SPECIAL NOTICES. Academy for Young Ladies, JACKSONVILLE, OREGON.

This Institution will be conducted by the Sisters of Jesus and Mary, and will be situated in the healthy and accessible town of Jacksonville. The plan of education will embrace the various branches of instruction usually taught in the most approved seminaries or academies. Its aim will be to form young ladies to science and virtue, to accustom them to early habits of order and economy, and to cultivate in them those qualities which render virtue both amiable and attractive.

Particular care shall be directed toward the promotion of refinement of manners, and the constant maintenance of a polite and amiable deportment. The discipline shall be kind and parental, and the Sisters will use every endeavor to secure the health, comfort and happiness of those entrusted to their charge.

It is not in the plan of the sisters to interfere with the religion of the pupils, except with the Catholics. The Academy will be under the direction of an Order that has attained at French Prairie, at Salem and especially at Portland, a widespread celebrity as teachers; then, it will not be wonderful that it shall be well patronized, nor that the advantages there enjoyed by pupils shall be appreciated by so many parents outside of the Catholic community.

All the different denominations bear testimony to the bright character of the institution, and point to the influence it has already exercised on the manners and morals of the community, and the greater influence it is destined to exercise hereafter, an influence which will not end with the present, but affect generations yet to come.

If we want to have fruits in our garden, we must plant and cultivate fruitful trees in like manner, if we desire to see in this part of Oregon and in the vicinity, the happy results of such an Institution as the Sisters' Academy, we must establish it and support it: for this purpose, we have only to consult our charity and generosity. The education of a multitude of children—the care of the sick; the distribution of assistance to the poor; in a word, all the treasures of christian charity are distributed with open hands, but with intelligence by the Sisters of Charity. Nothing, consequently, deserves more encouragement, nothing is more worthy of our patronage and protection than this Charitable Institution.

The example of our brethren of every religious denomination, who, on similar occasions, at Salem, at French Prairie and at Portland, seem to be actuated with uncommon zeal, should excite in us a holy emulation, to exercise our liberality and testify our charity to the establishment of the Academy.

Trusting to the past liberality shown to us, a subscription shall be started for the purpose of purchasing a convenient ground, and building a comfortable house for the Sisters' School.

F. X. BLANCHET, Pastor, St. Joseph of Jacksonville.
