They retreated, our forces following them up to near Mount Eiba, on torce was insufficient. The enemy captured the Saline. The next day we occupied the to January 1st, and after the latter date the supply trains and seven gons killed place, without resistance. Our forces here divided, one detachment crossing the river and the other reconnuitering on this side. The enemy were found some distance from Mr. Elba, having been reinforced, and advancing on our forces. Hasty preparations were made by extemporizing a fortification intrasted to their charge. Scrupals of logs, rails and cotton bales. The enemy charged three times, and were each time repulsed, and finally retired, after six hours' vain efforts to dislodge us. Our forces then charged on them, scattering them in all directions. In this and engagement at Branchville, we killed 84, wounded 350, and captured 50. In the meantime the force which had been sent across the river was busy. They returned in the evening, having marched 50 miles during the trip. They captured and destroyed a supply train of 50 wagons, and took the entire escort, 300 from the army to the navy has at length men, prisoners. Over 1,000 horses and mules fell into our hands. These movements took place about the 30th March.

> > Intelligence from New Orleans states that the loss of the 4th division, 14th army corps, in the battle of Red River, on the 8th, was 1,125 in killed, wounded and missing, and the loss of 3d division, same corps, was 350. No one attaches blame to Ran som or Franklin, in the movement which resulted so disastronsly, it being contrary to the advice of both these officers. They obeyed orders, and did all that officers could do under the circumstances. The 16th, MOTHERS MOTHE and 17th corps, with part of the divisions of the 19th corps, were badly whipped, the rebels driving them seven miles before they were ordered to retire.

New York, 23d .- Advices from Hilton Head report the evacuation of Hilataka. Florida, by our troops, who brought away everything in the shape of military stores.

The Herald says persons who are predicting an immediate battle at Richmond will be disappointed, unless Lee makes a forward movement or advances into Pennsylvania. Reports are freely circulated that Grant and Stanton have quarrelled.
