DENLINGER & HAND, Proprietors. Neutrality.

In the present condition of the country, many adopt this idea, whether with patriotic existing state of affairs, time only can tell. Difficulties to be overcome must be met with decision. It is a filmey pretext to delay or avoid the consequence, as well of their own look on with folded arms and be neutral in words and acts to the current events of the times, is to ask the friends of the present Conetitution to shut their eyes and tie their hands for the accommodation of those now attempt ing to break it down. The people of the United States are now making the subject matter for volumes in the history of the world. Can any one be indifferent to its contents? Page. of this history, beyond reasonable doubt, wil detail the most suicidal infatuation ever recorded of a free and prosperous people.

While there may be, and no doubt are, persoes who claim precidence in the emoluments of the Government for past party services. to day, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, party feeling, as heretofore exhibited, is lest in the magnitude of the present calamity, and the general exection of all not carried away by clamer, is to restore it to its former rightful in danger and promptness in action;
At a political meeting in Lowell, of the and proud position.

We cannot see what good can result to any doing anything to conduce to the result. While It is desirable that all should be willing and auxious for a reasonable adjustment of the present difficulties, it is imperative, also, from considerations of duty, as well as honor, that they should express a decided preference for the " Union, the Constitution and the enforcement of the Laws;" it is a duty that every lover of republican institutions should not hesitate to perform.

Neutrality is incipient disloyalty and will lead to treason. People will disagree reasonably as to a reformation or reconstruction of the present Constitution; but while they acknowltheir duty to and receive the protection of the present Government, they should contend for the enforcement of the laws. Men who cannot not board 203 passengers and 21 analysis at the policy of this State, do not treasure. She carried a twelve-pound Dah's certainly reflect upon its attributes. Men who claim to make it respected, is necessary to preserve neutrality. Is it, in honor, duty or obligation. the true position of Oregon? The advocacy of such a position is not very flattering. It you accept from a friend the protection, the benefits, and all of the advantages his position may enable him to give you, is it decent for you to assume, with mock digulty, a neutral position when he is in danger?

FATAL ACCIDENTS .- We learn from Mr. Cyrus Thomas, of Yreka, that Ed. Kelly was killed on Wednesday last, by falling from the top of the pole attached to Wizard Martin's Pavillion, also Taylor, who was engaged in arranging the ropes for hoisting a flag, when Europe on the Crisis.

From the St. Louis correspondent to the Sacramento Union, we copy the following, showing the position of some of the European nations. In relation to the present difficulties in the United States :

The telegraph to day informs us that England will do nothing to incur the displeasure of our Government. It is well that she does not, for I am confident Uncle Sam will not tolerate abuse from abroad half as long as he has from his enemies at home.

France has never manifested any disposition to insult our Government. On the contrary.

it is said when our troubles first broke out, the Emperor asked Americans in Paris in what way be could benefit us, and if his serves would be acceptable in putting down rebellion. Our Government, of course, re-spectfully declined the Emperor's kind offices, ret highly appreciates the friendliness of his Jovernment. We may be sure of one thingif Great Britain is unfriendly, France will be on the opposite side. It is to be hoped that e ; everse will not prove true.

The last steamer brought information that

The last steamer brought information that Austria would ma'ntain a friendly position towards our Government, and do nothing which could be construed as encouragement to the Southern rebels; but the steamer before the last also brought information that the Austrian Government had refused to receive Burlingame, the newly appointed Minister, on the research that which a Manager of Conserver has ground that while a Member of Congress, he had used his influence in raising the Sardinian mission to a full mission. This needs explana-tion. How Austria can maintain a friendly attitude towards us, and at the same time openly insult our Minister simply to gratify an old grudge, does not seem plain. This is anything but friendly, and I am persuaded that if Burlingame were ten times as edious to the Austrians, they would not dare reject him, if there were no troubles in the United States. Now that our Union is insulted by traitors at home, and is struggling with all its might to maintain itself. Austria thinks she can insult us with impunity. This is also the reason why other foreign powers date to be insolent. When America shall have fully demonstrated to the world her power of self-government and her power to put down rebellion, when she shall have arisen from her present hamility and proudly proclaimed to the world her unity and power, these foreign traitors who so arrogantly dictate terms to her now, will come crawling at her feet, willing to take what she may be pleased to give. Australia has forgotten the Martin Kosta affair—she will have to be taught another lesson one of these days. This home war will be a benefit to us in more ways than me, should we ever live to get over it. It

At present Prussia seems to mind her own usiness tolerably well, so do Sardinia and the nations down marer the south pole. It is not known how many were killed or wounded in the unfortunate collision of the Federal troops previous to marching on Great Bethel. The loss was, however, inconsiderable. The fire of our troops on the masked batteries lid apparently very little execution, our artil lery being composed of small field pieces and howitzers, against the rifled cannon of the rebels. The attack lasted but half an hour, when the retreat was sounded and executed in good order. The troops throughout this try-ing affair behaved well. The estimated numher killed was about 30, and 100 wounded-Major Winthrop, Aid to General Butler, and Lieutenant Colonel Grinnell, of the New York First Regiment, are missing. Among the killed is Lieutenant Grebble, of the United States Artilley. He was struck on the right side of the forehead by a shot from a rifled cannon, which tore away the upper part of his head.

New York, June 11th .- The Herald's necount of the affair at Great Bethel states that after the unfortunate mistake was rectified, the forces, comprising the First, Second and Third New York Regiments, joined by detachments of the Fourth Massachusetts, First Ohio, Fifth and Ninth New York Regiments, with two light field pieces, under Lieutenant Grebits are received and of rehele ble, came upon an advanced guard of rebels, defeated and drove them back, taking thirty prisoners. Then they advanced on Great Bethel, in York county, where they came upon the enemy 4.000 strong, and drove right into them. They were in position, protected by six heavy batteries, mounting six and twelve pounders and heavy rifled cannon. Both Duryer's Zouaves and Hawking's regiment charged right up to the batteries, but could not pass the ditch, and were compelled to fall back.
