JACKSONVILLE.

SATURDAY, - - - DEC. 14, 1861.

East of the Cascades.

Last Spring, the attention of our citizens was called to newly discovered mines located in Washington Territory...

Slowly and reluctantly, but surely thousands who have had, up to a very late date, lingering hopes that a compromise of our national troubles might be effected...

Every one not entirely blinded by prejudice must see the force of these remarks.

Such being the condition of things, the object of this article is to call attention to the fact that, if a number of our citizens propose going to these mines when Spring opens, it will not be necessary to travel three or four hundred miles out of their way to reach them.

Elsewhere we publish a communication from Mr. Lindsay Applegate, giving a table of distances from this place to Powder River, which is in the mining district, and also to the Humboldt mines and Salt Lake City.

Two men who have all their lives been good friends—friends almost inseparable, meet at a friendly gathering, have a slight misunderstanding—a difficulty aggravated by the presence of comrades or mutual acquaintances, of whose opinions they are desperately afraid, although not afraid of each other.

Whenever is not prepared to sacrifice party organizations and platforms on the altar of his country does not deserve the support and countenance of honest people.

When we shall have rescued the Government and country from its peril, and seen its front in support of its triumph over every inch of American soil, it will then be time enough to inquire as to who and what has brought these troubles upon us.

Finally, when all these means are brought to bear, the effect upon our agricultural interest is apparent. A market will be opened that will demand all the surplus products that this Valley can raise.

LATEST EASTERN NEWS.

By Last Night's Stage.

[From the Sacramento Union, Nov. 29.]

The Richmond Dispatch reports 3,000 Unionists in the mountains of East Tennessee under Parson Brownlow and Major General Ham, and that they are doing more mischief than the Yankees in Kentucky.

Great excitement has been caused throughout the Southern cities by the recent action of Federal forces, and the citizens of the most prominent towns are preparing to leave in large numbers.

Gen. Price, of the Rebel forces in Arkansas and Missouri, crossed the Orange river near Sedalia, on Saturday, the 23d inst., on his march North. The Federal troops under the immediate command of Gen. Hunter, in large force, were preparing to meet him a short distance from Sedalia.

The rebels in Columbus, Kentucky are making great preparations for defense. The Confederate forces at that place are hourly expecting an attack from the Federal troops, which are marching thither in strong force.

The bombardment and capture of Pensacola and surrounding points, resulted in the burning of the village of Warrington.

The steamer Fulton has arrived from Liverpool with 30,000 tons of arms for the government.

Miscalculation of the Secession Leaders. Probably no set of men were ever engaged in originating a rebellion who miscalculated so woefully the course of events, as the advocates of the Southern secession.

They were engaged for years in preparing the Southern mind for the fatal step. The first incursions were to engrain into the creed of the Democratic party the doctrine of State supremacy and national inferiority.

The State being supreme, it followed, of course, that the could nullify a law of Congress, or secede from the Union of States whenever in her sovereign will and pleasure she might determine that such a step was necessary to her interests or her honor, and that no power on earth existed which could constitutionally interfere to prevent the consummation of her purposes.

Concede the right of a State in her sovereign capacity to secede, and the position is admitted that the citizens of a State owe allegiance first to the State, second, to the Federal Government; and that he could not commit treason in obeying the State authorities. This is one of the corner stones upon which is founded the frail structure of secession and insurrection.

After having established, to their own satisfaction, the right of a State to nullify, or to secede, it became necessary to show to the people that in doing so they would be immensely benefited, and that in a Government composed of the "Slave States," they would be vastly more prosperous and powerful than if connected with the free States.

To sustain the interest side of the argument, it was assumed that "Cotton was King" that without the cotton of the South the Union would be dissolved, and that with cotton the South could bring the world to her feet.

The "staple" of the South were to become the foundation of her greatness, progress, and compactness for Government purposes. Those ideas were extensively elaborated by the secession leaders, in order to persuade the Southern people that their present and future interests were blended with secession and a Southern Confederacy composed of the "Slave States."

But it was still necessary to demonstrate to the people that the experiment of secession would be a failure, and that the only way to preserve the Union was to remain united.

To this end the papers and periodicals of the South teemed with arguments intended to establish in the mind of the community the fact that a separation between the South and the National Government, could under no circumstances end in hostilities.

It was assumed that England and France must have cotton, and therefore they would never allow it to be cut off by the South, and an attempt would be made to blockade the Southern ports, the fleets of those nations would be ordered to open aid ports by the application of force if necessary.

This calculation has been exposed by experience. The cotton ports are blockaded, and England and France manifest no intention of interfering to open them to the South.

To do would be a consummation never dreamed of in secession philosophy. The rebellion would be a just and holy one.

It was further argued that the Federal Government would never dare attempt coercion against rebellion while a Republican President was in power; that the Democracy of the North would never permit it.

Events have shown that the Administration did not discharge its duty to the nation by engaging with all its power in the work of suppressing rebellion and executing the laws, and that it has been sustained in this holy duty by the united power of the people of the loyal States without reference to old party divisions.

The Democrats of the North, if possible, more energetic and determined in their efforts to crush rebellion than the Republicans. They rally to the aid of the National Government, and do not stop to carp about the politics of the man the people have constitutionally elected President.

They are for maintaining the Constitution and enforcing the laws, even to inflicting the penalty for treason. In the calculation of aid from the Northern Democracy in their traitorous schemes the Secession leaders were terribly deceived.

They are met in their traitorous career by a united North, and by the power of a Government which will finally triumph over rebellion in all the Southern States. It is only a question of time.

It may require one year, two years, or three years, but the work will be accomplished. No Union established on a foundation which secession will never assail, secession, disunion, and a chair for a Southern Confederacy, will have run their race.

Peaceful secession will never again be preached by States in the Union; the doctrine that Cotton is King will have been exploded; the theory that our Government possesses no constitution power to coerce the people into a state of peace will be heard.

The gigantic exertions to put down this rebellion have, however, settled that question. That the primary allegiance to the State will become a doctrine recognized as necessarily universal in the United States, while the fatal theory of the independent sovereignty of the States will be left among the rubbish of the past.—Sacramento Union.

MARRIAGE BY A NOTARY.—For the first time in California, or indeed any where else so far as we know, the marriage ceremony was performed in this city, yesterday evening, by a Notary Public.

The parties who were joined in the silver bands were Samuel Latipberg and Miss Matilda Cohen. The Notary, having perhaps some doubts as to his jurisdiction, requested the parties to wait until to-day; but the bride objected to any delay, and the ceremony proceeded.

As the Supreme Court of the State has decided that marriage is a civil contract, the parties who were joined in the silver bands are considered in all respects a lawful marriage if the parties join hands and acknowledge each other as husband and wife in the presence of witnesses.—S. F. Herald, Nov. 26th.

The Real Greatness of the American Union.

By THOMAS JEFFERSON AND HIS COUNTRYMEN.

We commend the following to the notice of the Secession journals and their sympathizers in this State:

The statement never read who was more tender of the liberty of the citizen than Thomas Jefferson, and after his illustrious public life was closed, and amidst the classic shades of Monticello, he wrote, Sept. 20, 1810: "A strict observance of the written laws is doubtless one of the highest duties of a good citizen, but it is not the highest. The laws of necessity, of self-preservation, of saving our country when in danger, are of higher obligation. To lose our country by a strict adherence to written laws, would be to lose the law itself, with life, liberty, property and all those which we are enjoying them with us; thus absurdly sacrificing the end to the means."

THE TELEGRAPH.—Since the late storm has almost completely demolished the line between Yreka and Shasta, a new line could be as easily built up the Sacramento river route, on which there seems to be no great damage done. We do not expect to have any more reports before next April, unless the company put on hands and build it through other sections than where severe storms prevail in Winter. The poles should be closer together, that the wire might be protected and, not attached to iron, so trees are more liable to blow down and rot at the roots.—Yreka Union.

It is a matter of interest to the friends of volunteers to know what proof of the death of a soldier is requisite to enable his heirs to procure his pay and the $100 bounty. Sufficient proof of the death is furnished by the company rolls, which are deposited with the Auditor. It is unnecessary for the appointment of an administrator, except where there are many heirs scattered as to create inconvenience in making several applications. When a claim is made by a father, mother, or widow, it is unnecessary.

SCHEDE IN CALIFORNIA.—About the last of October, at New Year's Day, George, Marjorie county, a young man about 25 years of age, named Campbell, committed suicide by shooting himself with a paper. He had previously told his friends that he was going to commit the rash act, and they advised him to join the army and get decently killed. The cause assigned is disappointment in love.

SICKNESS IN WASHINGTON.—A letter dated Silver City, Nov. 15th, received in Grass Valley, says: "The typhoid fever is carrying off 4 in 20 persons a week. Four persons died of the same disease on Friday, and four on Saturday, at Gold Hill, and as many as 16 have died in a day in Virginia, City."

WE WILL CORRECT.—A mistake in the writer's figures as to the number of deaths in Virginia, City, the Grass Valley National.

FRANCE.—The Great Malin of France says that, by an accident, charcoal has been discovered to be a cure for burns. By laying a piece of cold charcoal upon a burn, the pain subsides immediately. By leaving the charcoal on one hour, the wound is healed, as has been demonstrated on several occasions. The remedy is cheap and simple, and deserves a trial.

Sad's Sarsaparilla!—Who has not heard of it? How many have ceased to be thankful that it has cured their ailments, and raised them from a bed of sickness to the enjoyment of health and strength.

We wish every one to benefit by it, but caution is required—the very success of the article is turned against it by the cupidity of others, and numerous preparations of so-called "Sarsaparilla" are in the market. The original and genuine article, prepared by Sarsaparilla being in universal use, is sold almost everywhere. Ask for that and take no other.
