Farmers' Department.

BREEDING COLTS.—Having in the last fifteen years bred twenty-six colts, and had twenty-four failures, and among the twenty-two mares used there were only two that were actually barren, or never had foals—from three or four different horses—it suggests the inquiry: Why is the mare so uncertain in breeding? When suckling, they are very apt to fail to conceive, although very particular to try them on the ninth day after foaling; and if they then refuse, are tried again on the eleventh day, and thence every two weeks until they refuse several times.

One season, four mares were sent to a sure horse, but they all missed. This was attributed to their having been on clover pasture during the period they were attending the stallion. The next season the same four were put to the same stallion, but this time they were kept off of pasture, and the result was they all had fine horse colts.

The uncertainty of the mare, compared with other animals, is remarkable. I have a cow that is fourteen years old, that has had a calf every year since her second; and in a herd of fifteen, there is but one that occasionally misses.

It is a question with some, whether mares, during any part of the period of their gestation, should be employed for pleasure driving, even with due regard to moderation in distance and speed. But it is generally admitted, and all my experience goes to prove it, that ordinary farm work is not injurious to them at this delicate period.

I have always been careful to cease driving them when from three to four months from foaling, but the mischief seems to be done in the earlier stages of pregnancy, probably in the first month, before any consolidation takes place.

In the pedigree and history of many mares described in the Turf Register, we observe many breeding every season, though of course giving suck; this may be owing to the state of rest this class of animals enjoy.—Cor. American Stock Journal.

SPROUTING ONION SEED.—"How is it you raise so large and nice onions?" I asked of an Iowa farmer, as I was sitting at the table with him, and observing some on the table.

"Well," said he, "we sprout the seed with boiling water, and then plant it early and in good ground."

"Sprout the seed in boiling water!" I exclaimed inquiringly. "What do you mean, sir, by that? Won't boiling water kill the seed?"

"Not at all," he replied, "but it will sprout them in one minute's time."

"It will! It looks incredible!" I replied, with surprise.

"Well, you try it," he replied grinningly, "when the time comes to plant, and you'll find it just as I tell you?"

And sure enough, when Spring came, and my neighbor was about planting his onion seed, and being present, I said:

"Jewell, last winter, there was a man told me, in Iowa, that to pour boiling water on black onion seed would sprout it in one minute. Suppose you try it?"

"Very well, said he. And taking the tea kettle boiling from the stove, he poured the water thus boiling on the seed, which he had in a tea-saucer. Looking at it for a moment, he exclaimed, "My conscience? you have told rightly. Only look there!"

I looked, and behold, the little sprouts, about as large as horse hairs were shooting out of the opened ends of the seed! He did not retain the water on the seed above three seconds, and in less than one-half minute after it was poured off, the sprouts were projecting from the seeds.

My Iowa friend assured me that this process would advance the growth of the onion from two to three weeks beyond the ordinary method of sprouting. Try it gardeners and farmers: much may be gained by it."—Cor. Dollar Paper.

SALTING BEEF FOR SUMMER USE.—Sixteen quarts of salt and three ounces of saltpetre for each one hundred pounds of beef. Rub the piece all over with salt and pack in edgewise, and after a layer is completed, take an ax or maul and pound it down solid. Then sprinkle on a little saltpetre and fill up interstices with salt, and so on until the cask is full. Those who do not like saltpetre may omit it without injury to the meat. Mr. A. Wanzer, who communicated this recipe to the Albany Cultivator, says he has salted his beef in this way for fifteen years; that it needs no soaking before boiling, and will be tender and sweet the year round. By this way of salting it makes its own brine, and never wants repacking nor the brine scalding. If the brine should not cover it in the Spring, sufficient may be added for that purpose.

REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF ITCH AND MANGE.—Take of quick-lime, two ounces; sublimated, four ounces; water, one pint and a half. Let them come to the boiling point; in the meantime, the mixture should be constantly stirred: when cool, pour off the clear liquor, and rub a portion of the same over the affected parts, night and morning, by means of a sponge. A few applications will usually suffice for the cure of very bad cases.

Should the application, after a few days trial, fail to effect a cure, the following medicine must be given: Iodide of Potass, 4 drachms; sulphur, 2 ounces; pulverized poplar bark, 4 ounces; mix. Divide the mass into sixteen equal parts; and mix one in the food morning and evening.—DR. DADD, American Stock Journal.

A SECRET TO FARMERS.—It is worth knowing that every keeper of cows may cause them to calve in the day time, instead of night or day, as it may happen causing much watching and loss of sleep. The simple method is this: when the cow is in calf and the milk beginning to fail, let no milk be taken from her during the day, or at night, but milk her at any time in the morning, and let none be taken but in the morning; and, when her time to calve has come, she will drop her young in the day time. Two of our friends have tried this simple method, and have found it correct in every case. One who has eighteen cows has tried it these two years, and now never thinks of sitting up at night.

A HINT.—We have found nothing so effectual in protecting the young plants of melons, cucumbers, etc., from the depredations of insects, as the sowing around the edges of the hill of radish seed. The young growth of the radish is much preferred by these insects to that of the melon and cucumber; hence, while the former is freely feasted on, the latter is permitted to go scot free. If too late for trial this season, let it be remembered for the next.—Germantown Telegraph.

GOLDEN GRAMMAR.—A grammarian has been met lately, after having made a tour through the mines, conjugating, or rather cogitating, thus: "Positive, mine; comparative, miner; superlative, minus."

MRS. WINSLOW,

AN Experienced Nurse and Female Physician, presents to the attention of mothers, her

SOOTHING SYRUP

For Children Teething,

Which greatly facilitates the process of teething by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay all pain and spasmodic action, and is sure to regulate the Bowels. Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and relief and health to your infants.

We have put up and sold this article for over ten years, and can say, in confidence and truth, of it, what we have never been able to say of any medicine. Never has it failed in a single instance to effect a cure, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "What we do know," after ten years experience and pledge our reputation for the fulfillment of what we here declare. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skillful nurses in New England, and has been used with never failing success, in

Thousands of Cases.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will relieve almost instantly and overcome convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death. We believe it the best and surest Remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhoea in children, whether it arises from teething or from other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints, do not let your prejudices, nor the prejudices of others, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be sure—yes, absolutely sure—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions will accompany each bottle.—None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.
