"A Picture of Domestic Happiness."

Two or three girls and two or three boys, Dirty, and ragged, and making a noise; Some calling for this and others for that; One pinching the dog—another the cat— And Bill, the sly rogue, with a sorrowful phiz. Bawling out that "Sam's bread has more butter than his!" And then the sly urchins, all covered with grease, Sitting down on the hearth to examine each piece; And if one is the widest, or thickest, or longest, Let him that's the weakest beware of the strongest; A battle ensues, and a terrible clatter, And the mother cries out, "Oh dear! what's the matter?" Each tells his own story, and tries to defend it— "It won't do, you young rogues, a boxed ear must end it."

THE TRAGEDY OF MAZEPPA ENACTED IN REALITY.—The New Orleans correspondent of the Boston Journal writes as follows:

Your readers are familiar with the escape of General A. J. Hamilton from Texas, but the General himself may still be ignorant of the fate of one of his companions, Clum McKane, whose adventures find no parallel save in the tragic play of Mazepa. When Hamilton escaped from Texas a reward of one thousand dollars was offered for his arrest, and he was pursued by a party of Texan rangers, who followed him into Mexico, and while dogging his path in the rear, they sent messengers ahead who reported to the rancheeros that the General and his companions were a band of thieves.

Finding it impossible to obtain food on the road, Hamilton dispatched Clum to Camargo for a permit to travel. He was taken prisoner by the rebels, stripped naked and bound to a high spirited horse, which was let loose among the chaparral. The poor fellow was thus borne several miles, the thorns and points of the prickly pear lacerating his body in a shocking manner. Weak and bleeding he was taken across the Rio Grande to San Ignacio to be hung. A handkerchief which his would be murderers had stolen from him, was returned as he was entering the town, and this tied about his loins constituted his only covering.

A relative of his wife interceded and saved his life, and he was taken to San Antonio and thrown into prison, where he remained some time with a ball and chain attached to his limbs. Having been captured on Mexican soil, Vidaurri, the Governor of New Leon, made a formal demand for his release, which the Confederates studiously concealed from the people, while they went through the form of a trial, and released their prisoner. McKane made his way back to Mexico, and was among those who arrived here on the Kensington.

GEN. STEEL.—This distinguished officer was invited to be present at the recent great meeting at the Cooper Institute, New York, and make a speech. In his reply, expressing his regret that he could not attend, he says:

I believe in the Monroe doctrine, in the Bailer code, in the President's proclamation, in the good will and perseverance of the people, in the undaunted courage of our volunteers, in the final vindication of the honest, the just and the brave; in the liberation of the down-trodden and the slave, and in the overthrow and death of the Southern oligarchy.

DOUBTLESS A STORY.—We observed yesterday a little, thin old man, with a ragged bag in his hand, picking up a large number of pieces of whalebone, which lay in the street. The deposit was of such a singular nature, that we presumed to ask the quaint looking gatherer how he supposed they came there. "Don't know" he replied, in a squeaking voice, "but I 'spect some unfortunate female was wrecked here—about somewhere."

A new question has arisen under the Emancipation Proclamation. Washington correspondence of March 30th, remarks that there are at least 500 negroes advertised for sale in Kentucky, under its internal police laws, who are freemen—fugitives from Alabama and Mississippi. A debate has already commenced in Cabinet meetings on the question, "Can States, through local laws, revert to bondage colored men whom the President's Proclamation made free?"

PRIZE FIGHT IN ENGLAND.—The match between Heenan and King, for the championship of England, was completed in London on the 17th of March. They are to fight for £1,000 a side and the belt. £100 a side of the money was put down.

There is said to be a girl somewhere in New York whose heart was so warm that it burnt through her bosom.

Gentility is said to be eating meat with a silver fork, when the butcher has not been paid.

CIRCULAR.

HEAD-QUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF PACIFIC, PROVOST MARSHAL'S OFFICE, San Francisco April 2, 1863.

SOLDIERS—regulars or Volunteers—who have deserted, or absented themselves from their companies or regiments without leave:

The opportunity is now afforded you to wipe out the stain attached to yourselves, and from your families and friends the shame and reproach consequent upon your desertion or unauthorized absence from your regiments.

The President of the United States, by his proclamation, dated March 10, 1863, offers to restore you to the service without punishment, except forfeiture of pay during your absence, provided you report yourselves on or before the 1st of June next. It is known that many of you in times past, were induced to desert the service, with the vain hope of making your fortunes speedily in the mines, and have often since desired to return to duty in the army.

It is believed that since treason and rebellion have involved our once happy country in all the horrors of civil war, and drenched the land in blood, evil disposed persons—traitors in the guise of friends—have enticed you to desert the noble FLAG, your fathers and you once revered. Rally again around that flag—assist your country in maintaining the supremacy of its Constitution and laws—nay, even its national existence, and show by your zealous devotion that the enemies of your country are your bitterest foes.

Report yourselves in person at once to the commanding officer of the nearest military post, or to any recruiting officer; or by addressing a letter to the undersigned, you will be instructed to whom you may report.

Lieut. Colonel U. S. A.
