So, very often, they struggle along and keep up, where other women go to bed. To such women the value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is beyond computation. It cures the common cause of ill-health in woman, derangement or dis-ease of the womanly organs. A temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 88 West College Street, Jacksonville, Ill. "For three years I suffered continually. Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none, until induced by kind friends to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I began taking this medicine I weighed ninety pounds. After taking 'Favorite Prescription' I was built up until now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pains in the lower part of my bowels, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work, and am a strong and healthy woman. Thanks to your medicine. I consider myself a living testimonial of the benefits of your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION
MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG AND SICK WOMEN WELL

OF THE FORTY-NINE

BY BARREY PAIN.

"No," said Lord Delsamere in his habitually plaintive voice; "I don't like it at all. The possession of wealth or position is far from being a blessing. You are obscured by it. Your real personality gets, so to speak, sunk. You never know if anybody thinks about you as he seems to think. In fact, you're generally pretty sure that he doesn't. You never know where you stand in the estimate of the people you meet. Of course when I am among my relations and intimate friends they do speak pretty plainly, but I never get the general effect. In ordinary enjoyable company a title makes a pariah of a man. If people are civil to him, he feels that they are being civil to the title. If they are not civil, they are merely showing their independence. The real man is outside it all, lonely and distrustful. I fancy that great wealth acts in much the same way, though here I cannot speak from experience. Target, here, could tell us."

Target was wealthy by reason of the Wynfield braces—"comfort, lightness and durability; buttons superseded; once worn always worn"—and he was a lean, dried up man. He responded hesitatingly to the appeal:

"I don't want merely to be taken for what I am. I've had some, you know. When I was a boy and swept out the shop, I was taken exactly that way. This is much pleasanter. Everybody's very friendly, and I don't bother myself much with asking why they are friendly."

"Don't you see when men make up to you for what they can get or when mothers hunt you for their daughters?" "Yes; I see. And the men don't get, and the mothers don't catch. But it's much more enjoyable than if I had the feeling that I was not a person that people wanted to have anything to do with. I like it."

"Then you're living in a fool's paradise. I appeal to Trench. What do you think about it, Trench?" "You've made it impossible for me to tell you."

"How?" "I couldn't tell you without speaking plainly, even rudely. Then you would merely suppose that I was so impressed with the splendors of a more or less bankrupt Irish peer that I felt that I had to assert my independence."

His lordship winced slightly. "Please go on. I was not referring to present company, of course. The truth's healthy. I want it. Do say what you like."

"I've always thought that about 49 out of every 50 personalities do not matter in the least. Practically they are not personalities. They are blank. They may differ slightly from one another, but the difference is of no importance. As long as those 49 keep themselves clean and behave nicely and legally and have got enough food and clothes I don't see any reason why one should think about them at all. You and Target are two of the 49 blank personalities. Perhaps Target has a shade more of the breath of life in him than you have, but the difference is nothing to make a fuss about. How can people like you be valued for yourselves alone. You have got no selves—none worth mentioning. You are merely the insipid and colorless proprietors of a set of circumstances. People can't judge the nonexistent, therefore they judge the circumstances instead. You can see it in Target's case. They judged the shop sweeping circumstances. Since then they have adjusted their opinions with every change until now they judge the millionaire circumstances. They don't judge Target, because there is no Target—none appreciable. And what are they to do with Lord Delsamere? You profess to believe in a universal spirit of snobbery. I don't see what else people can do with you. There is no specimen, and so they regard the label, which happens to be a very good label. But if you could provide them with anything else to look at they would look at it. The trouble is that you constitutionally can't. If you ask me to settle the point of your discussion, I can only say that you're both absurdly wrong. You are not judged, because there is no you. If Target chooses to like the judgment that is passed on his circumstances, I think he's a shade wiser than you there. We are not here long, and it's as well to enjoy it while it lasts—if one can."

"Cantankerous beggar, that," said Lord Delsamere when Trench had gone. "I'm told he's coming up for election. I shall blackball him."

"He was elected yesterday," said Target.—Black and White.

Fighting the Hessian Fly.

The Hessian fly that has developed in the spring from the maggot that lived all winter in the roots of the wheat plant deposited its eggs on the blades of the wheat, and these during the early summer reach the maggot stage and may be found in the first joint of the stalk, says Colman's Rural Worker. Many of these have not developed into the fly when the grain is harvested and may therefore be destroyed by burning the stubble.

Nonproducing Fruit Trees.

Vigorous trees which fail to produce fruit may be grafted with fruit buds from other trees during August and September. The following season fruit will be produced. This is the result of tests made in Germany.

One Dog's Funeral.

With much ceremony and many manifestations of grief a pet fox terrier, the property of two daughters of a wealthy New Yorker, was buried in a fancy sealed coffin on a beautiful knoll overlooking the Housatonic river, and an expensive tablet will be erected to mark the grave.

The terrier belonged to the Misses A. and M. Harris, whose father owns a fine summer residence in Zoar Bridge, a hamlet seven miles from Derby, Conn. The dog died in New York, and the young ladies, accompanied by F. S. O'Connor, a friend, who acted as undertaker and sexton, arrived from New York. In the baggage car was the coffin which contained the body of their pet.

The party was driven to the Bassett House for dinner. In the afternoon the coffin was opened, and a last look was taken at the dead pet. Then the funeral party went to Mr. Harris' country home. On a knoll which is a part of the estate on the green bank of the river the dog was interred with as much solemnity as would attend the funeral of a child.

The Owl.

Get a peanut with as large a top to it as possible. Paint or mark on each side with your pen a round black spot where the eye should be. Make little marks on the shell to indicate feathers. To make wings use a small piece of common tissue paper, which you must cut in the shape of wings and spatter with ink. Paste these wings on the back of the peanut. Make the eyes of little round pieces of silver or white paper and stick a pin through them, with which you can then fasten the eyes to the peanut at the black spot. You must now get a little twig and fasten the peanut to it by running two pins through the branch. Thus you will be able to make a very fair specimen of the owl tribe.

Jennie's Boots.

Jennie's boots were wearing out, and, holding up her foot to her mother so that she might see the sole hanging loose, she said: "Look, mamma, the skin's coming off my boot."

You Can Lead a Horse

to water but you can't make him drink.

You can't make him eat either. You can stuff food into a thin man's stomach but that doesn't make him use it.

Scott's Emulsion can make him use it. How? By making him hungry, of course. Scott's Emulsion makes a thin body hungry all over. Thought a thin body was naturally hungry didn't you? Well it isn't. A thin body is asleep—not working—gone on a strike. It doesn't try to use its food.

Scott's Emulsion wakes it up—puts it to work again making new flesh. That's the way to get fat.
