

OLD PEOPLE

Do not always receive the sympathy and attention which they deserve. Their ailments are regarded as purely imaginary, or natural and unavoidable at their time of life. Disease and infirmity should not be associated with old age. The eye of the gray haired grandparent may be as bright and the complexion as fair as any of his younger and more vigorous companions.

Good Blood is the secret of healthy old age, for it regulates and controls every part of the body. It strengthens the nerves, makes the muscles elastic and supple, the bones strong and the flesh firm; but when this life fluid is polluted or loses its nutritive, health sustaining elements, then there is a rapid decline of the vital powers, resulting in premature old age and disease. Any derangement of the blood quickly shows itself in an ailing, sore, wart, tumor or some other troublesome growth upon the body, and rheumatic and neuralgic pains become almost constant, accompanied with poor digestion and cold extremities.

S. S. S. being purely vegetable, is the safest and best blood purifier for old people. It does not shock or hurt the system like the strong mineral remedies, but gently and thoroughly cleanses the blood and stimulates the debilitated organs, when all bodily ailments disappear. S. S. S. is just such a tonic as old people need to improve a weak digestion and tone up the stomach. If there is any hereditary taint, or the remains of some disease contracted in early life, S. S. S. will search it out and remove every vestige of it from the system.

Write us fully about your case and let our physicians advise and help you. This will cost you nothing, and we will mail free our book on blood and skin diseases.

CURRENT COMMENT.

SUNSET is published monthly by the Passenger Department of the Southern Pacific, San Francisco. The subscription price is one dollar a year, ten cents a copy. Its circulation is world-wide. It is the only magazine that faithfully tells, by pictures and text, of the wonders of the Nation's western borderland. It is notable for the number and artistic merit of its engravings. Its contributors are among the best writers and illustrators in the country.

THE superintendent of a Portland system of street cars on which a hold-up took place about a month since, makes the surprising statement that immediately after the commission of the crime a police detective called on him and made the point-bank statement that unless the company paid the police department no investigation or effort to arrest the criminals would be made. The police enter denial. The lawlessness that afflicts the Oregon metropolis is sufficient of itself to make the public accept the superintendent's charge as true. A shameful state of affairs!

NEW YORK is the richest city in the world. Its aggregate wealth is more than a billion dollars greater than that of London. Its per capita wealth is more than twice as much as London's. These facts are more notable when it is considered that New York covers less than one-half the area of London and that the latter has been for hundreds of years the greatest trade center on earth. London exceeds New York in the number of houses, but thousands of them are holes more miserable than the worst of New York's rear tenements. Paris is the third city of the world in wealth and population.

ONE of the symptoms of the activity of the mining industry, and of the greater interest taken in its development, is the number of patents taken out for mining and metallurgical devices and processes. During the past year the number of patents of this kind has been steadily increasing, and as our readers will note from the page devoted to them, we have never before reported so many as since the opening of the present year. While it is true that many of these patents are of comparatively little value, the large number issued every week is certainly an indication of the amount of work done for the improvement of technical practice.

THREE mountain ranges traverse Oregon from north to south—the Coast, 10 to 20 miles from the ocean, having an extreme altitude of 4,000 feet; the Cascades, 100 to 150 miles wide, ranging in height from 6,000 to 12,000 feet, and dividing that state into Eastern and Western Oregon; and the Blue mountains, 3,000 to 10,000 feet, near the eastern boundary. Upon the slopes of these mountains and their spurs are the largest and most valuable timber tracts in the world, the output of lumber for 1902 being worth $10,000,000. Between each of the mountain ranges are millions and millions of acres of as productive land as can be found beneath the sun, the yield of wheat, oats, flax, barley and fruits leading every known region, both in quality and quantity.

FARM TENANTRY in the United States is on the increase. Census bureau statistics show that there were 2,026,286 farm tenants in the United States in 1900. The increase for the past 20 years is estimated at 97.7 per cent. These figures would indicate that there really is grave danger of landlordism in this country. At the present time more than a third of the farms in Kansas and Nebraska are operated by tenants. In view of this it behooves the government to jealously supervise the sale of the remaining public lands, especially in Oregon and other states and territories where irrigation is to be introduced on a large scale. For more than a year past land syndicates have resorted to all kinds of ruses to acquire possession of large tracts of land which, if put under irrigation, would be of value and promise.

The trouble with a hot wave, such as that in New York, is that little or no relief comes with the setting of the sun. The money in the market and buildings all around and no cooling breeze coming to relieve the panting millions, the nights are often more oppressive than the days. There is no opportunity to recover from the weakness and prostration of the working hours, and a community that has tossed through a sleepless night of torridity starts worn and wasted for another day's struggle. This is rarely experienced in Southern Oregon. However hot the day may have been, the evening, with its cooling temperatures, brings relief, and it is rare indeed that a night is too warm for refreshing sleep. People out here may grow occasionally when Old Sol is a little fiercer than usual; but in doing it they are as compared with those living in the heat-stricken east.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION. It is interesting to note that fortunes are frequently made by the invention of articles of minor importance. Many of the most popular devices are those designed to benefit the people and meet popular conditions, and one of the most interesting of these that has ever been invented is the Dr. White Electric Comb, patented Jan. 1, '99. These wonderful combs positively cure dandruff, hair falling out, sick and nervous headaches, and when used in connection with Dr. White's Electric Hair Brush, positively guaranteed to make straight hair curly in 25 days' time. Thousands of these electric combs have been sold in the various cities of the Union, and the demand is constantly increasing. Our agents are rapidly becoming rich selling these combs. They positively sell on sight. Send for sample. Men's size 35c, ladies' 50c—half price while we are introducing them. See Want Column of this paper. The Dr. White Electric Comb Co., Decatur, Ill.

Love and Buggy Riding. The proposition that buggy riding is conducive to tender feelings is self-evident. We don't see how it could very well help being so. When a young man in a spoolish hat and polka-dot socks drives up in his sidecar buggy in front of the house where she lives and she comes to the door all rigged out in things which we haven't time to enumerate, and trips down the front steps, and the young man just tosses her into the narrow seat and gets in beside her and taps the horse with the whip, while the buggy quivers like a thing of life and joy forever, and she snuggles up to him like a tame gazelle or a kitten to a hot brick, and does all in her power to soothe and sustain the tender feelings of the young man beside her, who doesn't know by this time but every minute will be the next one, we don't see why buggy riding should not be conducive of the tenderest feelings of any extent. Horse back riding is cold and distant. It is buggy riding that is conducive, and the longer the ride and the more lonely the road the more conducive it is.

Husbandly Courtesy Proves Expensive. Mrs. L. K. Wilson, who lives at Homecut, Cal., won her weight in silver at the late Weekly Examiner drawing.

When the lady was notified to get weighed she lost no time in doing so. It was ascertained that her weight was 111 pounds, from which she deducted five pounds for her clothing, making her weight 106 pounds. As the commercial value of silver is 52.75 cents per ounce, the lady received $61.36, which was a very welcome present.

At the time the Examiner canvassed called at the residence both Mr. Wilson and his wife were present, and the husband paid the money. When asked for the name to be put on the receipt Mrs. Wilson told the collector to put down her name. If it had been written in Mr. Wilson's name the amount of silver would have been much larger, as he weighs over 200 pounds.

It seems to be the general understanding among officials of the war department who ought to know who the name of Robert Shaw Oliver, the new assistant secretary of war, will be favorably considered for secretary of war when Mr. Root retires. It has been known for some time that on the completion of certain important matters Secretary Root intends to return to New York to resume the practice of law.

Those who have timber on good logging streams, or in a b.d.y, and will stand together, are absorbers of a small fortune. In a few years these claims will be selling at prices that would now seem enormous. The small sawmill men are the ones that are being hurt now. The large concerns are buying timber fast and in a short time will have all the smaller mills under their control. This is a pity, but there seems no way to prevent it.

Governor Chamberlain has been invited to attend the congress and deliver an address. He will probably be present, but will not speak.

In pursuance of the action taken at its last meeting the State Land Board made an order directing the clerk of the board to notify all persons holding certificates of sale of school land upon which there is due $50 or less that they must pay the balance and take deeds from the state. The purpose of this act is to clear up the records and render the land subject to taxation. About 500 certificates will be affected by this order, and that number of tracts of land will be made subject to taxation. Many persons have been holding state land under certificate of sale by leaving a little balance of the principal unpaid. By paying a small amount of interest on the balance they escape taxation.
