

Miss Rose Hennessy, well known as a poetess and elocutionist, of Lexington, Ky., tells how she was cured of uterine inflammation and ovaritis by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been so blessedly helped through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I feel it but just to acknowledge it, hoping that it may help some other woman suffering as I did. For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that I would always do so. I attended parties and receptions and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the results. I caught a bad cold eight months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well.

"I have advised a number of my friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—Miss Rose Nona Hennessy, 410 S. Broadway, Lexington, Ky.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove beyond a question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble and, at once, by removing the cause, and restoring the organs to a normal and healthy condition.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—About two years ago I consulted a physician about my health which had become so wretched that I was no longer able to be about. I had severe backache, bearing-down pains, pains across the abdomen, was very nervous and irritable, and this trouble grew worse each month. The physician prescribed for me, but I soon discovered that he was unable to help me, and I then decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and soon found that it was doing me good. My appetite was returning, the pains disappearing, and the general benefits were well marked.

"You cannot realize how pleased I was, and after taking the medicine for only three months, I found that I was completely cured of my trouble, and have been well and hearty ever since, and no more fear the monthly period, as it now passes without pain to me. Yours very truly, Miss Pearl Ackers, 327 North Summer St., Nashville, Tenn."

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health more than a million women, you cannot well say without trying it "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, do not hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Her advice is free and helpful. Write to-day. Delay may be fatal.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

Advertising Our Resources.

This newspaper is in receipt of a letter from Hon. W. H. Weinung, general superintendent of the Oregon exhibit at St. Louis, suggesting that Jackson county should be properly represented at the World's Fair next summer by literature describing the resources and its products. He suggests that 50,000 to 100,000 pamphlets descriptive of the county be published and placed in the hands of the Oregon commission for distribution.

Such a publication will cost from $300 to $500. That should be raised. It is a small one, considering the number of people in the county and the amount of land there is for sale. The greatest and most direct benefit to be derived would be to the land and town property owners who desire to dispose of their holdings, and they are the ones who should bear the greater part of the expense.

Merchants and business men generally in every town in the county would be indirectly benefited through people from abroad being attracted here to seek homes, and they can be depended on to do their share. But those who have land to sell and real estate dealers, are the ones who would get the first and greatest returns. Let them take the lead in the matter, and Jackson county will be well advertised at St. Louis and greatly benefited thereby.

Missing Girl Located.

Rosa, the 14-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Price Fowler, was spirited away from her home in Astland Wednesday afternoon of last week, and until Tuesday her foster parents had no knowledge of her whereabouts, when a letter was post-dated at Baker City, written by the girl, containing the simple statement that the writer was in Baker City. No references were made as to how and with whom she made the journey from Astland to that city, nor to the cause of her mysterious flight.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler adopted the girl at Boise, Idaho, nine years ago, when she was five years of age. She was one of a family of four children, and their mother was worse than widowed, as the father was serving a ten years' term in state's prison, following his conviction for an unnatural crime. The Fowlers, from charitable motives and because Rosa was a bright little thing, offered to adopt her, and the offer was accepted by the mother, and papers making the adoption legal were drawn up and recorded. Rosa has lived with them ever since, being accorded the same treatment as their other children and being apparently happy and contented.

The kidnapping scheme was hatched by Rosa's mother and was carried out by her older sister, both of whom live at Baker City. The adoption papers disappeared with the child.

Mr. Fowler has put the matter into the hands of District Attorney Reames and will not give the girl up without a legal struggle, says the Valley Record.

Millions for Military Automobiles

Included among the German army estimates for the present year is one for several millions for extensive trials and experiments with automobiles for military purposes. In this, however, the German government differs from the person who suffers from stomach, liver or kidney complaints. He cannot afford to waste any money experimenting with one or that remedy. For this reason every sufferer takes Hostetter's Stomach Bitters at the very start, for he knows if any medicine will cure him the Bitters will. If you are one of the few persons who have never tried it, do so today. You will be thankful for its utility, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, general debility, spring fever and all gripes. Our Private Stamp is over the neck of the bottle.

New Style in Divorce.

A divorce case came up not long ago in Coshocton, Ohio, in which the judge gave a curious order. After hearing a statement of the case he decreed that while it was pending the wife should go back to her husband's home, make his bed, cook his food and keep his house, apparently on the principle that it was unfair to make him hire a housekeeper until he knew definitely that he could not have a wife.

This is a decision which will be loudly commended by many husbands, and is likely to diminish the number of divorces in that part of Ohio. It is not likely to form much of a precedent, for the reason that in many divorce cases the wife does not take care of her husband's house; the servant does—when one can be had—and a grass widow can probably find a better paying place at less expense than he can support an establishment.

The idea of the Ohio judge probably was that every husband is entitled to the services of his wife in the keeping of his house, if his income does not permit the keeping of a servant.

It might not be a bad thing if some women were ordered to take a similar course with husbands who might not be their husbands after the suit was over. It would in some cases make the husband quite willing to get rid of them; and in other cases it might be good for the health of wife to have something to do. About half of the divorce cases in this country come about through a lack of proper occupation for the wife or husband. One question, however, remains unanswered: How is such a decision to be enforced?

They Want $5,000 Per Hug.

G. W. Canty, of Danbury, Ia., is asked to pay $10,000 for hugging two women—one hug each. Della Jacques, a milliner, and Ina Weil, a widow, the huggers, allege that Canty "willfully, maliciously and premeditatedly did seize, embrace and hug" them. Canty will introduce expert testimony to prove that the hugs were not worth anything like the sums demanded.

Age in Pension Ratings.

Commissioner of Pensions Ware, with the approval of Secretary Hitchcock, has issued an order making the following change in age considerations in pension ratings:

"In the adjudication of pension claims under said act of June 27, 1890, as amended, it shall be taken and considered as an evidential fact, if the contrary does not appear, and if all other legal requirements are properly met, that with a claimant has passed the age of 62 years he is disabled one-half in ability to perform manual labor and is entitled to be rated at $6 per month; after 65 years at $8 per month; after 68 years at $10 per month; and after 70 years at $12 per month.

"Allowance at higher rate, not exceeding $12 per month, will continue to be made as heretofore, where disabilities other than age show a condition of inability to perform manual labor.

"This order shall take effect April 13, 1904, and shall not be deemed retroactive. The former rules of the office fixing the minimum and maximum at 65 years and 75 years, respectively, are hereby modified as above."

The Grecian Bend.

The edict of the Dressmakers' Convention that a woman must once more assume the distortion of the "Grecian Bend" is not an unmix'd evil. The fad we all laughed at thirty years ago was merely a good idea gone wrong in exaggeration. The common fault in the careless attitude both of men and women, especially those of middle age, is the "swayback slouch." The frightful example of this offense stands indelible on his heels, with his stomach protruding and his chin drooping lazily upon his flattened chest. The enlightened, passing him with a shudder, declare that for men are "not well set up." There is a suspicion that women would more often fall under the same criticism but for the kinder concealment of their draperies.

A Greek statue, or a statue of any age representing strength or grace, is poised lightly upon the ball of the foot, the chest expanded, the head erect, the hips well drawn back. This is the correct, the seemingly, the hygienic pose which the dancing master, the drill sergeant and the gymnasium instructor all hold up, with slight modifications, for imitation. The distorted "Grecian Bend" is not further from the ideal in one direction than the "swayback slouch" is in the other, and perhaps a few inches out of the "bend" by life-long devotees of the "slouch" will help them to appreciate and to cultivate the golden mean.

The Dime-Novel Boy.

Mount Lebanon, N. J., has had experience of a "robber terror." He is in jail now, but there was much difficulty and some danger in getting him there. The prior-rob is a lusty little brute, abounding in courage and with no more morals than a wildcat. He had attacked a number of girls and women, always in a manner in itself crazy, but when a posse got after him he kept them at bay for hours with a gun, as they did not wish to kill him. Later the "terror" was captured while asleep, an impulse to lynch him was overruled and he was taken to prison in Irons.

Here is the ideal dime-novel hero, doubtless evolved from his own mind, sustained and influenced by sensational books. He probably fancies that fame is his. He will be graduated from a reformatory to a prison, perhaps from a prison to the sombre dignity of "murderer's row."

This is the career he has mapped out for himself. To follow it is one of the penalties for being a dime-novel hero. And it is one that other half-baked desperadoes may well ponder.

They Have Appealed.

The firm of Selsby & Snyder, found guilty of selling liquor at Ashland, Franklin, Mo., by a jury, were next morning sentenced by Recorder Berry to pay a fine of $100 or in default thereof serve 15 days respectively in jail.

E. D. Briggs, the defendants' attorney, gave notice of appeal to the Circuit Court, and the validity of Ashland's prohibition ordinance will be tested.

J. R. Murray, who had been arrested for a similar offense to that of the men convicted, came into the recorder's court and pleaded guilty, and was fined $75. Three cases are yet to be tried.

Love as an Oculist.

"They say that love is blind, but it seems to me that it opens a man's eyes. A lover can see beauties that do not exist for others."

"I never looked at the matter in that light, but perhaps you are right. Un fortunately, however, man isn't satisfied with love as an oculist."

A Squeeze at That.

Miss Stoulligh—I think the gentleman in this city are very polite. Three of them got up to give me a seat in the car today.

Miss Bony—And you took all three, presume?

Partly Yes, Misses. When out from his day's work and some having had to visit all the department stores in search of a new and of breakfast food which his wife artfully craved, the suburbanite fell asleep in the street car.

When directly opposite the stock yards the conductor shook him by the shoulder.

"Where did you say you wanted to get off?" the conductor asked.

Partially rousing himself, the suburbanite sniffed the air and yawned.

"These counter agents," he muttered. "No, I don't believe I want anything in that line."

And he went to sleep again.—Chicago Tribune.

George Repeats Himself.

"And you told George he must speak to your father?"

"Yes."

"I know what he said."

"Well, George isn't original."

"What difference does that make?"

"Of course he said the same thing he said when—there, don't get mad."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

She Wants Damages.

A slander case will be among those tried at the March term of the circuit court for Jackson county.

Mrs. Elsie Foss, who is the plaintiff, charges Mrs. W. J. Sturgis with defaming her character, alleging that, in public conversation, with certain parties in Medford, not long ago, she accused her of stealing a number of household articles.

Mrs. Foss declares that these accusations are malicious and untrue, and she thinks that a judgment for a few thousand dollars in damages, (if that sum can be discovered in Mrs. Sturgis' exchequer) will soothe her wounded feelings.

FARM GARDEN PLANT PROTECTORS.

Devices for Shielding Early Plants From Frost, Winds and Haze. Get your plant protectors ready, for there will be little time to do so later on. T. Greiner gives designs and descriptions in Farm and Garden for some useful homemade devices for protecting early plants from frost and cold winds and from bugs.

It is the simple box frame, a box without top or bottom, say a foot square and four to six inches high. A square piece of cloth or netting may be tacked over the top. A similar device is made of stiff paper, with a piece of cheesecloth sewed or pasted right over a square opening cut into the top, the sides being held down by pieces of wire bent in double pin shape. For another device a piece of netting may be tacked in two end boards, each end board being provided with a small sharpened stake (nailed on the outside), which when pushed into the ground will hold the end boards in place, with the cloth stretched tightly between them over the plants. Even a large piece of cloth or netting and a few sticks will do the business. We can take some pieces of willow twigs or other pliable wood and stick a couple of them crosswise into the ground in the form of a bow over the top of plants or a single plant and place the piece of cloth over this frame, holding the edges down by banking a little soil up over them, or we may simply push one or more little sticks slantingly into the ground and over the plant or plants and cover with netting, or the netting may be simply placed directly over the plants in loose folds. Cheesecloth may be considered preferable to ordinary mosquito netting. The latter is rather coarse and would not prove an effective barrier to trips and other small insects that might do damage. All these devices are simple and perhaps as effective as any more elaborate or more costly ones.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

Some Things They Are Accomplishing—The Independent Institute. The demand for farmers' institutes is genuine when local communities are willing to pay all expenses in case the state is unable to grant their requests.

Mr. McMaham in National Stockman in the first week of January attended two such meetings in Indiana while on my way to Minnesota. The first one was at Carthage, and it has not been my privilege to be present at a more enthusiastic meeting anywhere this season. There is a sufficient number of the friends at Carthage to remind one constantly of towns in Chester county, Pa. Evidences of prosperity are on every hand. The last few years have been exceptionally profitable ones in the corn belt, and the farmers are very glad that they are on earth.

At this institute we had Mr. S. F. McMahon and Mrs. Virginia Meredith, two veteran institute instructors of the state. Mr. McMahon probably knows as much about corn as is known, and that means a great deal. It has been a revelation to me to learn how thoroughly these breeders of corn have studied and developed this grain. They have an example we do not infer that would be as much about corn as is known, and that means a great deal.
