Rat Catching on Board Ship. Chatting with some friends recently the captain of a big freight steamer now taking on cargo at this port told some queer stories about rats, says a reporter of the New Orleans Times has to be used in setting them, for a ship rat is a very cunning beast, and he will steer clear of decoys that his landlubber brothers walk into with their eyes wide open. If we simply baited the traps in the ordinary way and left them about in the hold, we wouldn't catch a dozen in a year. Our plan is this: On the first night we open the trap doors and tie them in that position with bits of string, so they can't possibly spring shut. Then we put scraps of old cheese inside and leave them until the following evening. That's to reassure the rats that the strange wire contrivances are perfectly harmless and that they may enter in with a certainty of getting out again. The next night we renew the bait and take off the strings, and, as a general and left them about in the hold, we thing, we catch all that the cages will hold. I have seen them so full that it seemed impossible to get another rat inside, which is pretty good evidence, as I take it, that they can't communicate with each other and give the alarm. There is nothing new about the trick I describe. It is practiced on all big ships when the rats get too bad."

> This wonderful bird lives in India. It has a beak shaped very much like a shoemaker's awl. The little bird is entirely yellow in color and is only three inches long. It derives its name from the way in which it makes its nest. It selects a large leaf hanging from the end of a twig, then it pierces a number of holes along the edge of it with this > awllike beak and then gets the long fibers of plants, which make excellent thread, and carefully sews the edges to gether like a purse or bag, using its bill for a needle to carry the thread through The ends of the thread are knotted so as to entirely prevent them from slipping through the leaf. The stalk end of the leaf is bent and crushed so as to form a hood over the opening of the nest, protecting it from the sun and the rain. But what is very strange, when the leaf is not large enough to make terior of the nest is lined with cotton and silky grass, making a very snug and comfortable home for the little birds. The bird and its nest full of eggs are so very light that they can be sus pended from the end of a slender twig Would it not be interesting to watch this little tailor selecting the leaves and the thread and then piercing the holes

Coloring of Flowers. A florist says that the law governing the coloring of flowers makes a blue rose impossible. According to this law the three colors red, blue and yellow never all appear in the same species of flowers. Any two may exist, but never the third. Thus we have the red and yellow roses, but no blue; red and blue verbenas, but no yellow; yellow and blue in the various members of the viola family (as pansies, for instance), but no red; red and yellow gladioli, but no blue, and so on.

Rubber Plants.

Many plant growers become annoyed because the older leaves at the tase of their rubber plants turn yellow and fall off. This is a natural process. It does not indicate any defect in the plant. It is simply the ripening of the old follage, which cannot be retained indefinitely. Sometimes, however, the loss of foliage results from the want of root room, but in such cases the plants refuse to grow.

are believed to follow the practice of taking one's meals in solitary state.

The topic is by no means an uninter-company. Week in and week out they feed themselves without a soul to talk to, and the medical journal devotes its energies to showing that the practice is not one that is likely to be conducive to digestion, to proper bodily nourishment or to health. The solitary man

Gentlemen: — Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain
