I am informed that Bush says he published be charges against Lane because they were feat among the people, and he wished to give in Oregon are not as given as you think they are when you say they are deluded by an old landson of the field and landson pportunity to clear up reports which you belevel untrue, would you publish them weekly like an advertisement, or would you inform WARREN LODGE No. 10, A. F. & A. M. him by a friendly letter? As regards Mr. Bush writing to Gen. Lane, "thereby hangs a tale." And is there not a host in the opposition to democracy ready to pick the slightest flaw in the democratic party and in General Lane's conduct? But they have as yet found none. These charges appear only in what has been heretofore styled the leading democratic paper of Oregon. They were hatched and nourished in Salem and the Statesman office; and according to what I can glean from the last Statesman, the operation has been going on three or four years. Well, these digressions have taken up all my present spare time; I do not wish to intrude too much on your columns, and will postpone my philosophic reflections for another time. STUDENT.
