These events happened in the interregnum between the old and a new Administration. But the flag of the Union still floated over Sumter...

In this state of things the leading Democrats cast about for the means of drawing in the Border States, and especially Virginia, as the most influential, several of whose leaders were at heart Democrats, though their axes, especially in Western Virginia, were loyal.

The vital principle of our Government, and of all free institutions in the sovereignty of the people, and the right of the majority to exercise that sovereignty through its own chosen instruments.

Now, sirs, appeal fairly to this sovereign of the South, and you will find that he is for the Government as it was and is; for the Constitution and the laws, unaltered and unamended, but rightly interpreted and rigidly executed.

I know, indeed, that whilst many of the slaveholders—very many, indeed—are not willingly in this rebellion, a still larger number of non-slaveholders, and probably many true Christian people, are in it, and some of them with all zeal and earnestness.

How it will benefit U. S.—The United States popular or people's loan, soon to be opened in California, is a commanding public investment.

VERY CARRIV.—A man was asked to dinner whether he would take some apple-pie? "Is it handsome?" Inquired Teddy. "To be sure it is; why isn't it?" "Because," said Teddy, "I once had an apple that was killed with apple-py, and a pyre enough I thought it was something of the same sort."

A POWERFUL MEMORY.—There is said to be a man living in Winchester who is possessed of such a powerful memory, that he is employed by the various benevolent societies to remember the poor.

Loyalty of the South. The New York Christian Observer publishes the following letter from a former Southern subscriber. In introducing it, the Observer said: "As our postal facilities are cut off, we shall rarely hear from the South hereafter."

Miscalculations of the Secessionists. In a letter addressed to this journal, under date of November 21, 1860, Willoughby Newton, of Virginia, a recognized apostle of Secession, undertook to establish, by considerations of public right and historical probability, that the idea of anything but a peaceful separation between the States of the Union was "preposterous, and indulged only by men of morbid imaginations to frighten others more timid than themselves."

Demonstrations already made so patent to the mind of the statesman, viewing them either in their political and commercial, or in their national and international aspects, will be keenly perceived and vigilantly observed as their results are disclosed.

As Mr. Seward's letter to Gov. Morgan has given rise to unfounded alarm in certain quarters, it may be as well to observe that we are shipping, and shall continue to ship until the end of August next, to Great Britain and France, nearly three millions of bales of grain weekly.

GOVERNMENT EXPENSES.—Of the annual expenses of the Government, and the extraordinary expenditures likely to be caused by the war of rebellion on the Evening Bulletin says: "The annual expenses of the Government of the United States have for some years past averaged about $80,000,000."

Neither leisure or space admit at present of the elaboration of this subject. And I am content in having proved my proposition—that the Secession of the Cotton States must necessarily be a peaceful one; because England and France, the rest of commercial Europe, and the Western and Northwestern States of the Union require that it should be.

SECESSION BARBARITIES.—Two or three weeks ago, a couple of men from an Illinois regiment in Missouri started out to pass a few hours in a scouting and hunting expedition. As they did not return, a squad of soldiers was sent out the next day in search of them.

You may depend upon me wife; I give you my word. I had rather you would sometimes keep it.
