Railroad Meeting.

At a meeting of the citizens of Jacksonville held at the Court House, on Thursday evening, May 15th, House was called to order, and Judge J. C. Tolman elected President, and E. F. Russell Secretary.

The President announced the object of the meeting, and introduced Mr. S. E. Elliott, Civil Engineer, who addressed the citizens on the subject of railroads, setting forth in a clear and logical manner the interests of our people, and the advantages that would be gained by the construction and completion of a branch Pacific Railroad from Marysville to Portland, through the rich and fertile region of Southern Oregon. The Speaker was followed by Messrs. Douthitt, Fay and Gaston, in well timed and appropriate remarks.

The following preamble and resolutions were read and adopted:

Whereas: That in the Pacific Railroad Bill, as it has passed and became a law, there is no provision made for a branch railroad, connecting the Sacramento river with the Columbia, via the Rogue River, Umpqua and Willamette valleys, which provision was omitted in said law, was contained in House Bill 364 of the 2d Session of the 37th Congress, introduced and advocated by the Hon. Mr. Campbell, March 14th, 1862, and as such an omission is an act generally injurious to the interests of the people of Oregon and Northern California, therefore be it

Resolved, 1st, That we are determined to do all in our power to remedy the same, by obtaining the same grant of land from the Government for such branch Railroad, as is contained in the present Pacific Railroad; to-wit: Five alternate sections on each side of said road, and aid in bonds to the amount of $16,000 per mile for the valleys, and $48,000 per mile for the mountains.

Resolved, 2d, That we are decidedly in favor of a railroad connecting the Willamette and Sacramento valleys; that we will co-operate with our fellow citizens in other counties, and our friends in California, in urging our Representatives in Congress to labor to procure grants of lands, and the aid of loans similar to that extended to other great lines of public improvement, of National importance and military necessity, that we feel the importance of presenting our requests backed by statistics, facts, and careful surveys in regard to the military necessity and practicability of such a road; and of its prospective importance to the country in developing its agricultural and mineral resources, and enlarging its business operations and with proper estimate of its cost, statement of grades, and other facilities for its construction; and that so far as procuring aid from the Government in the construction of said road, the interests of California and Oregon are identical, and that we will act as if no State line divided us.

Resolved, 3d, That a committee of ten be appointed by this meeting, to solicit and receive subscriptions, to aid in making a preliminary survey of such proposed road; that the condition of such subscriptions shall be, that the amount so subscribed and paid in shall entitle the contributors to the same privileges as the California contributors, in regard to being incorporated of the road under its California Charter; and that the same shall be paid when the survey has made certain progress in Oregon—one half when the survey has reached the Umpqua, from the South, and one half when the survey has been completed from the Umpqua to the Willamette valley; that the amount so subscribed and paid in, be deposited with James T. Glenn of Jacksonville, and be subject to the Engineer in charge of said survey.

On motion the meeting adjourned, to meet on Wednesday, the 10th day of June, 1863, at 4 o'clock, P. M.

Jacksonville, May 15, 1863.

A SOLDIERS' GRAVEYARD—A correspondent of the Evening Post, with the army before Vicksburg, sends the following description of a soldiers' graveyard:

Perhaps one of the first things you would notice in the vicinity of Vicksburg would be the long lines of graves on the river slope of the levee, and bordering our path within a foot or two of it for a considerable portion of our walk; they do not lie side by side, there is scarcely room on the slope of the levee for two abreast, but are buried head to foot, a long single file of dead that crowd upon the path of the living. Every regiment carries its dead to that portion of the levee, immediately in front of it; and if you had no other guide the rude head boards would tell you what regimental camps you were passing.

The best of these head boards are only pieces of box lids. Sometimes those that belong to one regiment or to one battery present a neater appearance and similarity of execution, that betrays the workmanship of the same hand, some one who has been tacitly elected by his comrades "carver of the graveboards;" some kindly soul that, with deadly handled jackknife, carves the name of comrade after comrade on these frail materials to guide the friends that may some time come to take him home.

In the majority of cases, however, the name is only written with a pencil on a small piece of board, and in many instances only a stick or small bough is stuck into the ground at either end of the grave to warn the throng that passes to withhold their feet. Nearly all of these graves are below the level of the river, but it is the only place where the dead can find a rest. The ground where the camps are pitched is too wet, and the top of the levee must be reserved as a thoroughfare for the living. The sight of these graves so slightly marked, and whose borders encroached upon the only highway, shocks one at first, but in a day or two one becomes accustomed to it. Soldiers lounge among the graves, and smoke their pipes sitting on the ground, regardless of the fact that only a couple of feet beneath them lies one who, perhaps, a few days before lounged and smoked there as unconcerned as they.

MINERAL PRODUCE OF GREAT BRITAIN.—Sir R. J. Murchison, in an address before the Geological section of the British Association, (1861), thus states the present yearly production of Great Britain:

"We are now consuming and exporting 80 millions of tons of coal annually—a prodigious recent increase, and daily augmenting. Of iron ore we raise and smelt upwards of seven millions of tons, producing 3,826,000 tons of pig iron. Of copper ore, we raise from our mines 236,696 tons, which yield 15,968 tons of metallic copper; and from our native metallic minerals we obtain of tin 6,695 tons; of lead 63,525 tons; and of zinc 4,357 tons. The total annual value of our minerals and coal is estimated at £26,993,573, and that of metals (the produce of the above minerals) and coal at £37,121,318."

CIRCULAR.

HEAD-QUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF PACIFIC,
PROVOST MARSHAL'S OFFICE,
San Francisco April 2, 1863.

SOLDIERS—regulars or Volunteers—who have deserted, or absented themselves from their companies or regiments without leave:

The opportunity is now afforded you to wipe out the stain attached to yourselves, and from your families and friends the shame and reproach consequent upon your desertion or unauthorized absence from your regiments.

The President of the United States, by his proclamation, dated March 10, 1863, offers to restore you to the service without punishment, except forfeiture of pay during your absence, provided you report yourselves on or before the 1st of June next. It is known that many of you in times past, were induced to desert the service, with the vain hope of making your fortunes speedily in the mines, and have often since desired to return to duty in the army.

It is believed that since treason and rebellion have involved our once happy country in all the horrors of civil war, and drenched the land in blood, evil disposed persons—traitors in the guise of friends—have enticed you to desert the noble FLAG, your fathers and you once revered. Rally again around that flag—assist your country in maintaining the supremacy of its Constitution and laws—nay, even its national existence, and show by your zealous devotion that the enemies of your country are your bitterest foes.

Report yourselves in person at once to the commanding officer of the nearest military post, or to any recruiting officer; or by addressing a letter to the undersigned, you will be instructed to whom you may report.

Lieut. Colonel U. S. A.
