

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE WAR.—The leading article of the New York Independent says:

"A journey to Washington has quickened our faith in the Government. Unhappily a year ago, the atmosphere of that city was heavy with gloom and despair. Men now going there can come away bringing with them an unimpaired confidence in the great resources of the Government, and in the ability with which those are applied to the needs of the war. All the blunders, all the failures, cannot quench the great faith that the Government has set its heart and soul on putting down the rebellion; and that the rebellion will be put down. Our country will not allow with the President without feeling that wherever she may doubt the wisdom of the war, Abraham Lincoln stands out at all. Not naturally a sanguine man, he yet believes that he is now shutting his hand upon the prize of victory. When other minded men feel enthusiasm, and slow going men feel that the end is near, and conventional men, like Lincoln, feel confident not only of today, but of to-morrow, let the country at large be doubly confident that the crown of triumph is within reach, and that the President's hand will pluck it."

LADIES SHOULD READ NEWS-PAPERS.—It is a great mistake in female education to keep a young lady's time and attention devoted to only the fashionable literature of the day. If you would qualify her for conversation, you must give her something to talk about—give her education with the usual world and its transpiring events. Cause her to read the newspapers and become familiar with the present character and improvement of our race. History is of some importance, but the past world is dead, and we have nothing to do with it. Our thoughts and our concerns should be for the present world, to know what it is and improve the condition of it. Let her have an intelligent opinion, and be able to sustain an intelligent conversation concerning the moral, social, political and religious improvement of our times. Let her be able to discuss and give her own views on the political and social questions of the day. Let her have a part of the time covered with weekly and daily journals. Let the whole family—men, women and children—read the newspapers.

PROVIDING FOR THE GOVERNMENT.—The Nevada Enterprise is responsible for the following: "A Patch Creek farmer of some prominence took a contract to furnish the Government with 200 horses, at $200 a head. He presented the horses, and the Government agent at Sacramento, whose business it was to examine and accept the horses, found but thirty of them fit for service. That number he accepted. Soon a letter came from Major Dixon, from San Francisco, suggesting that fifty more be accepted. The reply was, the horses were not such as the service required, and that they would not be accepted, unless orders came from headquarters to do so. The orders came, and fifty more were accepted. Finally, the whole 200 were taken into camp by orders from headquarters. Previous competent to judge why there was not a horse in the stable worth over $40. These things should be proved to the bottom. A man who would scold the Government in these times ought to be strung up."

A. MORGAN, DENTIST.—The Dayton (O.) Journal gives the following scientific definition of "Greek fire": "A substance which is an unconstitutional composition, compounded by diabolical Yankee Abolitionists, for the express purpose of distressing the friends of the Peace Democracy. Its immediate effect will be to give Democracy and the Unionists a foretaste of what may befall them hereafter."

CAMEL TRAILS.—A train of camels is running from the Humboldt salt mines to Virginia City, packing salt for the Humboldt Salt Company. This will be a cheap transportation. Each camel is able to pack from 800 to 1,000 pounds. It eats nothing to keep them, as they will keep fat on sage brush and greasewood, and the deserts, which are so hard on horses and mules, are just ducks for camels.—Humboldt Register.

"My son, haven't I told you three times to go and shut that gate?" said a father to a three-year old.

"Yes," said young America, "and haven't I told you three times that I wouldn't do it? You must be stupid."

A WARD TO THE PRISONER OF WAR.—I never attempted to reorganize my wife but once. I shall never attempt it again. I had her to a public dinner, and had allowed myself to be betrayed into drinking several glasses of brandy; and within ten minutes I was as reticent as possible. I continued drinking their health until mine became of itself. Goodness was I presented myself at Betty's bedside late at night with considerable liquor consumed about my person. I had somehow got possession of a horse whip on my way home, and remembering some cranky observations of Mrs. Ward's in the morning I swept the whip pretty lively, and in a very loud voice. I said, "Betty, you need reorganizing! I have run, Betty." I continued—cracking the whip over the bed—"I have run to reorganize you! Have you got reorganized?"

I dreamed that night that somebody had laid a hand upon me several consecutive times and when I woke up I found she had. I didn't drink much of anything since, and if I ever have another reorganizing job on hand I shall let it out. My wife is fifty-two years old, and has often sustained a good character. She's a good cook. Her mother lived to a venerable age, and died while in the act of frying shajparks for the County Commissioners. And may we read hand pick a few from her tomb-stone? We haven't got any picture of the old lady, because she'd never stand for her ancestor, and therefore I can't give her likeness to the world through the medium of the illustrated papers; but as she wasn't a Brigadier General, positively, I don't propose they'd publish it, anyhow.

It's best to give a woman considerable baggage. But not too much. A sister of mine, Mrs. Roscoe Minkins, was once very sick with the fever, but his wife moved his into the dove yard while she was cleaning house. I told Roscoe this woman's thing, specially as it was raisin' a row; but he said he wanted to give his wife "a little baggage." That was 2 match. I told Mrs. Minkins that her Roscoe would die if he staid out there in the rain much longer; when she said, "it shan't be my fault if he dies unprepared," at the same time tuckin' him his mother's Bible. It was odd! I staid by, however, and smooed him as well I could, but I was a pretty wet rag, I tell you.

There's various ways of makin' a wife, friend Wales, but the best and only safe way is to let her do just about as she wants to. I do hope that these plan run time ago, and it works like a charm.

Remember me kindly to Mrs. Wales, and good luck to you both! And as years roll by, and accidents begin to happen to you—among which I hope there'd be Twins—you will agree with me that family joys are the only ones a man can bet on with any certainty of winnin'.

Respects to St. George & the Dragon. "Ever be happy." A. WARD.

A farmer's daughter was visited by a young rustic who finding it difficult to keep up the conversation, asked the girl, after an embarrassing silence had prevailed some time, if she knew anybody that wanted to buy a shirt.

"No, I don't," she replied; have you one to sell?"

"Oh, no," said the rustic, "I only azeed to make talk."

"How are you going to put down the rebellion?" said an Alabama Copperhead, interrupting Daniel S. Dickinson in his speech.

"How it down, as Sam'l old Agnes—right down through!" answered the fiery Daniel.

A poor-law guardian, in the north of Ireland, lately addressed his audience: "Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the board, the eye of Europe is upon us—the apple of discord has been hung in our midst—and if it be not snipped in the bud—it will burst into a conflagration—which will deluge the world!"

An English Judge being asked what constituted most to increase at the bar, replied, "Some entered by great talent, some by a miracle, but the majority by commencing without a shilling."

A MAN may see how this world goes with his eyes; look with thine ears.

The head of a pure old man, like a mountain top, whitens as it gets nearer heaven.

Did the horseman who 'scoured the plain' use soap? Certainly, for his horse was covered with lather.

A THIN lady shouldn't be unhappy because she is not as tall as she would like to be. It is a very easy thing to get 'uplified.'

AMERICANS meet one another with a "how dy' do?" pass on, and neither knows any better how the other does than before they asked.

Profound silence in a public assemblage has been thus neatly described by Jones: "One might have heard the stealing of a pocket-handkerchief."

A MAN who has addressed a stranger by mistake, apologizes by saying, "I was mistaken in the person." Many a married couple might make the same apology to each other.

Recent gossip has been excited in the most select circles of London by the elopement of a young lady of rank with her music teacher. They took their notes (£5,000) with them.

In Rome there are 45,000 cardinals, priests and monks; 10,000 nuns; 1,000 beggars of the first class, and 5,000 of the second, all licensed by the Government; and 2,000 women, who live by serving as models to painters and sculptors.

When Gen. Hooker was tormented by Halleck's impudent dispatches, he received me as follows: "What are you doing, I ask again? [Signed] Halleck." And was answered thus: "I am minding my own business. Can't you mind yours? [Signed] Hooker."

To the Afflicted.

OF all diseases, the best and most certain remedy is found in Nature's laws. SUFFER NOT WHEN A CURE IS GUARANTEED

In all febrile diseases, inflammation, nervous debility, syphilis in all its stages, chlorosis, green, gonorrhoea, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, neuralgic rheumatism, erysipelas, prurigo in the hands and feet, diseases of the lungs, throat, nose and eyes, where the body or limbs, swell, decay, suppurate, or the life is threatened, and all diseases arising from a derangement of the secret organs, such as erysipelas, scalding, loss of memory, loss of power, general weakness, diseases of vision, with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, loss of sight, water blindness, dropsy, liver disease, eruptions upon the face, prurigo in the neck and head, female irregularities and all impure discharges of both sexes. It restores and cures what causes the disease, eradicates, however long standing or obstinate the case, restores its vitality, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, eradicates the disease, has baffled the skill of eminent physicians, and restored all their names of cure. The medicine is perfectly pure, pleasant and without odor, entirely vegetable, containing no arsenic, and free from mercury and lead. During twenty years' practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have recovered from the jaws of death many thousands who, on the last stages of the above mentioned diseases, had been given up to die by their physicians; which cannot be so promising to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care, a perfect and speedy cure. Private diseases are the greatest scourge to health, as they are the first cause of consumption, syphilis and many other diseases, and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected, a majority of the cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease, but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, with the disease, hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption. But should the disease and treatment not come forth speedily, and the victim survives, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with hidden manifestations, and the worst of life is conveyed by a virus which betrays itself in scalds, better, ulcers, eruptions, and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, or falling upon them a brief existence of suffering, and terminating them in an early grave.

SELF-DEFENSE is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the broad catalogue of diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system, drawing in thousands of victims, through a few years of suffering, to an untimely grave. It deranges the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business, and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer weakened in body and mind, prostrated by consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence, I assure the unfortunate victim of self-defense, that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and, with the abandonment of vicious practices, my patients can be restored to robust and vigorous health.

Intemperance, and all diseases of males and females are treated on principles established by twenty years' practice, and sanctioned by thousands of the most respectable names. Medicines, with full directions, sent to my part of the States, Oregon, Nevada and Washington Territories, by patient's remittance, their symptoms by letter. Business correspondence strictly confidential. Address, DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., San Francisco.

By The Doctor office free consultation, and will be recommended unless he effects a cure. jeff2/63
