A Parallel.

[From the Portland Tribune.]
Time was when the mere utterance of the name Benedict Arnold was sufficient to call to the vision of almost any American citizen a dark and frightful picture of treason and crime. "Arnold the Traitor" has been the by-word and joc of the past century. Why was it that the memory of him who fought so bravely at the battle of Quebec, and nobly perished his life for the brave Montgomery, should have been so despised and execrated? There is not a ten year old schoolboy in America who may not answer promptly: It was because he betrayed our country and sought to destroy the great temple of liberty reared by our revolutionary sires and consecrated with their blood. Well may the name of such a man be cherished in our memories only to be despised; and you see the country has passed the blackened character of Benedict Arnold appears pure and spotless when compared with that of those who have since disgraced the reputation. Prominent among this host of traitors stands Clement L. Vallandigham, the most discreditable member of all. Davis, Toombs, Yancey, Floyd and others, though bad enough in all respects, are honest men, highly injured men by the side of the treacherous "discreet" who has perfidiously turned in order to perform acts which they would be ashamed of. They are seeking to dismember the Union, it is true, but they do so openly. Their acts not to be reckoned as treasons of the United States. They are not open enemies and traitors to all fair play. On the other hand, while Vallandigham has ever before High Heaven defended by the Constitution of the United States against all accusations, he has sought by word and deed for every power at command to destroy the free country, by exciting revolution where peace exists, and by poisoning the minds of the loyal masses against the constituted authorities and the Government. He has even been the leader of the Copperhead faction in the North, and his treacherous and disloyal associates have been recruited and scattered from the East to the West. He has been put forward by a treacherous crew in Ohio as the candidate for Governor of that State, and we are sorry to say there are many in this coast who would rejoice at his success.

The following is an extract from Benedict Arnold's Program to the citizens and soldiers of the United States, issued October 20, 1863. There is a similarity between this and the speeches and arguments of Vallandigham that is truly remarkable. Arnold was the first Copperhead in America; Vallandigham is the last:

"You are persecuted liberally by the leaders of your officers, but is there not a right in the enjoyment of it, as in your superiors? who among you dare speak or write what he thinks against the tyranny which has reduced you of your property, imprisoned your sons, dragged you to the field of battle, and is ready deluging your country with your blood?"

Your country once was happy, and had the professed point been concurred, the last two years of war had been spent in peace and plenty, and securing the dissolution of a quarrel that would have set the interests of Great Britain and America in a true light, and removed the real cause of war.

I wish to lead a chosen band of Americans to the attainment of peace, liberty and safety, the first object in taking the field.

What is America but a land of wags, rogues and beggars—but with need of argument to show an infinitely more misery than tongue can express? I give my promise of most afflatus welcome to all who are disposed to join me in measures necessary to close the stems of affliction, which must be increased until we are content with the liberty of the parent country, who still off-sorts protection and personal exemption from all taxes but such as we shall think fit to impose upon ourselves.

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

THE LOST—Henry Sawyer, United States Cavalry at Paranapanema, South America, has just paid to the Government his salary for one year, amounting to nearly two thousand dollars, to help crush out the rebellion.

California now pays her volunteers five dollars per month, in addition to the fifteen paid by the General Government, making in all eighteen dollars per month. Besides this, $100 bounty is given, $25 of which is paid in advances and $25 premium.

The Copperheads of Lancaster, Ohio, destroyed the type of the Leicester, the Union paper of that place, on the night of the 1st of June.
