

"TO THE EFFICACY AND PERMANENCY OF YOUR UNION, A GOVERNMENT FOR THE WHOLE IS INDISPENSABLE."—Washington.

JACKSONVILLE, OREGON.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, - - JUNE 21, 1863.

Lewiston is the temporary capital of Idaho Territory.

Jas. M. Pyle, Esq., formerly of Douglas County, has been appointed by Gov. Gibbs, county Judge of Baker county, vice Jos. G. Wilson, resigned.

DEDICATION AND BALL.—The Odd fellows of Fort Jones, Siskiyou county, Cal., intend dedicating their new hall on July 1st. A ball will be had in the evening.

MASSONIC CELEBRATION.—The Masonic fraternity of Yreka advertise a very interesting order of exercises for the celebration of the anniversary of St. John the Baptist, on June 24th, closing with a ball at the Metropolitan Hotel.

The Times says the largest shipment of treasure received at Portland this season, was brought from the north on the 18th inst., by the steamer Wilson G. Hunt. The total receipt is estimated at six hundred pounds.

IN DEMAND.—Fishing-tackle, rifle ammunition, and quadruped conveyances, on Monday last, for the party who left our place on that day, for a pleasure trip and tour of observation to the Klamath Lakes. We hope they will have a delightful time, and that the promised report of a description of the country, the location of Fort Klamath, etc., will not fail to reach us.

The Board of Managers of the Oregon State Agricultural Society met at Salem, June 23. Present J. Q. Thornton, President, and T. G. Naylor, Thomas Cross, Wm. J. Herron, Jno. Laughlin, D. C. Steward, D. H. Prettyman, J. P. Welch, S. E. May, C. N. Terry, J. H. Moores. The premium list for 1863 was agreed upon, the Awarding Committees appointed, and it was ordered that the next State Fair be held at Salem, commencing on Tuesday, the 15th day of September next, to continue four days.

R. R. V. & J. D. WAGON ROAD.—Elsewhere in this paper will be found a report of the proceedings of the Wagon Road meeting, held in this place on Saturday last.

On Monday last, Superintendent D. D. Manger started, with a wagon-load of provisions and fifteen white laborers, to commence work on the road, and on Tuesday twenty-two Chinamen were sent to join them. It is supposed, also, that a number of the residents in the immediate vicinity of Rouge River have joined them, and swelled the available force to not less than fifty. Thus, it will be seen, the eleven-hundred days' work required to complete the road, will be done in twenty-six days. The white laborers are paid $25 per month and board, and tools and cooking utensils furnished. The Chinamen get $22 per month, and are furnished with provisions, but are required to procure their own tools and cooking apparatus. Mr. H. Bloom, to whom we are indebted for the facts above stated, has also informed us that about $2,400 have already been subscribed, and full confidence is entertained that the full stock of $5,000 can readily be obtained.

No Telegraphic Dispatch on Tuesday. YREKA, June 22d.

El. Sentinel.—I shall have to disappoint you to-night. We commenced taking the report, but ere we had received a dozen words, the elements broke forth in all their terrible grandeur, rain fell in torrents, intermingled with bushels of full grown hail. The lightning flashed, while Heaven's artillery dismounted the combined efforts of Hooker and Lee to make a noise. Yours, in a d-d - of a storm.

"SIXTY MOMENT."—It was on or about Thursday of last week, when the people who had come in to see the races, and those who had come to Jacksonville, the town of law, to be avenged of their enemies and have their wrongs redressed at the hands of the lawyers, had well nigh all departed for their homes, and our town had become exceedingly dull; they who sold goods, and they who sold whisky were fain to sleep behind their counters, and their crinolines and calicos, their toddies and colobers became a burden on their hands. For behold the people had made great purchases, so that they would not want any more for many days. As the sun was in the wane, a great noise was heard in the upper end of town, and there was a great rush of people thither. And behold, two women of the heathen tribes who had possessed the land in the days of Old Joe, their great chief, and who some Christians had kindly taken unto themselves for wives, had declared war one against another, and their wrath was exceeding great. And behold, they had begun to rend each others garments, and pull from each other's head exceeding great locks of hair, and using many Christian epithets, showing plainly the wonderful influence of civilization upon these benighted, heathen women. Now, about this time, came a man of Jacksonville, of exceeding great strength, at the Marshal came also. And each laid hold of a woman, and others of the crowd assisted them, until they had put a stop to the combat. But one of the women whose wrath was very great, laid hold of the man of Jacksonville, and was well nigh unto surrounding and capturing him, when he was released by the Marshal, and the twain quickly cast her into prison. And there was left on the ground many rent garments, and monitors, and much hair, but there was not the sign of blood in all the ground about.

Then the people cried, with many voices: "Hau chite? Hau sashum nomenek steech chushum nomenek sula naryon steech. Hosten chushum capu nard tipa." And from that time until the going down of the sun there was no more dullness in the town.

ISSUE VIEW OF REBELRY.—May 31. Richard T. Colburn, reporter for the New York World, and two reporters of the Tribune, were taken prisoners by the rebels at Vicksburg. From Vicksburg the correspondents were sent to Richmond via Jackson, Miss., Selma and Montgomery, Ala., Atlanta Ga., Knoxville, and East Tennessee. Colburn having been released, has furnished a long and interesting narrative, to the World, which is all the more important from his known entire reliability and habits of accurate observation. We make the following brief extract from the narrative:

The captured correspondents addressed numerous notes, jointly, to the rebel authorities to secure their release, but for some reason unknown to any of them, the rebels finally released the World's correspondent, but retained those of the Tribune. They would give no explanation of their conduct, and not a promise as to the correspondents still retained; but it is believed they will be speedily released.

The conclusion formed in a three weeks sojourn within the limits of the Confederacy, and a trip almost across the entire extent by a circuitous route that led, almost down to the Gulf, then up again through the mountains of East Tennessee to Richmond and along the valley of the James, may be thus briefly summed up:

First.—The people are brave, determined, and in the main united.
Second.—There may be temporary suffering for want of sufficient food, but starvation is impossible.
Third.—Although they can never probably have their army again at as high a number as now, as the material for conscription is almost exhausted, yet, as the war has been conducted thus far, their military resources are sufficient to keep up the struggle for two years more.

Fourth.—Their strength is thrown entirely to the frontier, and if that frontier line were once pierced, if our Generals then begin to do their duty, the whole fabric of rebellion will be toppling down like a house built of cards.

Fifth.—Union and perseverance at the North are what the rebels most dread. Their greatest hope lies in our division, and their encouragement is derived from the conduct of such men as Vallandigham. He is regarded there as a martyr to the Southern cause, and they are convinced that he must have a considerable portion of the Northern people at his back.

Repentance is the spring of virtue. Virtue does not give talents, but it supplies their place—talents neither give virtue nor supply the place of it.

Wagon Road Meeting.

The R. R. Valley and John Day Wagon Road Company met at the Court House, on Saturday, June 20th, pursuant to adjournment.

The report of the Central Committee having been submitted, announcing that subscriptions so far as heard from amounted to $1,915; that D. D. Manger had been hired as Superintendent; that a number of men were ready to go to work at a moment's notice and that the articles of incorporation had been drawn up, agreeable to instructions, was received and placed on file. The articles of incorporation having been read by Col. T. Vault, on motion of J. B. Wisley, were adopted and signed by the incorporators.

On motion of R. F. Morford, the Committee were requested to correspond with prominent citizens of Canyon City and Auburn, for the purpose of soliciting aid and subscriptions.

On motion of E. C. Sessions, the Committee were instructed to publish the proceedings, and a copy of the articles of incorporation in the papers.

The meeting then adjourned to meet June 27th, at the Court House, at two o'clock p. m.

Wm. KAMMER, Chairman.

E. C. Sessions, Sec'y.
Jacksonville, June 20, 1863.

Articles of incorporation made and entered into this 20th day of June, A. D. 1863, between John S. Love, Herman Bloom, John E. Wisley, Isaac Clumhart and John S. Miller, Trustees of the Wagon Road from Jacksonville, Rogue River Valley, to Ashland, the same may be seen at the clerk's office in the office of John Devo River, at or near the residence, for the benefit of the stockholders of said corporation.

The amount of stock of said corporation to be "The Rogue River Valley and John Day Wagon Road," and the capital stock of said Company to be six thousand dollars, in shares of twenty-five dollars each.

Said corporation to continue for the term of twenty years from this date.

The said Trustees subscribing and taking the entire amount of capital to be divided with and among the stockholders, who may hereafter subscribe, in shares of twenty-five dollars.

The purposes of said corporation are to open said wagon road for public use, free of tax or toll, and to prevent any incorporation of said road, or any portion of bridges on the same from becoming toll bridges or toll roads, unless at the direction of a majority of the stockholders in the corporation.

The office, or principal place of business to be at Jacksonville, Jackson county, State of Oregon.

The said corporation will commence said road for travel within two years from this date, and will, in all things, be governed by the laws of Oregon relating to private corporations.

Witness our hand and seal this 21 day of June A. D. 1863.

THE DIRECTOR.—The editor of the Oregonian is responsible for the following:

What is the difference between the people of Oregon and the magnetic telegraph? The people cease to rely on the telegraph, but the telegraph still relies on the people.
