"NERVE WASTE"

One of the most helpful books on nerve weakness ever issued is that entitled "Nerve Waste," by Dr. Sawyer, of San Francisco, now in its fifth thousand. This work of an experienced and reputable physician is in agreeable contrast to the vast sum of false teaching which prevails on this interesting subject. It abounds in carefully considered and practical advice, and has the two great merits of wisdom and sincerity.

The book is $1 by mail, postpaid. One of the most interesting chapters—chapter XX, on Nervines and Nerve Tonics—has been printed separately as a sample chapter, and will be sent to any address for stamp, by the publishers, THE PACIFIC PUB. CO., Box 2658, San Francisco.

NEW SHORT STORIES

Charity of Dan Rice. The circus has not always been considered a desirable adjunct to the church, and it must have been a desperate situation that tempted a group of Indiana women to seek aid in such a quarter.

It happened at a time when the famous Dan Rice was trying to steer his circus through financial breakers. He had got as far as Vincennes, and there one day in a melancholy mood he was standing in front of the tent figuring on the prospect of getting out of town at all and gloomily listening to disparaging comments on his hand by the townfolk when he was approached by a party of ladies, one of whom said:

"Colonel Rice, we have always heard of you as a very charitable man. Unfortunately our church has been damaged and needs a new roof. We thought you might be willing to subscribe toward it."

The humor of the situation appealed to the old showman. Here he was, without a dollar he could call his own, asked to contribute to charity. He pulled a nickel out of his pocket and said with the utmost gravity:

"Ladies, this may appear to you a small amount, but it represents all the money I possess. However, I believe heartily in the cause you are pleading, and I shall not utterly refuse your request. I promise you that if this show does any business here I will not only contribute toward repairing your church, but I will put a new roof on it."

For one reason or another—perhaps the ladies might explain it—the two performances that day netted so large a sum that the old showman was enabled to pay his way to the next town and the church to rejoice in a new roof.

How Our Ancestors Quarreled. A study of mediæval rural life is apt to give the impression that the principal part of the life of the people was spent in quarreling or in the commission or prosecution of offenses.

Such entries, frequently occurring, in addition to the innumerable instances of individual attack, slander, petty theft and other immorality seem to show a community of far from perfect virtue.—Lippincott's.

A Good Cough Medicine. [From the Gazette, Toowomba, Australia.] I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. WOCKNER.

This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by City Drug Store.

It is reported from the City of Mexico that Senor Sabino Osuna has invented an ingenious and yet seemingly very simple affair styled the "Contador Rapido Siglo XX" (twentieth century rapid calculator). The apparatus, which resembles the ancient Chinese counting machine, is for the purpose of rapid computation.

New York state has more cows than Pennsylvania and New Jersey combined and more than any other one state in the Union, Iowa being second, Illinois third and Wisconsin fourth. The entire number of cows in the states and territories in the exact census figures is 16,262,306, with a total valuation of $514,512,106.

The beaver, the staple fur of the French regime, is now becoming scarce and its price varies greatly according to fashion. Even the skin of the In-offensive rabbit has now a positive market value, as it is dressed, clipped and dyed a deep brown, almost black, and then becomes what is called "electric seal," much in vogue for ladies' jackets.

The trees now growing on the farm near Franklin, N. H. where Daniel Webster was born are to be cut up into friction matches, a manufacturing company having paid $2,800 for the standing timber upon it. The legislature of New Hampshire refused at its last session to pay $3,000 for the entire farm, though many patriotic citizens of the state petitioned to have it preserved as a perpetual memorial of New Hampshire's great son.

An exciting scene was witnessed in the Romita ring during a bullfight on bicycles. Two of the chulos pulled the banderillos, or short stabbing sticks, into the necks of the bulls. When the second bull entered the ring, Jose Barurto, maneuvering his bicycle cleverly, placed the sticks with great daring, while his comrade coolly sat on his wheel, which was propped to stand upright in the ring. Luckily the bull paid no attention to him.

Up His Sleeve. At the battle of Omdurman a soldier belonging to a Scotch regiment was nearly killed by a bullet which struck the ground just in front of him while he was firing in a reclining position. On rising to move a few feet forward, something came down his sleeve. It was the bullet. How it got up his sleeve without inflicting damage can only be accounted for by the fact that it must have been spent by the time it struck the ground in front of him and the course of its flight up his sleeve was its last flight.
