

"TO THE EFFICACY AND PERMANENCY OF YOUR UNION, A GOVERNMENT FOR THE WHOLE IS INDISPENSABLE."—Washington.

JACKSONVILLE, OREGON.

THURSDAY EVENING, - - - JUNE 27, 1863.

M. A. Brentano has lots of fireworks, gimeranks and fancy notions for the Fourth. Go and see him.

The Methodist divine, Rev. Mr. Starr, will preach in Jacksonville to-morrow, at the usual time and place.

AN INDISPENSIBLE FACT.—That Sachs Bro's promise to sell goods, of the best quality, cheaper than the cheapest.

COPPER.—Valuable discoveries in copper are being made in California. While we wish our California friends great success in unearthing rich copper "fiet" may they at their next election bury fathoms deep the hopes of the detestable Copper-heads.

FOOT'S CREEK QUARTZ.—From five tons of rock taken from Lyon's lead, on Foot's Creek, $500 was realized. This was picked rock, crushed in a common anstraa. The lead is extensive, and it is thought the rock will average $50 per ton.

In another column we published a letter from our popular friend, Jas. Twogood, written at Chicago, Ill. He has found himself a stranger in his boyhood home, and evidently wishes himself back at his old home in our bounteously blessed valley.

THE BALL AT WALDO.—All of our readers in Josephine, who desire to enjoy the festivities of a finely arranged and nicely managed ball, should attend the one advertised to be given by T. B. Thorpe, at Waldo, on the evening of July 3d. It cannot fail being pleasant.

SILVER in paying quantities is said to have been discovered in Siskiyou county. There is known to be silver in various portions of our own county, and it yet remains to be determined by good practical silver miners, of which we have few or none, whether it can be found in paying quantities or not. Most of our citizens believe it can.

A TIE RACE.—The match race between the cream-colored horse "Tex," and Simpson's "Africans," over the Bybee Course, on Saturday last, single dash of a mile, for five hundred dollars a side, resulted in a tie—so declared by the Judges. Time, 1:57. At the call of time for second trial, Simpson refused to run his horse, claiming that, as the race was a tie, the wagers should be drawn; but "Tex" galloped around the course, and it is claimed by his friends that he has won the money. The matter is yet undecided, and the wagers remain in the hands of the stake-holder.

RICH QUARTZ.—We learn from good authority that the quartz lead recently brought to light by Mr. D. Birdseye and Mr. Griffin, on Grave Creek, gives promise of wealth to its owners. It is about three weeks now since this lead was struck, since which time rich rock has been steadily taken out. About a week since, our informant tells us, Mr. Birdseye felt assured there was $3,000 in the pile of quartz then excavated and ready for crushing. Those who have visited and otherwise become acquainted with the lead consider it the most valuable now being worked in this county. Numerous claims have been staked off on the line of the lode, one of which, half a mile distant from the Birdseye & Griffin claim, is being opened with very rich prospects.

COLORS COMPANY.—A company of "colored men" completed their military organization under this title in San Francisco, June 15th.

Harry Brown's Dramatic Company played on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday evenings last past, in our town, to fair paying houses. It is a matter of regret to lovers of the drama, that leading actors in this company should at times so far give way to a "strong weakness" for the "flowing bowl" as to imagine themselves playing to an audience in a fourth-rate San Francisco Melodeon. The elder Booth is said to have only been "Richard himself" when deeply intoxicated; but Brown and Thorne "on a drunk" are like most ordinary individuals in that uninteresting condition—both vulgar and profane. To-night they play again, and, if duly sober, may give satisfaction.

The above was in type for last Wednesday's issue, and was omitted for the benefit of the Wagon Road fund, Harry Brown having very generously (?) offered to play on Thursday night, the proceeds to go to that fund. The Trustees having accepted the very liberal offer, on Thursday evening a good audience assembled to bear and witness the great play of "The Stranger." To those present who had ever witnessed the characters in this play tolerably well rendered, must have been surprised and disappointed at the rendering of the play on Thursday. "Petah" was there; but all the rest were from comparative to total strangers. Middleton, poor unfortunate, we pitied him; he was "terribly broken down in his parts," and was evidently suffering from tooth-ache, ear-ache and neuralgia. After the curtain fell on the last, and what was intended as a deeply affecting scene, deep and long smothered curses burst from the immaculate "Stranger" upon the head of a careless supernumery.

The Secretary of the Wagon Road Company has favored us with a copy of the receipts and expenditures of the entertainment:

Total receipts.....	$94 00
EXPENDITURES:
Ryan, Morgan & Co.'s hall, free.....	$ 00
Advertising in SENTINEL, free.....	00
Two day's work by Mr. H. Bloom.....	00
Printing cards and programmes.....	10 00
Dramatic Company.....	80 00
Recapitulation—Receipts, $94 00; expenses charged, $90 00; Balance of "Benefit," $4 00

Truly, a good benefit!—to Brown's Dramatic Company, only. Last night the "Lady of Lyons" was murdered in the presence of about forty horrified spectators. We understand the guilty parties have made their escape to Gasburg or Yreka. Four dollars should be offered by the Wagon Road Company for their apprehension,—"dead (drunk) or alive."

CHINAMEN ON ROGUE RIVER.—From Mr. Wm. Peckler we learn that from two to three hundred Chinamen, mostly newcomers, are working on the banks and bars of Rogue River, in vicinity of Rock Point. They are supposed to make from fifty cents to one dollar per day. About a year since, a well-known Celestial, having accumulated eight or ten thousand dollars, went to China and brought to Rogue River, an "invoice" of fifty "Johns," who, as is customary, will work a year or two for him as apprentices or slaves.

A Pennsylvania girl, who has been serving as a soldier in the Army of the West for ten months, says she has discovered a great many females among the soldiers, one of whom is now a Lieutenant. She has assisted in burying three female soldiers at different times, whose sex was unknown to any but herself.

We learn from the officers, that the work on the R. R. V. and J. D. Wagon Road is progressing rapidly. A very good road has already been made over ten miles of the route. Subscribers are requested, by advertisement, to forward their subscriptions, which request we hope none will be dilatory in complying with.

LAYING OF THE CORNER STONE.—The corner stone of the First Presbyterian Church of this city was laid yesterday at the appointed hour, in the presence of a large concourse of our citizens. Rev. T. H. Pearne, Caffey and Cornelius officiating. The records of the church organization from its incipency to the present date, together with copies of local and Atlantic journals, were deposited in the stone.—Portland Times, June 23d.

HISSING SNAKES.—When the name of Gen. Corcoran was mentioned at a Democratic meeting at Philadelphia, the Copperheads hissed like vipers—because the brave Irishman had fought for his adopted country.

From Chicago. CHICAGO, Illinois, May 18, 1863. ED. SENTINEL.—Dear Sir: Here we are, back in America, once more, after an absence of twelve years, and oh! what a change has been wrought in the people and country in that time. I could scarcely believe my own eyes. It seems very strange. Where I knew everybody and every house, now I don't even know the streets, and don't see one familiar face out of a thousand. Those that were boys when I left here, are now young men doing business on their own responsibility. Those that were young men then, are now over the summit, running on the down grade, with whitened locks—how sad.

This is decidedly a great place for business. Every place in town is full of overflowing, especially hotels, and all kinds of business is first-rate: in fact, never was better. The war has rather helped Chicago. There are a great many fine brick and stone buildings going up here this summer. They have some very fine private residences in this place, as fine, I presume, as any in America. It's really a big sight to see the vast amount of shipping and railroading done here. There must at least fifty vessels come in per day, besides steamers, propellers and land boats. There are no less than six large passenger depots, besides freight depots without number. One or two pleasure parties come in on the cars every week, and if there's not more than five or six thousand passengers, in fifteen minutes after they arrive you would not notice there was any increase in the population. Every place of amusement in the city is crowded to overflowing every night. Wages are good, and everybody has money (such as it is). There are a great many young ladies employed in different branches of business, such as clerks in fancy dry goods shops, and running machines of different kinds.

As regards financial affairs, money is plenty, such as it is: but its queer looking trash to me. It's all on paper with "we promise to pay," etc.; but then it goes just as well as any, and buys everything a person wants, so "what's the odds" so long as the people have the confidence. Greenbacks appear to take the preference, and even the Copperheads, if they have any money to "salt down," its turned into greenbacks. If we want to see how the war is progressing, all we have to do is to enquire the price of gold. The Wall street gamblers appear to be the great center, and little places like this vibrate to their tune, which now varies from forty-eight to fifty per cent. They play a desperate game, set to the music of financial flirtations, with variations according as they can play upon the fears and fancies of the populace.

The war don't appear to effect this city in the least; on the contrary, it has made business better. The few that have gone to the war are not missed, and you see but few persons dressed in mourning. All appear to be gay and trying to hurry themselves through the world on the fastest and shortest route.

Our General Hooker seems to be the General of the army just now. But generals are made up and made down on short notice now-a-days, and there's no telling where he will be in a week. If he was only a little farther from Washington he would do well enough, but you know "too many cooks spile the broth," etc.

The news we get here now-a-days is more conflicting than what you get out there. One day its Richmond that's taken, sure, and the next day its Washington. And so it goes, a sort of sea-saw game that's not "cumtuxable" to outsiders. It puts me in mind of the Oregon war of 1855-6. Those that have got "a good thing" don't want to see the war closed up. These American people are getting entirely too smart. They want taking down a peg or two. I am sorry to say there are many here who call themselves Americans who are entirely unworthy of the name.

There is going to be the largest emigration across the plains this spring there has been since '53. Most of the emigrants are from Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois. They are taking a good deal of stock.

I have traveled some through Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois. As a general thing the spring crops look very well. But this country has been wheated so much, that the article of Winter Wheat is about played out, and there is but little raised. The grain they raise here is not half so plump as what they raise in Oregon. Its on a par with their paper money—mighty light. Its all very well for people on the Pacific coast to come here on a visiting excursion, but with my experience I must confess the chances and hardships of the journey will dearly pay for the pleasure.

There are going to be pretty lively times here this summer. Many huge conventions, etc.

One can see more here in a week than they can in Oregon in a life-time. But, then, what does it all amount too. Its all "vanity, vanity." The weather here changes every fifteen minutes. The thunder and lightning, paper currency, and hard winters don't agree with the constitution of Your ob't serv't JAS. H. TWOGOOD.

THE TRAITOR'S APPEAL.—Vallandigham appeals to time to justify him. And what will time, what will the impartial historian have to say of him? It must be written that he was, in a time that traitors abounded, one of their sneaking supporters. It must be written that when those with whom he acted in Congress, and whose plans and plots he had helped, one after another dropped out and passed openly over to the enemy, he was too cowardly to take the field with them, but stayed in his seat and continued to do what lay in his power, furtively and otherwise, to fetter the energies of Government and people; and he afterwards lost no opportunity of holding the hands of a great nation, while Floyd nicked its pockets and Jeff Davis tried to cut its throat. It will be said that this man's devotion to his country's enemies could not have been greater if those enemies had been her, as they were his, best friends; that, heeding neither shame nor honor, he consistently voted in Congress against every measure necessary to his country's defense; and when his constituents sent an honest man to fill his place, that then his last resource was to try to inflame the minds of ignorant men, and to stir up sedition at home, while we were pressed hard by an enemy on our borders.—N. Y. Post.

A CLEAR CASE.—Newspaper people are proverbially temperate as well as virtuous. We believe one of the craft did get tightly slight, a few days ago, and the following is a sample of his paper the next day: "Yesterday morning, at 4 o'clock p. m. a small man named Jones or Smith, with a bead in the hole of his trousers, committed arsenick by swallowing a dose of suicide. The verdict of the inquest returned a jury that the deceased came to the fact in accordance with his death. He left a child and six small wives to lament the end of his unfortunate loss. In death we are the midst of life."

Gen. Schenck said in his late speech in Baltimore, with quite as much truth as coarseness, that, in comparison with one of those sneaking, suivelling traitors at home who were all the time shedding crocodile tears over violations of the Constitution, and never saying a word to promote the suppression of the rebellion, the meanest and vilest and loniest soldier in Jeff Davis's army is a patriot and a gentleman.—Louisville Journal.

The next New Hampshire Legislature will have 12 members named Smith, seven Republicans and five Democrats.

Doctor's motto—"Patient and long suffering."

NEW TO-DAY.

Notice to Subscribers to Wagon Road.

ALL those who have subscribed money or other articles for the construction of the R. R. V. & J. D. Wagon Road, are requested to forward at once, or as soon as possible, their subscriptions. The work is now progressing, and money and supplies are needed.
