SENATOR HANNA'S effort to prevent the Ohio convention from endorsing Roosevelt left its scar, and it is now claimed in well-informed circles that Senator Lodge is to be chairman of the next Republican National Committee. Senator Foraker and other friends of the President will control the campaign.

WHEN the interviewer asked Grover Cleveland if he would be a candidate for a third term, the "ex" replied that nothing could induce him to re-enter public life. When the reporter announced that Grover was not a candidate, the retired one rushed into print to say that he had never given that reporter any cause to say so.

A SPECIAL AGENT of the interior department hasbeen ordered to supervintend removal of all fences in any way inclosing government lands in Eastern Oregon. In Sherman county alone, it is asserted, one hundred thousand acres are lying illegally inclosed. Altogether half a million acres of public land are held under fence by Eastern Oregon cattle kings.

THE twenty-first international biennial convention of the Society of Christian Endeavor is to be held at Denver, July 9-13, and will probably excel all that have gone before. Every preparation has been made for comfort of visitors, and there will be ample accommodation for all. The headquarters for the Oregon delegates will be the Second Congregational church, East Thirty-first and Downing avenues.

WHEN it comes to dollars the people of Seattle are very swift. They kept a wide-open town for many years, and had numerous public gambling houses running day and night, where the games never closed and where strangers were robbed "according to program," as Browneli would say. Now they have conspired to have all the saloons closed at the Bremerton navy yard, so the sailors and workmen will come over to Seattle to blow in their money.

SUNSET is published monthly by the Passenger Department of Southern Pacific, 4 Montgomery street, San Francisco, California. The subscription price is one dollar a year, ten cents a copy. Its circulation is world wide. It is the only magazine that faithfully tells, by pictures and text, of the wonders of the Nation's western border land. It is notable for the number and artistic merit of its engravings. Its contributors are among the best writers and illustrators in the country. It is edited by Charles Sedgwick.

A LETTER received from high authority from St. Petersburg, tells of a conflict between the Czar and high dignitaries of Russia. The minister of foreign affairs last week resigned because the Czar scathingly commented on the Jewish massacre at Kishineff. The Czar refused to accept the resignation, but insisted that the minister should keep his ministerial colleagues under better control. The minister replied that he was unable to to do this, owing to intrigues not only in government offices but in the palace itself. It is suggested that the Czar will dismiss two members of the cabinet, and sensational developments are expected.

THE second shipment of rails for the Southern Pacific's Oregon lines was received by the Ocklen, which arrived direct from Hamburg. She carried 500 tons of 80-pound steel rails, or sufficient to lay 40 miles of new track. This is the second shipment of rails received at Portland, though one steamship has carried a cargo to San Francisco for use on the Portland-San Francisco lines of the company. A total of five shipments is expected by the company, and will be received as fast as the new rails can be laid. The rails received earlier have all been put down, and the work of reballasting and surfacing the tracks has been completed.

THE first work at Heppner is to clear away the debris and wreckage and disperse the germs of disease. When this is done the matter of rebuilding the town and providing homes for the unfortunates will be given more attention. That is the statement made by members of the committee looking after the relief fund which has been gathered at Portland. No report has as yet been made indicating the total that will be necessary to repair—as near as money can repair—the damage wrought by the flood; but gold given by charity continues to pour into Oregon's metropolis. It still seems probable that in the neighborhood of $30,000 will be realized in Portland alone before Heppner ceases to require aid.

Plenty of Work Necessary.

There is no doubt that this city has within its confines good material for an excellent base-ball team; but there is a grave doubt that the material is used with the judiciousness necessary to net good results. This bear arises from the failure of the really capable players to display when it comes to the test—not because the young men lack ability, an understanding of the game, or an appreciation of the wholesome sport. It is because they do not hustle when they have the opportunity to prepare to meet opponents on the diamond. The right kind of practice, and lots of it, is the essential factor toward any success, and our baseball players should bear that strictly in mind if they ever hope to win out.

AN IMPORTANT LAND RULING.

In a recent contest, arising in the State of Washington, the Secretary of the Interior holds that when the field notes and surveyor's returns make no notation whatever of minerals in public lands that have been surveyed, such lands are considered and treated as given a non-mineral classification by the surveyor. Further, that lands classified as nomineral at the time of the government survey are of the class of lands subject to selection in lieu of lands relinquished within forest reserves, and the character of the lands so classified and selected will not be investigated on a protest presented after the survey and selection, and alleging the present mineral character of the land.

The importance of this decision is manifest. In the case at issue the Northern Pacific Railway Company relinquished a tract in the Rainier Forest Reserve and selected in lieu thereof a tract of equal area in Montana. One year after the filing of this lieu selection a coal declaratory statement was offered by an individual for the tract selected, and was rejected because of prior selection by the railroad company. Investigation of the records disclosed the fact that while adjoining land has been reported by the surveyors as containing coal deposits no such reference was made to the tract in controversy. Therefore, the Secretary held the land to be classified as nonmineral. The man filing the coal declaratory statement went so far as to allege that the land would produce coal in commercial quantities. His allegations, however, were overruled, as the prior selection by the railroad company could not be affected by a filing made one year later. Hence the lieu selection was approved, notwithstanding the apparent mineral character of the lands. Had the lands been originally classified as coal lands, the railroad selection would have been rejected.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

In Memoriam.

Once more we are called upon to chronicle the death of one of our little friends. The grim messenger, Death, has visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Leever and taken their only daughter, Amy. She died at Central Point June 16th, aged 7 years, 10 months and 18 days. She was only sick one day with rheumatism of the heart. Modest in her manners, kind and obliging in all her ways, and possessed of a loving and sympathetic nature, she was a universal favorite with young and old.

Dear little Amy, she had hardly begun life when its storms and tempests were hushed in the stillness of death.

This is the first time this family has lost one of its loved ones, and the entire community sympathizes with the grief-stricken relatives.

Elder E. B. Lockhart conducted the funeral rites, and a large concourse of friends followed the remains to the Central Point cemetery, where they were tenderly laid to rest. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

For the Summer Home.

A bed made of woven reeds is new, and painted willow green, helps along the summer furnishing scheme for country homes. The head is rather higher than the foot and is closely woven, being finished at the corners with large balls, like the old-time fourposter.

The tete-a-tete chair this year has a small table between, with a shelf on the lower part. This helps along the spirit of congeniality the chair inspires, for one can sit and talk and sip the afternoon tea or take other light refreshments at ease.

Wicker furniture is coming this year in yellow, if one wishes it. The color is pleasing, not the least harsh or brilliant; just soft and sunshiny.

One can stain one's summer furniture this season any color desired to match particular rooms or color scheme.

Cuts, Bruises and Burns are Quickly Healed.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment, and when applied to cuts, bruises and burns causes them to heal without maturation and much more quickly than by the usual treatment. For sale by City Drug Store.

Cannery Prospects Good.

Chas. H. Pierce, of the Ashland Preserving Co., has his plant ready for the season's operations. Considerable improvement work in the way of re-arrangement and enlargement of the facilities at the big cannery building have been completed. He has contracted sufficient vegetables, as well as fruits and berries, to insure a long and successful run of the plant this season, says the Tidings.

The cannery is already being operated by a small force engaged in putting up cherries and strawberries, and there will be busy times hereafter with a steadily increasing force. Mr. Pierce proposes to greatly increase the variety of the cannery's output this season and is preparing to preserve every product of this valley for which he can create a demand in the markets.

Estabrook, Gold Hill the Leading Druggist.

The strawberry season has practically closed. The berries have been of fine quality, but the crop has been short this season owing to the dry weather. With twice the acreage of last year the product this season, has been only about half as large. The prices have been very good. Cherries are now the leaders in the fruit market, and they are of good quality. Black Tartarians are quoted at 75 cts. a crate and Royal Anne at $1 25.

A SPLENDID REMEDY.

Neuralgic pains, rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic pains yield to the penetrating influence of Ballard's Snow Liniment. It penetrates to the nerves and bone, and being absorbed into the blood, its healing properties are conveyed to every part of the body and effect some wonderful cures. Mr. D F. Moore, Agent Ill. Central Railway, Milan, Tenn., states: I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment for rheumatism, backache, etc., in my family. It is a spendid remedy. We could not do without it." 25c, 50c. and $1.00 at City Drug Store.

A Gigantic Enterprise.

T. J. Pearce, one of the leading spirits of the High Line ditch, spent Wednesday and Thursday in Medford. He speaks encouragingly of that enterprise, and says that it will be completed in due course of time, even if it is nearly 100 miles long. M. P. Ward, who is one of Mr. Pearce's colleagues, is in the East, enlisting the assistance of capitalists, and is meeting with a favorable response. J. S. Howard, the veteran civil engineer, is in charge of the work. Rights of way for nearly the whole distance from upper Rogue river to Gold Hill have been secured. The ditch is really a canal, which will have a breadth of 21 feet and be nine feet wide at the bottom and six feet deep. It will furnish water for mining and irrigation purposes to a very large area of Jackson county, to say nothing of providing means for putting lumber and other products at the railroad with speed and at small expense. The completion of this enterprise will consume $1 500,000. It is one of the most important ever contemplated in Southern Oregon and should receive every encouragement possible.

Bound for the Mines.

The Spokane Spokesman—Review of a recent issue produces a picture of a crowd of miners with picks, shovels, pockets full of stock, also rolls of blankets on their backs, headed "Hiking to the Blue Ledge," with the following lines underneath "Having developed some of the mining resources of Washington, British Columbia, Idaho, Montana and Eastern Oregon, the mining men of Spokane are now heading for Siskiyou county, California, to bring out the hidden wealth of that district." Since Patrick Clark took his $250,000 bond on the Blue Ledge there has been a stampede of Spokane mining men to there, including "Doc" J. F. Reddy, Van B. DeLashmutt, James Cronin, L. Roy Slater and representatives of Finch & Campbell, D. Wilson, Walter McCabe, Peter Larson and Olaus Jeldnes. The property is located just across the Oregon line, Jacksonville being the nearest trading point and Watkins the closest postoffice.

FARMERS, ATTENTION.

J. M. Hurley, the expert manipulator of harvesting machinery, will be on hand with a first-class threshing outfit, when the season opens. He spares no pains to please and does the best of work, as the many who have patronized him before will bear witness.

HERE AND THERE.

The Sacramento Record-Union has been sold to Alfred Holman, a well-known newspaper man, formerly of the Portland Oregonian.

Louis Huseman's new residence at Montague, Calif., will be a handsome structure of the Colonial style, with 10 rooms. N. E. Graves of Yreka is the architect. The cost will be about $5000.

The Kentucky colt Picket won the American Derby of 1½ miles at Chicago easily in 2:33, record time. There were 19 horses in the race, the purse being $32,275 and value to winner $27,025.

John A. Fairchild, public administrator of Siskiyou county (Calif.) and one of Yreka's most prominent citizens, died June 21st, aged 75 years. He came to the Pacific coast over 50 years ago.

Dr. J. F. Reddy and Messrs. Callahan, McFadden and Rodgers of Spokane have been at Happy Camp, Calif., lately, inspecting their copper properties, and are making preparations to commence work.

There is no method of preserving rubber except by keeping it in a damp place away from the air. Exposure to the air and dry atmosphere will kill the best of rubber. Oil of any kind is a deadly enemy.

A man suffering from gout in his nose has been a patient at Bellevue. He is Charles Scharff, a janitor. His nose has become greatly enlarged. The doctors were completely at sea for a diagnosis until they discovered gout in several joints of his limbs. It is the first case of the kind on record at the hospital.

A heretofore unmentioned horror of the Heppner disaster is in the fact that the bodies of three newly-born infants have been found. Four of the recovered dead were soon to become mothers. The first victim, Mrs. Hanby, living seven miles above Heppner, was one of them, and the young girl, Nora Florin, whose body was recovered far below town, was on her way from Hanby's ranch to summon Dr. Kisner when she was overtaken by the avalanche of water.

F. M. Knowles, treasurer of the New York National Base Ball Club lately, by accident, dropped a wallet containing $4,000 in bills on a Chicago hotel office floor, and did not discover his loss until a couple of hours afterward. He hastily retraced his steps until he entered the office, where he found a score or more of people lounging about in the chairs and settees, apparently reading newspapers, who, when he reached down to pick up his wallet, which was still lying on the floor, raised a howl of merriment and delight. It seems that they had, one by one, formed the very natural opinion that the purse was a trap for greenies, and had been having oceans of fun from those who had "bit," as as they supposed, at the bait. When the owner, however, opened the wallet and counted out $4,000 in token money there was no responsive shout of exultation.

Hide Your Hammer.

Don't knock. If there is a chance to boom business, boom it. Don't be a knocker. Don't pull a long face and get sour on your stomach. Hope a bit. Get a smile on you. Hold your head. Get a hold with both hands. Then pull. Bury your hatchet. Drop your tomahawk. Hide your little hammer. When a stranger drops in tell him this is the greatest town on earth. It is. Don't get mulish. Don't roast. Be jolly. Get popular. Help yourself along. Push your friend with you. Soon you'll have a whole procession. Be a good fellow.

No man ever helped himself by knocking other people down. No man ever got rich trying to make people believe that he was the only man on earth. You can't climb the ladder of fame by stepping on other people's corns.

All men are not alike. Once in a while you may find some very much a like. But many are different. If you don't like their style let them alone. Don't knock. You'll get use to it. There's no end of fun in minding your own business. And it makes other people like you better. Better have other people stuck on you than you get stuck on yourself. Nobody gets stuck on a knocker. Don't be one. Be good.

FISTS VERSUS DIRK KNIFE.

An Exciting Episode of Leadville In the Early Days.

Dan Whipple, who died last winter in Prescott, Ariz., was considered the best night marshal that Leadville ever had in the days when Leadville was dangerous to live in.

On one occasion in those bygone days Whipple went into Sam Tuthill's Angel Gabriel saloon. Things were quiet, the only other customer being a big mine timberman named Larry Coffey. He bore a hard name as a trouble hunter when in his cups, and on this night he was loaded to the muzzle. He nodded to Whipple, who did not notice him.

Shortly after a tenderfoot who had just struck Leadville with a mule train entered and called for a drink. Coffey walked over to him and said:

"Dance, son!" And out came both of Coffey's guns at the same time, and two bullets went through the floor about two inches from the tenderfoot's heels. "Go right ahead and dance it some, Willie."

The poor little chap's eyes were almost popping out of his head, and it didn't take him two seconds to begin gyrating around in an attempt to dance.

Coffey roared with the pure joy of the fun he was having, and after three or four minutes he had bored twelve holes in the saloon floor, the tenderfoot hopping up and down frantically meanwhile. Then Coffey put his guns down on the bar in order to get at his cartridge belt to reload. Whipple slipped between Coffey and the bar quick as a flash of light, and the night marshal stuck his face within two inches of Coffey's ragged red beard.

"Ombrey," said Dan to Coffey, "this yere is a peaceable camp, and it's a camp that's free to all hands that behave themselves. No man has got to dance anywhere in this camp after the sun goes down onless he wants to dance, and gun plays don't go while I'm around nohow. You've made your little gun play on this tenderfoot yere because, havin' a lot more rum under your belt than any man like you is goin' to carry on my beat, you think you're sort of puttin' it on me. Now you're goin' to take off your cap and beg that little snipe's pardon for givin' this camp a bad name, and then you're goin' to mosey to your shack, and you're goin' to do both of these things right now, quick and sudden."

Coffey leaped to one side and ripped out his dirk, hopped in and made a terrific lunge at Whipple's face.

Whipple's face wasn't there. He had dodged suddenly, and Coffey fell against the bar with the momentum of his lunge. When he turned around Whipple was in the middle of the saloon, weaponless and apparently content to be weaponless. Coffey made at him again and made another sweep of his dirk for Dan's head. He missed again, and the night marshal landed a hard one with his right fist on Coffey's jugular. Coffey winced, but he was a powerful man, and it took more than even one of Whipple's tremendous right handers to put him out.

The fight between the man with the dirk and the man with only a scientific pair of fists lasted for fully five minutes, Coffey striving desperately to land with his dirk and never so much as scratching Whipple, while every time he made a lunge he got a stunning wallop from one of the brawny fists of the night marshal.

COFFEY RIPPED OUT HIS DIRK.

Sam Tuthill would have shot Coffey from behind the bar, but he was afraid of hitting Whipple, the two men were circling about so swiftly. Finally when Coffey made one of his swift sweeps with his knife Whipple suddenly ducked, ran squarely between Coffey's legs and lifted the giant off his feet as easily as an ordinary man would hoist a sack of salt. Coffey came down on all fours, and Whipple twisted his right arm until the dirk dropped out of his nerveless grasp. With the dirk at the bully's throat Whipple made him repeat a groveling apology to the tenderfoot, who stood near, paralyzed with fear.

MAKING FORTUNES.

The Money of the Market Not For the Man With a Theory.

Fortunes have been made in the Chicago board of trade not by men who entered the market with a preconceived theory as to its course, which they attempted to make good through thick and thin, but rather by those who took things as they came, watching the drift, shaping their way from day to day, like prudent merchants, according to the current.

This is confusing to the novice, for the novice almost always comes in with a preconceived theory. Some time ago a young man with a large hope, a moderate fortune and considerable social prestige was shown the enormous possibilities in December pork. It looked absolutely convincing, but he called upon a great packer with whom he had a personal acquaintance. Yes; the packer thought very well of pork—was buying it, in fact. Thus doubly assured the young man bought. The market went his way, and he bought more. Then the market turned. The young man reviewed his convincing statistics, remembered the words of the packer and stood stubbornly upon his line. When he was getting near to the end of his margins, he was horrified to learn that his friend the packer had shifted to the other side of the market two weeks before. He visited him, recalled their conversation and explained the situation. The packer stared. "Do you mean you've been holding 2,500 barrels of pork all this time?" he demanded. "Yes," said the young man, "and I have it yet. Now, what can I do with it?" "I don't know," said the packer, "unless you can eat it."—Will Payne in Century.

Blue Ribbon State Fair.

The premium list of Oregon's "Blue Ribbon" state fair is now out and being distributed throughout the state. The premiums offered aggregate $12,000 in cash, and are for everything grown on the farm, including live stock, poultry, dairy products, agricultural and horticultural products, domestic and liberal arts, etc. Everyone is invited to bring something to the fair this year, and help advertise the State's resources. If you have not received one of the premium lists yet, write M. D. Wisdom, secretary, Portland, Ore., for one.

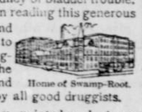
DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.



Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Do You Enjoy What You Eat?

You can eat whatever and whenever you like if you take Kodol. By the use of this remedy disordered digestion and diseased stomachs are so completely restored to health, and the full performance of their functions naturally, that such foods as would tie one into a double-bow-knot are eaten without even a "rumbling" and with a positive pleasure and enjoyment. And what is more—these foods are assimilated and transformed into the kind of nutriment that is appropriated by the blood and tissues.

Kodol is the only digestant or combination of digestants that will digest all classes of food. In addition to this fact, it contains, in assimilative form, the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all disorders arising therefrom.
