H. K. Hanna, one of the judges of the above entitled court; which order was made in chambers at Jacksonville, Jackson County, Oregon, Dec. 2, 1901.

A. E. REAMES,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

Scrofula THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAINT.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive sores, and abscesses and oftentimes white swelling—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, but the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasteful, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Sells, its Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "My daughter, six years ago, fell and cut the side of her face becoming swollen and burst. Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any benefit. We decided to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

SSS makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula. It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent the disease doing further damage.

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Game of Postman.

Boys and girls of every age will find the game of postman immensely entertaining. The only thing to prepare for it is a list of cities and towns equal to the number of players. One of the players is selected as the postman. Having removed as much of the furniture from the room as possible, arrange chairs around the walls and there must be no empty chair. This is essential.

The postmaster gives to each player the name of a city or a town and then blindfolds the postman and places him in the center of the room. The postmaster himself stands where he can overlook the players. Everything being ready, the postmaster begins the game by saying, for example, "I have sent a letter from New York to Boston." The moment he has spoken, the players representing New York and Boston respectively get up and move quickly to change places. It is the object of the blindfolded postman to catch one of them as they run or to take possession of one of their chairs. If he succeeds in doing either, the player he has caught or whose chair he has taken has to become postman.

The postmaster is not changed unless he becomes tired. If you get a good one, keep him, for much depends on the readiness with which he calls the mails between the cities. This is the jolliest kind of game, and there is just enough romping in it to do boys and girls a lot of good.

Fatally Sundered.

Edgar—in Chicago, Eustacia, the housewives keep their cooks by treating them as equals.
Eustacia—Oh, it's too late, Edgar, too late! Cook wouldn't recognize me as her equal if I gave her a "tea" every afternoon in the week.—Detroit Free Press.

Don't Live Together.

Constipation and little never go together. DeWitt's Little Early Risers promote easy action of the bowels without distress. "I have been troubled with costiveness nine years," says J. O. Green, Depauw, Ind. "I have tried many remedies but Little Early Risers give best results." City Drug Store, Jacksonville, and Dr. J. Hinkle, Central Point.

Sensible Sleeves in Vogue.

A greater contrast between the sleeves of five years ago and those of today can scarcely be imagined. Their women were regular arm balloons which if properly manipulated ought to have settled the flying machine problem once and for all, but finally they resolved themselves into more sensible proportions until one can now pretty nearly guess at the contour of the arm. The new sleeves, however, are anything except tight and plain from shoulder to wrist. At the elbow or somewhere below it they begin to full out. You may have a deep cuff turned back at the elbow and the sleeve then fitted from elbow to wrist. And the portion between wrist and elbow may be of a material quite different from the upper part, as lace or chiffon or embroidered satin. Or the cuff may turn back widely anywhere between the elbow and wrist.

A Smart Black Gown.

A notion that bears the impress of elegant motif is a soft black gown of casimere lince, eolienne crepe or muslin cloth trimmed with coarse colored lace, the lace carried in long lines from throat to feet and down the back of sleeves, slightly puffed at the wrist. Behind the lace is placed a lining of white taffeta. The best belovéd lace in this deep tint is composed of a sort of drawn thread embroidery. There is a perfect rage for this on the continent, where entire gowns are created of it mounted over white taffetas. What supreme heights of daintiness cannot the needle attain nowadays! Truly it is a craft of most cunning capabilities, one that enables us to individualize, specialize and generally excel.

A Cure for Lumbago.

W. C. Williamson of Amherst, Va., says: "For more than a year I suffered from lumbago. I finally tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it gave me entire relief, which all other remedies had failed to do." Sold by City Drug Store.

Cancer and X Rays.

Recently it was suggested that the X rays or the Finlen light cure might be found effective as a remedy for cancer. The experiment has lately been made. Andrew Clark records a case of chronic cancer of the breast which was so treated. The patient was a woman sixty years of age, and the mischief had been extending for a long period "until the whole breast was replaced by a huge ulcer." The patient, having declined operative treatment, was subjected to an application of the X rays five days a week for fifteen minutes each day, and at the end of six months the general condition had improved, the pain had lessened, and the ulcer had healed and become smaller.—London Telegraph.

Constitution in France.

Every Frenchman is said to be or to have been a monarchist, and a recent census of the French press would seem to bear out this. Paris can boast just now of nearly eight journals, of which 12 were started in 1880. The dailies number 140, the weeklies 781 and the monthlies 143. In the provinces there are 3,849, or 125 fewer than at the census of the preceding year. The patriarch of all is the Gazette de France, which was founded in 1631. As regards the number of Paris dailies, it should be mentioned that some of the 140 exist only in title, for in several instances the same matter is utilized under different names.—Athensum.

Safe Occupation.

Bridget, the pretty young maid of all work employed in a Boston family, confided to her mistress when taking service that she had lately become engaged to be married. She stated, however, that she and Tim would have to wait two years, and in the meantime she wished to be earning money.

When Tim made his first call one evening, the family remarked that they had never known so quiet a man. The sound of Bridget's voice rose now and then from the kitchen, but Tim's words were apparently few and far between.

"Tim is not much of a talker, is he, Bridget?" said the mistress of the house the next morning. "I should scarcely have known there was any one with you last evening."

"He'll talk more when we've been engaged a while longer, I'm thinking, ma'am," said little Bridget. "He's too bashful yet to do anything but eat, ma'am, when he's wid me!"—Youth's Companion.

Getting Around It.

Local—I am writing a short notice about the appointment of our townsman Lakwit to the position of town auditor. I really can't say that he has any fitness for the place, and yet on personal grounds I prefer to associate his name with the appointment in some complimentary way.

Editor In Chief—Why can't you speak of him as a man of rare good judgment? I am sure there is no one of our acquaintance in whom good judgment is so rare.—Richmond Dispatch.

It Got There Just the Same.

Mabel—Such a joke on Mr. Gayboy! We were out on the balcony between the dances, and he got the sleeve of his dress coat all over red paint from one of the posts that were just painted.
Maud—And did you go near the post?
Mabel—No, Why?
Maud—Because you have red paint all over the back of your waist.—Harlem Life.

Of Benefit to You.

D. S. Mitchell, Fulford, Md.: "During a long illness I was troubled with bed sores, was advised to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, and it did me such wonderful results. I was perfectly cured. It is the best salve on the market." Sure cure for piles, sores, burns. Beware of counterfeits. City Drug Store, Jacksonville, and Dr. J. Hinkle, Central Point.

Cured.

The following is a Chinese joke:
In a certain house there was a baby that annoyed every one by its continual squalling. At last a physician was called in. He administered a bolus of the soothing virtues of which he had a high opinion and offered to pass the night in the house to observe the effects of his remedy. After a few hours, hearing no noise, he exclaimed: "Good! The child is cured!" "Yes," replied the attendant, "the child has indeed stopped crying, but the mother has begun to mourn."

A Cheap Toothbrush.

One of the most curious plants in the world is the toothbrush plant, a species of creeper which grows in Jamaica. By cutting a piece of the stem and fraying the ends the natives make a toothbrush.

Nature.

Nature is the good fairy, human nature the bad. Nature made the world for all; human nature has made it for the few.—London Truth.

Vital Question.

Ethel—Yes, I am a great admirer of Mrs. Roosevelt.
Tom (eagerly)—Can you dress on $300 per year?—Chicago News.

Saturday's Work.

All some men do on Saturday is to get shaved.—Acheson Globe.
