THE OREGON SENTINEL.

A Pleasant Little Life Sketch.

On a steamer between Cleveland and Detroit a circumstance occurred lately, which is thus pleasantly told by a correspondent of the Cleveland Herald:

A young girl, apparently about seventeen years of age, was seated upon a pile of cheese boxes, with her two little brothers, aged eleven and thirteen years. They were orphans, bound from Alleghany, Pennsylvania, to Michigan, where they expected to find a home with an uncle.

After having purchased second class tickets for three, the girl had spread her old quilt on the pile of cheese boxes, and prepared to spend the night in quietude. She had hardly arranged her nest, however, before she was accidentally discovered by a second class passenger, a tall young man of twenty-three years, who had loved her in secret almost from her infancy, and who for the past two years had been rafting lumber on the Ohio river. Having acquired about two hundred dollars in hard currency, he came to Cleveland, recently, to participate in a celebration, when as he expressed it, "some mean cuss had picked his pocket of every darned cent but four dollars."

Being unable to find the thief or the money, he had started for the West with the determination to hire out on a farm. To his surprise and joy he found himself on board the same vessel with the object of his heart's earliest affections.

Sliding up to her, he exclaimed:

"Why, Cynthia Ann, why, how do you dew? I didn't hardly know you! Why, how you've grow'd! Where are you going?"

"I'm going to uncle's, in Michigan," was the feeble reply. "You knew mother was dead, didn't you?"

"Why, no!" and his voice softened. "When did she die, Cynthia Ann?"

"She died last January. Uncle wrote to me that if I'd come up there he'd give me and the boys a home."

"Cynthia Ann!" and the young man's voice trembled, "there ain't no man'll be so glad to give you a home as I will. I've allers thought a heap of you. I told your mother when you wasn't more'n so high, that when you growed up I was a goin' to have you. Now, Cynthia Ann, just say the word, and you're to hum now!"

"What'll become of the boys?" inquired the agitated maiden.

"I'll go with you and leave 'em to your uncle's, and then we'll go West and hire out this Fall and Winter, and then next Spring we'll buy a small farm and live to hum."

The girl gave a warm sigh of acceptance, leaned her head against the honest breast of the hardy youth, as much as to say, if you want anything take it.

The man snatched a kiss from her ripe ruby lips, sprang down from the cheese boxes and exclaimed, "If there's a Minister or Justice of the Peace on this boat, I've got a job for him!"

"I am a justice of the Peace," remarked a venerable looking man from York State, "remount the cheese boxes, and you shall be a married man in less than five minutes."

"Well, hold on, Squire! I haint got no money, but I'll give you an all jofired good ax."

"Never mind about the pay," said the worthy Squire, "I'll take my pay in seeing you happy."

The fellow remounted the pile of cheese, clasped the hands of his dearly beloved, and in three minutes a ceremony was performed—he had entered into a new existence. Kissing his little bride once on her ready lips, he seated her on a big cheese, and commenced, no doubt, for the first time to realize what he was, where he was, and what ought to be done.

Starting up suddenly, he exclaimed, half aloud, to himself, "Well, by hokey, this is a pretty hard way of passing the first night!"

The bride blushed, and replied, "Never mind, John, we are just as happy as if we were rich. Come sit down."

But John had an idea, and he was bound to put it in operation. Going to his pile of baggage, consisting of one large meal bag, containing a change of shirts, socks, neckerchief and old boots, he took from the leg of one of the boots an excellent ax, and walking up to the clerk's office, he exclaimed:

"I say, look a here, Cap'n, I've paid for a deck passage, but I want a bed for myself and w—i—self and woman. I hain't got no money, but here is an old jofired good ax."

The gentleman in the office replied that the clerk had stepped out, but would be back in a few moments; whereupon the man went back to the pile of cheese to look at his precious treasure.

Having our sympathies aroused, we hastily ran around among the passengers, told the story, and took up a collection to procure a state-room for the young couple. To the credit of our lady passengers, they were the most liberal in their donations, and in less than ten minutes we had collected $14 92. Presenting this sum to the agreeably astonished young man, we informed him that he could now procure a state-room with two beds, one for himself and wife, the other for the boys. Thanking us with his big watery eyes, he rushed to the clerk's office, where he was met by Captain Pierce, agent of the line; Captain Evans, commander of the boat, and Mr. Carter, the Clerk.

Captain Pierce exclaimed: "Here, my good fellow, here's a ticket for yourself and wife to go to Chicago. Get West as fast as you can; go to work on a farm, and look out for the land-sharks."

Captain Evans pulled out a glittering coin and said: "Here's five dollars! keep yourself in good condition, and—" here the worthy Captain forgot his speech and ran off laughing.

The Clerk, Mr. Carter, handed the man a key, and said, "You are welcome to one of the best state-rooms on the boat. It has two beds—one for yourself and wife, the other for the boys."

Captain Evans having returned, exclaimed—"Give the boys another room! They haint no business in there. They haint no business n——" here he broke down with laughter again, and hurried away to give orders on the boat. The couple now retired to their sumptuous apartment as happy as mortals are allowed to be on this earth, and the passengers gathered in knots to praise the liberality of all concerned, and the comical oddity of Captain Evans.

ALARMING SCENE AT A BULL FIGHT.—The Spanish journals relate an alarming scene at a recent bull fight at Saragossa. After three bulls, which did not show much spirit, had been disposed of by the torreador Cuchares, a popular performer, a fourth was let loose, and he displayed great violence. He tore into shreds the banderillas which were presented to him by the picadores, and then all at once he leaped over the palisade at a spot where a soldier was standing, and so injured the man that he died shortly after. A little later, the bull jumped over the barriers among the spectators. Six thousand persons were assembled, and with cries and screams all rushed to the issues to escape, causing a scene of frightful confusion. The toreador, sword in hand, attempted to kill the animal; and several soldiers on duty as sentinels endeavored to do the same with their swords and bayonets; some of the spectators, too, fired pistols at it, and in so doing wounded certain persons. At length the toreador got in front of the bull, and with a stab skillfully applied laid him dead at his feet. The journals do not say that any persons were killed or even injured in the subsequent confusion.

"Say, Pomp, you nigger, whar did you get dat new hat?" "Why, at de shop, ob course." "What's de price of such an article as dat?" "Don't know, nigger—don't know; de shopkeeper wasn't dar."

Borers in Fruit Trees.

For the benefit of those having fruit trees, we publish the annexed communication from Mr. Philip Ritz, proprietor of Glen Run Nursery, Corvallis:

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 14th, 1860.

EDITOR SENTINEL: Since my arrival in Rogue River Valley I hear general complaint of the ravages committed by borers upon fruit trees—in some instances destroying half or three-fourths of an orchard, and in the aggregate having destroyed several thousand dollars worth of valuable trees. In short, so great has been the depredation that many quite despair of having an orchard, and refrain from setting out any more trees.

I have used a paint or wash on my trees in Benton county, for the last two years, that has kept them entirely free from the attacks of these little plagues, and have found it of great advantage, also, in preventing injury to the bark early in the Spring by the sun, which I believe to be the chief cause of the borer's attacks, as they almost invariably commence on the south side of the tree. I think that the application of this paint or wash will save nine out of every ten trees attacked, and which would otherwise be destroyed. The recipe I took from the Genesee Farmer several years ago. It is: One-half peck of fresh cow manure, two pounds unslacked lime, one-half pound of sulphur, one half pound of lamp-black, mixed to the consistency of thick paint with very strong soap-suds or lye. Apply it in the Spring, as soon as the rain is over, to the trunk of the tree and in the forks of the branches, with a brush, till every particle of the bark is covered to an inch below the surface of the ground; place back the earth about the trunk, and when the sun shines on the tree and warms the sulpher, it emits an odor that will prevent any insect from injuring the tree.

My business is raising and selling trees, plants and flowers, and I like to see them all live and thrive everywhere. PHILIP RITZ.

THE LUXURY OF TRAVELING.—The Roseburg Express of Monday last has the following sketch of staging in the storm through the Umpqua. Stage drivers must be made of sterner stuff than ordinary folks to withstand such scenes through an Oregon Winter:

The rain has been pouring down in torrents with little intermission during the past week and every stream is flooded. Both the North and South Umpqua have overflowed their banks. The stages by great exertion and by running night and day, continued to make their time up to Saturday. The roads in many places were so flooded with mud and water as to be entirely impassible, and the drivers were compelled to lay down fences and make their way through fields, in the night.

When the northern stage came to Winchester on Saturday, North Umpqua had swelled into a foaming torrent, and it was impossible to cross the ferry boat, and since that time the northern mails have been stopped at that place. No one would take the risk of trying the passage even in a skiff or canoe. This morning, Mr. H. W. Barton, agent of Tracy & Co.'s Express, went down to Winchester to effect a crossing if possible. It will probably be two or three days before the ferry can resume its regular crossings.

The stage from the South on Friday was detained in the Canyon six or eight hours before it could cross, and was got out with the greatest difficulty. The creek was filled to overflowing, the water in the road in many places being several feet deep. The high winds had blockaded up the road with fallen timber, which the driver was compelled to clear out by chopping. Yesterday morning, the Canyonville stage was stopped a short distance this side of Canyonville, at a point where the waters of the South Umpqua overflowed all the low ground to the steep hills. One passenger and the mail bags were placed on horses to be conveyed by the hill side around the flood, and brought to Roseburgh by wagon. In passing around the edge of the water, the horse ridden by the passenger slipped and plunged headlong down the hill into the flood. Both horse and rider came near drowning, but finally succeeded in getting ashore. One mail bag by this accident was lost in the water, containing all the southern mail for the Roseburg office. It is thought that the election returns from Jackson county, and possibly those of Josephine were in the lost bag.

Paul Morphy and Louis Paulsen, the noted chess players, were in New York at last accounts. On the 12th they were both at the rooms of the Chess Club in the University building, but did not play together. Mr. Morphy played with Mr. James Thompson and beat him two games at the odds of a knight. Mr. Paulsen had a partie with Mr. Lichtenhein, whom he beat. A contest between Messrs. Morphy and Paulsen is spoken of, but a point of etiquette may keep them apart. The former gentleman, since his European success, has declined playing with any person in this country unless at the odds of a pawn and move; these odds Mr. Paulsen may not accept, but should he do so, a most interesting contest may be anticipated. Mr. Paulsen will also probably give an exhibition of his wonderful blindfold playing, and if he does so, will play ten games at a time.

GOOD SHOOTING.—The Southwestern Independent publishes at Fayetteville, Arkansas, is responsible for the following:

Bob Calaker was describing, the other day, to Tip Onstott, the skill of a sportsman in Mississippi with the shotgun.

"Why," said he, "I have seen him take two partridges that were both go, one in front and the other behind him, and he would fire and kill the one in front and then whirl and kill the other."

"Did he have a double-barrel gun," inquired Tip.

"O course he did."

"Well," quickly replied Tip, "I can beat that—I saw a man do the same with a single barrel."

It is against the law to swim dogs, on Sunday, in the Frog Pond at Boston. This is not generally known, and one Sabbath morning a distinguished military gentleman, who was walking on the Boston Common, was reprimanded by a policeman because he suffered his dog to enter the water. "There," said Dogberry don't you see the sign—"Dogs are not allowed in the water on Sunday?" "Yes," responded the Colonel, "but that's a d——d illiterate dog; he can't read." The policeman was confounded, and it was not till one of the detectives pointed it out that he saw the military man's joke.

Another gold excitement has broken out in the Northern country. Capt. Pierce, with a party of men just returned from a prospecting tour of Clear river, a tributary of the Columbia, 150 miles northeast of Walla Walla, had brought in some very fine gold which they found. They give most flattering reports of the mines, and say that a great deal of gold quartz is near in the mountains. The Indians are peaceable. A party of 100 were organizing to go to the new diggings.

The finest idea of a thunder storm was when Wiggins came home tight. He came into the room where his wife and daughters were, and just then he tumbled over the cradle and fell whop on the floor. After a short time he rose and said:

"Wife, are you hurt?"

"No."

"Girls, are you hurt?"

"No."

"Terrible clap, wasn't it?"

A rascally old bachelor says that a man frequently admits that he was wrong, but a woman never—she was "only mistaken."

SICK OREGONIANS REJOICE

For behold a Panacea is found that restores the Weak, Nervous Dyspeptic.

Sufferers with any Disease read my theory:

I HAVE found that most diseases prove fatal; that early deaths occur; that people live for years a living death, weak, inanimate and exhausted—not from the diseases itself, but from an inability in nature, and nature's strength to withstand or maintain life through the ravages of disease. Give them strength, and nature will relieve herself, if stimulated. She has given us herbs and plants to effect all this. Purify the blood, render the intestines, the liver, the heart, and all the natural functions of man or woman active, and you have half conquered disease. Doctor JACOB WEBBER does conscientiously assure all who read this, that his SANGUIFIER, or, INVIGORATING CORDIAL, produces all the effect above described. He has seen, the old, the tottering, the palsied, the nervous, the dyspeptic the inebriate, the debauchee and the invalid, revive under its influences, as if new life were given them.

When every other remedy has failed; when you have been doctored near to death with Mercury, Sarsaparilla, and other popular delusions; when, from whatever cause, you become weak, languid and ailing, then try the most blessed Herbaim Concoction.

DR. JACOB WEBBER'S

SANGUIFIER; or, Invigorating Cordial,

causes strength—that is its main quality. The first operation tonics; the partaker feels that sudation is caused—his skin is damp, his limbs supple and active, he feels a wish for exercise, and knows he has strength to endure it; he is light spirited; his skin becomes clear; his eyes, too, because his liver is made active, the bile neutralized or ejected, and his blood thinned and purified. If he has a foul stomach, this acts as an aperient, not otherwise. Again, it [illegible] digesting, increasing the action of wood in the stomach. The stomach is the great receiver of disease and its cure. I will enumerate a few of those diseases where I use Dr. Webber's Invigorating Cordial as [illegible] Dr. Webber's Invigorating Cordial as a certainty

[illegible] Fever and Ague, Colds, Debility, Constipation, Fevers, Fever and Ague, Colds, Debility, Constipation, Fevers, Measles, Delirium Tremens, Sleeplessness, Chronic Rheumatism, Weakness, Loss of Memory, Appetite, Nervousness, Want of Strength, Tongue of the Passions, Diseases of Nature, &c., &c., &c.

Now sudden debilities, lunacy and [illegible] bility is then too prevalent here; [illegible] dders when combined with a [illegible] universal debility, impregnated with [illegible] and who wonder why? We have many [illegible] mate like this, a sickness, whose life is [illegible] electricity and galvanism, or have seen others [illegible] have passed through doctored to death by [illegible] intemperance and debauchery, or "the [illegible] who have been nearly killed them with mercury, quack medicines, or by the use of those sick [illegible] quently who have impregnated rangement of the [illegible] mercury, calomel, &c. Let such, and such only as [illegible] various causes, as general debility, [illegible] system; weakness from various [illegible] change of climate, long sickness, [illegible] the use of mercury, or being otherwise [illegible] from abuse of nature and her laws, [illegible] idleness, gormandizing, debauchery and other excesses, trembling, fever and ague chills, [illegible] matic, neuralgic and other pains in the body or limbs, want of appetite, sleep or memory, sour or bilious stomach, tickling in the ears, tic doloreux, etc., etc., try this.

Read the names of a few from hundreds of others cured by it.

Mr. David Scannell, late Sheriff of the City of San Francisco, Cal., certifies to the fine tonic, nervine and anti-dyspeptic qualities of Dr. Webber's Invigorating Sanguifier.

Mr. John B. Fleming, a Merchant Tailor, of Ophir, in California, certifies, Sept. 27, 1854, that two bottles of Dr. Webber's Cordial cured Mr. J. C. Ewens, of the same place, of pains in the body, dyspepsia, chill and hacking cough, together with general debility, neuralgic and rheumatic pains.

Dr. James Bonnaut certifies to the cure of a pitiable case of decayed manhood, (where the strength, nerves, memory, and the whole physique was prostrated) by its use.

Mr. James Freeman, of Mokelumne Hill, says: "My feeling was an exhaustion, a want of strength, a torpor, a want of vigor, appetite, other miserable feelings. One bottle of the Cordial relieved and three have entirely cured me."

We could give fifty other certificates, notwithstanding that most persons are sensitive about being noticed; but the above must satisfy any reasonable person.

The reader is conscientiously assured that this really extraordinary panacea is all it is represented, and is not one of the nostrums of the day. Let the afflicted try it, and they will be thankful for having done so. It is warranted to be unimpurious to the most delicate constitution, or to either sex or age, to contain no mercury or other mineral. It is put up, very highly concentrated, in quart bottles, price $4, or for $5. Sold by every respectable Druggist in California and Oregon.
