

THE OREGON SENTINEL.

Timely Suggestions.

1. If a man faints, place him flat on his back and let him alone.

2. If any poison is drunk instantly half a glass of cool water with a heating teaspoon each of common salt and ground mustard stirred into it; this vomits as soon as it reaches the stomach; but for fear that some of the poison may still remain, swallow the white of two eggs, or drink a cup of strong coffee, these two being antedotes for a greater number of poisons than any dozen articles known, with the advantage of their being always at hand; if not, half a pint of sweet oil, or lamp oil, or "drippings," or melted butter, or lard, are good substitutes, especially if they vomit quickly.

3. The best thing to stop the bleeding of a moderate cut instantly is to cover it profusely with cob web, or flour and salt half-and-half.

4. If the blood comes from a wound by jets or spurts, be spry, or the man will die in a few minutes, because an artery is severed; tie a handkerchief loosely around near the part between the wound and the heart; put a stick between the handkerchief and the skin, twist it around until the blood ceases to flow, and keep it there until the doctor comes; in a position where the handkerchief cannot be used, press the thumb on a spot near the wound, between the wound and the heart, increasing the pressure until the bleeding ceases, but do not lessen the pressure for an instant, until the physician arrives, so as to give up the wound by the coagulation or hardening of the cooling blood.

5. If your clothes take fire, slide the hands down the dress, keeping them close to the body as possible, at the same time slushing on the floor by bending the knees; this has a smothering effect on the flames; if not extinguished, or great headway is gotten, lie down on the floor and roll over and over, or better, envelope yourself in a carpet, rug, bed cloth, or any garment you can get hold of, always preferring woolen.

6. If your body is tired, rest; if the brain is tired, sleep.

7. If your bowels are loose, lie down in a warm bed, remain there until you are well.

8. If an action of the bowels does not occur at the usual hour, eat not an atom until they do act, at least for thirty-six hours, meanwhile drink largely of cold water or hot tea, and exercise in the open air to the extent of a gentle perspiration, and keep this up until things are aightened. This suggestion, if practiced, would save myriads of lives every year, both in city and country.

9. The best medicines in the world are warmth, abstinence and repose.—Hall's Journal of Health.

What the Democrats Do.—Forney, in his "Occasional" letters from Washington, says: Have you ever heard a secessionist talk politics like a Democrat? Have you ever heard a sympathizer with Secession talk politics who did not boast of his Democracy? Men who have been identified with all the battles against the honored organization—buried in the grave of Douglass—and whose malignity against the old principles of that party has been exhibited under all administrations, are now seeking shelter under the name of Democracy, in order the more successfully to assist the rebels in arms against the Constitution and laws. These partisans employ a logic of their own when reminded of their complicity with the rebels.

Girls.—There are two kinds of girls. One is the kind that appears the best abroad—the girls that are good for parties, rides, visits, balls, etc., and whose chief delight is in such things. The other is the kind that appear best at home—the girls that are useful and cheerful in the dining-room, the sick-room, and all the precincts of home. They differ widely in character. One is often a torment at home, the other is a blessing. One is a moth, consuming everything about her; the other is a sunbeam, inspiring life and gladness along her pathway. Now, it does not necessarily follow that there shall be two classes of girls. The right education will modify both a little, and unite their good qualities in one.

A VALUABLE REMEDY.—Every family should keep a quantity of chlorate of potash. We have never found anything equal to it for a simple ulcerated sore throat. Dissolve a small teaspoonful of it in a tumbler of water, and then occasionally take a spoonful of the solution so as to gargle the throat. It is nearly tasteless, and not at all offensive to taste, and is hence well adapted to children. Nothing is better than this for chapped or cracked hands. Wash them in the weak solution, and they will soon be well. It is also good for a rough, pimply or chapped face. It may be had at any druggist's.

WOMAN MUST LOVE.—Disguise or shun the facts as we will, woman must love with all her soul or she ceases to be a woman. She may love an ideal, or a cold-hearted, selfish man, or one who gives the deep, passionate love of a warm heart in return; or she may love a child, or a lap-dog, or a bird, or some gold fishes; any or all these she may love, but love she must.

AMONG the letters found by our soldiers in the rebel camp at Roanoke Island was one from a young lady in the South to her lover in the rebel army, in which she says: "I hope we shall meet each other again here; but if we do not, I hope we shall meet in heaven, where there will be no Yankees!"

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer relates that a skull was found in the late camp of a Mississippi regiment at Manassas, upon which were carved the words, "All that is left of a Fire Zouave."

A DUTCHMAN being called upon for a toast, said:

"Here! to de heroes who fit, pled and died at de battle of Punker Hill—whom I am one."
