FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Unshaded Candles.
The use of unshaded candles is not likely to be a long one, says the New York Evening Post. It grew out of the popularity of the Jerusalem candlestick, whose classic design attracted from its artistic effect. Naturally these candlesticks do not lend themselves to shades, and so the unprotected flame became the proper manifestation of candle decoration. Hostesses find, however, that not only is the shadeless candle often dangerous, but it soon becomes unsightly, and its big, flickering flame steadily before the eye is unpleasant and fatiguing. The other afternoon at a gathering of clubwomen in a fashionable drawing room a large seven branched candlestick held in a straight row seven tall lighted candles of bright green. The candlestick stood on a polished table and just at one side of a jar of rich brown glaze holding a mass of flowering twigs. These leaned over pretty near to the candle flame, but when that flame was perfectly upright and high it safely cleared the twigs. The speaker of the afternoon stood at the other side of the table, but her half hour's talk was greatly interfered with by those seven sisters of light. As the wicks burned free the tall flames grew more and more supple and stretching. With every movement of the speaker a current of air was set in motion that sent the flames reaching out to the twigs in most distracting fashion. Candle shades grow too elaborate, and many of them are far from being artistic or effective, but in their best form and properly protected with mica protectors they seem to be, on the whole, much more satisfactory than unshaded candles.

A Washing Machine.
Leonard B. Brooks has invented a washing machine to work with the old fashioned tub. It is an improved adaptation of the clothes pounder of the long ago which it was customary to use in connection with a small cask, to hammer the dirt out of the clothes instead of rubbing them by hand. The pounding head is still used in the new invention, but with this improvement, that it has a spring to lift the head after each stroke, thus eliminating full ly half of the labor of operating the machine. The washer is clamped on one side of a common washtub and when not in use can be swung out of the way, thus leaving the tub open for the rinsing of the garments as they are removed from the water. When the washing is finished, the machine can be folded up and placed inside the tub or may be suspended from a nail in the basement or stairway.

Makes Money With Canning Outfit.
I bought a canning outfit of an agent. It is used on the cook stove or outdoors in the shed. I buy cans from a manufacturer by the hundred and can all kinds of fruits, berries and vegetables. Label them nicely with beautiful lithograph labels, which cost a mere trifle, and they are ready for market. I have no trouble to sell at a good price all I can put up. The demand is greater than the supply. I also raise turkeys and chickens for market. Have two incubators and am very successful, but make more money with less work with canned goods than with poultry. Corn, beans and tomatoes are always a sure crop, and it is seldom our fruit fails entirely; consequently we always have something to can during summer and autumn. I seldom, if ever, lose a can.—Cora B. Eaton La Practical Farmer.

To Beautify the Cottage Walls.
Each spring brings forth charming new designs in wall paper, and the country cottager has the joy of finding the cheap papers in as dainty designs and good colors as the heavier and more costly wall coverings. Green is still the favorite color for drawing rooms, although white is also much in request, and a beautiful bronze green satin Louis XVI. paper is gracefully festooned with flowers in a lighter shade of green. Equally lovely is a rose Du Barry pink striped with wide lines in a deeper tint, while dainty baskets of flowers in a pale pink are tied with Louis XVI. bows. These papers look best framed in panels of white, with Carton Pierre decorations and a white frieze festooned with flowers in high relief. A beautiful white satin paper has Louis XVI. bows trailing over it, and on the white frieze festoons of pink roses looped up by bows of blue ribbons.
For a dining room a handsome paper shows a conventional design in rich red. This has a white dado in imitation of woodwork; a white frieze also in high relief. The newest paper for staircases has a ground of slate blue, with large conventional thistles in a paler shade picked out with touches of coral pink, cream and dull gold.
For bedrooms there are the prettiest dabbers—copies of old chintzes. Tropical birds and almond blossoms on a white satin ground is one charming design, another shows roses entwined with blue ribbons, and very charming is one with huge single pink roses climbing over a gray trellis.

The Window Garden.
The first essential of a successful window garden is stocky, well grown plants, ready and willing to grow and blow, instead of things forced, unhealthy, into overluxuriance of bloom and leaf.

Indeed an indoor window garden may be made a continuing delight. A bay window is best for it, but any deeply embrasured one will answer.

Do not have shelves across it. Set some tall, handsome plant upon the floor, a little to one side, and hang from the casing overhead upon the other side a basket of trailing green—German Ivy, asparagus fern or any light, graceful vine.

Screw folding arm brackets, with flowerpot holders at the ends of the arms, irregularly up and down the window casing upon either side; then shift pots and plants about, trying them in all combinations until satisfied with the result.

The bottom of the window recess should be fitted with a light zinc tray coming out several inches wider than the recess. In this mass stand plants about the main one, either as foliage or accessories.
