Hereditary bondsmen, know ye not,
Who would be free, themselves must strike
the blow!—O'CONNELL.

TO IRISH-AMERICAN CITIZENS.

Fellow-Countrymen: The epoch in which we live is the grandest the world has seen for the last thousand years. Inspiration and our hearts tell us that we are the generation of Irishmen, whose high destiny, privilege and duty it is to take part in and witness the great fundamental truths of the Declaration of Independence carried out and illustrated on the battle-fields of the nation, by a patriotic and free people, namely: that there are certain inalienable rights possessed by all men, and of which they cannot be deprived, and amongst them are, "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

The civil war that has arisen in the United States, through the machinations and secret societies of the slave oligarchy, aided by the corrupt and treacherous leaders of the Democratic party in the free States, is but the opening wedge in the glorious drama of freedom that is to be played by the down-trodden millions of Europe, when the Government of the United States crushes the hideous and unholy rebellion that lifted its gorgon eyes and raised its hydra head in our free and happy land, and, in the strength of a reunited and patriotic people, with all the mighty resources that the providence of God has placed within its reach, shall carry out to the letter with England and France the "Monroe doctrine" of "no interference by European Government in the political affairs of this continent," and in thunder tones will demand from the Government of England payment to the last dollar for the ships and merchandise captured by the privateers built, equipped, armed and manned in, and contiguous to, her waters, and, without desiring to wound the sensibilities of the French people, will request its Government to make a treaty with Mexico, and withdraw its armies from the same.

Fellow-countrymen: it is in our power to keep the shamrock in our native glens from being again moistened by the blood of our kinsmen. To do this, it is only necessary for us to be true to our oath of allegiance, and those high resolves and principles that O'Connell so long endeavored to teach the Irish people, and that General Meagher so eloquently and patriotically portrayed in his orders to the Irish brigade. It is, then, for the great principles for which the Government of the United States are contending, and not for men, that we are to come forward, and, in accordance with our oath, "support and maintain it against all its enemies and opposers whomsoever." In doing this, it will bring us in contact with the "red coats" in Canada and British Columbia; and as our forefathers at Fontenoy saved the crown of France, and caused King William to exclaim, "a curse upon the laws that deprive me of such subjects," so we will cause Queen Victoria to make the same exclamation, when carrying the flag of our adopted country, with the green one glinting beneath its stars, we shall burst with our Faugh a ballagh! the British center along the Erie, and forcing them back on the plains of Montreal, we will, as the reserve corps of the American army, do in that great battle what our forefathers did at Fontenoy, and decide the day. With the fall of the British power in Canada, the English Government dare not withhold from the Irish people their legislative independence, and, with it in their possession, it will be their own fault if their national independence does not follow, should they deem it necessary to their happiness and prosperity.

As one of the people, a working-man, earning my daily bread by the sweat of my brow, at gold mining, I call on you, my fellow countrymen, to renounce, spit upon, and condemn the damnable demagogue, the toadies and lick-spittles of the Southern oligarchy, who, by sophistry, lies, and the falsification of history, are endeavoring to lead you, the lion of the people, into the snares of the toiler; and in the belief that a patriotic and free press will spread before you "the voice of the people," and not that of the tricky and corrupt politicians who batten on our blood and substance, I call upon you, by all you hold dear on the earth below, or in the heavens above, to stand forward, shoulder to shoulder, foot to foot, in support of Abraham Lincoln, our honored and trusted President, in discharge of the grave, responsible and patriotic duties imposed on him as the constitutional head of a free people; and, in conclusion, I dedicate to you the following lines:

Dear Erin, thy cry to Jehovah
For aid, 'gainst starvation's dark pall,
And for justice on Saxon and landlord,
Is heard by the Father of all.
Thy harp is now thrilling with numbers
That echoed through 'Taras Old Hall.'
And the wolf-dog has raised to his haunches
To spring for the tyrant's downfall.

The sun-burst of freedom illumines
The sky of the western world;
And thy patriot sons in Columbia
Have the green flag for battle unfurled.
The Ottawa's bright rushing waters
Will hear our brigade's firm tread;
And Liberty's star-spangled banner
Shall float where Montgomery bled.

No longer to Norman and Saxon
For justice will Irishmen speak,
But, with monitors, muskets and cannon,
Five centuries of tyranny break.
For Ulster remembers Danganooon,
And Munster her starved Shilleen;
And Ireland, from Liffey to Shannon,
The Chiefs who at Tara were slain.

Then up with the green flag of Erin,
O'er a nation ere long it will wave,
And the stars and the stripes of the Union
In grandeur its beauties will shade.
Then, brothers, be true in the battle—
No perjured mercenaries we'll be;
But on treason our musket-balls rattle,
Our bayonets make way for the free.

HIBERNIA,
Applegate, Ogn., March 15, 1863.

The News.

The following is a condensation of the news of Wednesday evening. The State dates are up to the 14th day of this month. There were rumors that the rebels were preparing an immense fleet in England, with the hope of raising the blockade. The British steamer Queen of the Wave was ashore near Charleston—crew escaped. Schooner Belle, of Nassau, was captured off the coast of Georgia, with a cargo of coffee and salt. Fort McCallister had not been taken at latest dates. The mortar boats had returned to Port Royal. No movement had been made upon Charleston. The insurgents are said to have 400 guns mounted for the defense of the city. Conflicting rumors agitate the populace. Beauregard has revoked all furloughs, and called all absentees to their posts. Rebel accounts say that Bragg has been reinforced with eleven brigades from Richmond. Van Dorn's whole force had retreated to Shelbyville. A large fleet of gunboats and transports arrived at Nashville on the 10th. The rebel plan is said to be to hold Rosecrans in check, while a large force shall overrun Kentucky and capture Louisville and Cincinnati. "All is quiet on the Potomac," but the indications are that Hooker will soon win laurels or lose his command. If he fails, his doom is fixed. If he wins, the nation will honor him, and his predecessors will glide silently into oblivion, beneath the shade of his glory. Transportation has been cut down, superfluous baggage has been dispersed with, and officers placed on the same footing as the men as to tents. Rebel negro pickets have appeared all along the south bank of the Rappahannock. What will the sympathizers say to this? They won't say anything! How foolish the rebels are in employing niggers! Have not their northern friends told them a thousand times that the black man was a graceless traitor? Bah! The news from Vicksburg consists of cheering rumors. It is said that Yazoo city has been captured, and that the Confederate fleet between that point and Haines Bluff, had been destroyed. Rosecrans telegraphs to the War Department, that Vicksburg has been evacuated by the rebels. The news is believed in military circles. It is pretty certain that Grant has them in such a fix that they must leave or do worse. It is said that the noted guerrilla chief, Richardson, with 400 men, had been surrounded and captured, near Covington, Tenn.

The feeling in England is getting stronger and stronger every day in favor of the American Government. The New York Express says that Secretary Chase was offered by European parties, $100,000,000 in gold at the current rate of exchange. Premium on gold, New York 14th, 53a54. The following from San Francisco shows conclusively that quite a number of Peace Democrats had a serious notion of emigrating.

San Francisco, 15th.—The Schooner, J. M. Chapman, which cleared for Manzanillo yesterday, was getting under way this morning, when she was boarded by three boats from the U. S. Sloop-of-War Cyane. The crew was armed—they took possession of the vessel and she was towed over to Alcatraz and made fast to a wharf. She is filled with ammunition and arms, and rumor has it that she was intended for a rebel privateer, and that she had wood on board and other material for the manufacture of gun carriages. It is also stated that 18 men were found on board. This number of crew would be excessive, as she is only 91 tons register. She is a fast sailor; arrived here February 15th, under command of Captain Chapman, 130 days from New York, with a cargo of beans to Hellman Bro's.

San Francisco, March 16th.—The following is the clearance of the schooner J. M. Chapman, seized by the Custom House authorities, on charge of being a rebel privateer, intending to prey upon the U. S. commerce. Seven hundred and eighty-seven flasks of quicksilver, bread, cords, 50 cases drugs, wines, oils, &c., all of the value of $33,565. A partial examination of the vessel was taken to-day, which resulted in the finding of 50 men in the hold; also several cases marked machinery, the contents of which, on examination, proved to consist of several brass cannon, and large inventories of muskets, cutlasses, pistols, powder, solid and hollow shot, and several shrapnel. The names of the parties now in Alcatraz are as follows: Ridgely, Greathouse, ostensibly owner, A. Robery, an Englishman, who claims to be a passenger, Cliffe, First Officer of the schooner, Thomas Rople, Jos. A. Smith, alias Snyder, Watkins, of Kentucky, Alfred Arnold, from Ottawa here, Henry C. Boyd, of Delaware, R. H. Duval, of Florida, and the following parties, nativity unknown. W. D. Moore, J. W. McFadden, Wm. Maron, John E. Kent, Alvin P. Crow, D. W. Brown, John Fletcher, James Smeey, G. W. Davis, M. H. Marshall and five sailors, cook, steward and Captain. A Mr. Maglada was arrested on shore, for shipping the arms and munitions of war, under the pretense of machinery, he having made out invoice of the same. Maglada, on being arrested, denied having any knowledge of the contents. The Government officers state that they have full proof of the contemplated use of this vessel as a privateer under the rebel flag.

ARTEMUS WARD AS AN EDITOR.—In the autumn of 18— my friend the editor of the Baldwinsville Bugle, was obliged to leave paternal duties & go & dig taters, and he axed me to edit for him doerin his absence. Accordingly I ground up his Shoers, and commenced. It didn't take a great while to slash out copy enuff from the exchanges for one issue, and thawt I'd take a ride up to the next town on a little jaunt, to rest my bones which had been severely raked by mental efforts. (This is sorter ironical.) So I went over to the Rail Robe Office and axed the Superintendent for a pass.
"You a editor?" he axed, evidently on the pint of snickerin'.
"Yec, sir," sez I, "don't I look poor enuff?"
"Jest about," sez he "but our road can't pass you."
"Can't, hay?"
"No, sir—it can't."
"Because," sez I, looking him full in the face with an Eagle eye, "it goes so darned slow it can't pass anybody!"
Menthinks I had him thar. It's the slowest Rail Road in the west.
With a mortified air he told me to get out of his office. I pitied him and went.

"Well, I suppose you have been out to look at Texas—did you see anything of our friend Jim out there?" "Yec, gone deranged." "Gone deranged?" How? what does he do? real crazy?" "Yec indeed, he doesn't know his own hogs from his neighbor's."
