

THE OREGON SENTINEL

From Hibernia.

"To the voice of the 'General,' I've heard him call—
"My friends in the South will be ravished and slain."
"To the cry of the Jackal, poor, hungry and lean,
When O'Meara holds forth, Scotch pockets to glean,
"My friends, Abolition your rights doth suspend.
The Union as it was is in harm's way,
The Constitution as it is you must nobly defend,
And this cursed Abe Lincoln alarm."

Mr. Edron:—What a pitiable sight it is to see the man whom Oregon delighted to honor drafting resolutions insulting to the Government whose clemency affords him the opportunity, with James O'Meara as his tugleman. How are the mighty fallen, when the great bell-wether of the Democratic party in this State finds his flock in Douglas county reduced to two score of the rag, tag, and bobtail, the remainder having found their way into green Union pastures, protected by loyal shepherds. How awful have been the desertions, when a Major-General in the Confederate service can only muster, in a mass meeting, twenty men. Where now are the bold Missonrians who formerly carried the Democratic flag into victory? Answer that, General Lane. And what are the feelings of those brave, confiding, and trusting men, as the scales of prejudice begin to drop from their eyes and they get a view of the horrible depth of infamy into which you and your fellow-conspirators would have led them? They behold the old State they loved so well desolated, as with the burning blast of the sirocco, kindred and friends plunged into one general ruin and their farms and chattel property in Oregon endangered by the wiles, the snares, and the treason you and your subordinates were leading them into for your political and selfish aggrandisement, and their abasement as freemen of a great Republic. Again, behold the warm-hearted and generous Irishmen, who so often carried the Democratic party into power, changed, many of them, into perjured traitors by the "Machiavellian" policy, that left no stone unturned to gain its traitorous ends, and which, if successful, would leave their native land a British province forever.

Sir, Irishmen have no greater foe to contend against than the rebels now in arms to destroy the Union, and thank God they are beginning to see it, and stripping for the fight, let traitors stand from under. Place Joe Lane, O'Meara and Malone together and how fitly they represent Milton's line in Paradise lost, in reference to Satan and the fallen angels.

"Devil with devil damned firm concord hold."

But the storm these wicked men have raised they cannot now lay. The dragon's teeth they have sown confronts them as armed warriors, and the people have taken the settlement of this rebellion and their relations with foreign powers into their hands, and the sword of war will not be sheathed until republican, democratic institutions are placed on an imperishable foundation forever, and that freedom may live slavery shall die.

No more Jeff Davis strategy, then, in our loyal State to weaken the arm of the National Government. Let all men amongst us who aim to carry out that policy beware, for most assuredly our loyal Government and citizens will treat them as enemies far more dangerous than the rebels openly in arms.

Then who would be legards when Liberty's flag is assailed from within and without?
Then who would hold back when rebellion's barred flag
With blood goats is flaunting about?

APPELLATE, Dec. 4, 1863. HIBERNIA.

AN IMPRESSIVE VERDICT.—A newly elected Justice in one of our suburban precincts, visited the city lately for the purpose of observing the manner of conducting business in order that he might dispense justice with becoming dignity and impressiveness. A capital trial was in progress, and our Solon was deeply affected by the closing sentence passed upon the prisoner. He started home resolved that he would give those who attended his court an idea of the awful majesty of the law when properly administered.

The first case submitted to his adjudication was a matter of account in which a balance of three shillings was found due the plaintiff.

"Let the defendant stand up," said the Justice in a tone of great solemnity, "and listen." "The sentence of this Court is that the defendant pay the plaintiff three shillings and costs of this suit, and may God Almighty have mercy on your soul!"—Ez.

To the Afflicted.

Of all diseases, the first great cause
Springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

SUFFER NOT WHEN A CURE IS GUARANTEED

In all Secret Diseases. Self-abuse, nervous debility, syphilis in all its stages, stricture, gleet, gravel, diabetes, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, mercurial rheumatism, scrofula, pains in the loins and ankles, diseases of the lungs, throat, nose and eyes, sores upon the body or limbs, cancer, dropsy, epileptic fits, St. Vitus' dance, and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs, such as nervous trembling, loss of memory, loss of power, general weakness, dimness of vision, with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, loss of sight, weakness, dyspepsia, liver disease, eruptions upon the face, pain in the back and head, female irregularities and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians, and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines prescribed are pleasant and without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness, and free from mercury and balsam. During twenty years' practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have recovered from the jaws of death many thousands who, in the last stages of the above mentioned diseases, had been given up to die by their physicians; which warranted me in promising to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care, a perfect and speedy cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption, scrofula and many other diseases, and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected, a majority of the cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease, but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, with the disease, hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption. But should the disease and treatment not cause death speedily, and the victim marries, the disease is inherited upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in scrofula, tetter, ulcers, eruptions, and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering, and consigning them to an early grave.

Irregularities, and all diseases of males and females are treated on principles established by twenty years' practice, and sanctioned by the records of the most remarkable cures. Medicines, with full directions, sent to any part of the State, Oregon, Nevada and Washington Territories, by postpaid communicating their symptoms by letter. Business correspondence strictly confidential. Address,
L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., San Francisco.

The Doctor offers free consultation, and asks no remuneration unless he effects a cure. [3m3p]
