THE OREGON SENTINEL

THE GREAT FALLS OF SNAKE RIVER .-From time to time, we receive faint descrip tions of the Great Falls of Snake river. From these reports we learn that the Falls exceed in height and volume of water, those of Ningara, the most noted in the world. The following from the Boise News is from a visitor who has taken the trouble to measare them and thus writes :

"When we arrived at Rock Creek, one day's travel this side of Salmon Falls Ferry we left one morning for the great falls and took a straight line for Snake river, At the distance of four miles, we came upon them unawares, as the bluffs are over three thousand feet high on each side, consequently you would not hear them. There we commenced the descent to the Falls, on horse back to within a few hundred yards of the awful precipice. There fastening our borses we roon descended to a level with the river above the Falls. The sight that then broke upon the view is too sublims to be described by one so little capable of doing it justice as myself. We measured the distance that the whole volume of water fails in one sheet, and found it 203 feet. Then, above, I should judge it to be about 25 to 30 feet fall before it reaches the grand fall. The width of the grand fall I should judge to be about of late so boldly and impudently come before times, but this fall eclipses it far. Four miles further above we found another of less note, where the water divides into two paris and falls a distance of 167 feet. Should who are not aware of the atter uncleasees. and falls a distance of 167 feet. Should you ever again cross the plains, don't go by the Falls without visiting them, as it is well worth one year of one's life. Our measure. ment may be relied upon as perfectly correct, as we started prepared for it."

MELANDERING .- An army correspondent gives the following account of the melan-

It is amusing to see big, burley, fine look-ing fellows limp or crawl to the rear when a battle is in progress. Semetimes these fellows drop as if struck by a thinderbuil, and lie among the wounded until they have an opportunity to crawl to the wood in the rear. Occasionally they are carried off the field, representing themselves mortally wounded. Sometimes they take off one boot, tie a handkerchief around the foot, use a limb in lieu of a crutch and make their way out of danger, assuming all the suffering and weakness of wounded men-When their cowardice is detected they frame all sorts of excuses; some have rheumatism, some are dangerously Ill, some thought they were shot, some came back to take care of a wounded comrade, some are posted in the rear for some preposterous purpose, and some go back as special messengers. These fellows are returned to the front under guard, and skulking officers are reduced to the ranks.

Bellows Leaves Us,—Old "Blowhard" Bellows shook the dust of this copperhead city from his feet, to-day, and went off to New York on the Golden City. We can well spare him, for he has been a nuisauce on this coast since he came here.

The above "elegant extract" is from De riah's Press of last evening. Why is Dr. Bellows so odius to Copperhand eyes? Why is he a nulsance? Manifestly because le was so efficient in collecting funds for the benefit of the soldiers engaged in fighting the battles of the Union .- S. F. Flog.

One communion Sabbath the precentor observed the noble family of ---- approachcalled out to an Individual whom he con- and premature death. sidered the principal obstacle in clearing the passage, "Come back Jock, and let in the noble family --- ," and then turning to his psalm-book, took up his duty, and went on to read the line, "Nor stand in sinners way."

"I rise for information," said a -member of the legislative body. "I am very glad to hear it," said a by stander, "for no man needs it more."

A kenvish attorney asked a very worthy gentleman what was honesty, "What is that to you?" said he; "meddle with those things that concern you."

The most constraint them possing ladies to science and virtue, to accustom them to early habits of order and commany, and to cultivate in them these qualities which render virtue both amisble and attractive. The most conscientions and unremitting attention will be given to the ad-vanesment of the populs in the principles and prac-tice of christian virtue, as well as in their intellectu-al happayment. Particular care shall be directed toward the promotion of refinement of manners, and the constant maintainance of a polite and amiable deportment. The discipline shall be kind and pa-rental; and the Sisters will not every endeavour to some the health, confort and happiness of those intrasted to their charge. Scrupulous attention will be paid to the personal meatures of the pupils. Pupile of any religious demonstration shall to received. It is not in the plan of the sisters to interfere with the religion of the pupils, except with the Catholies. The Acodemy will be under the direction of an Order that has attained at French Prairie, at Salam and reportally at Portland, a wide-spread colobrity as teachers; then, it will not be wonderful that it shall attended to with the well patroniced, nor that the advantages there namer to guarantee reported by purple shall be appreciated by an many parents cutside of the Catholic community. All the different deseminations hear testimony to the bright character of the Institution, and point to the influence it has already exercised on the menners and merule of the community, and the greater influence it is stimel to exercise hereafter, an influence which will not end with the present, but affect generation yet to come. If we want to have fruits in our gar-den, we plant and cultivate fruitful trees; in the manner, if we desire to see in this part of Oregon and in the vicinity, the happy results of such an In-stitution as the Sketers' Academy, we must establish it and support it: for this purpose, we have only to second our charity and generority. The education of a multitude of children; the care of the sick; the distribution of assistance to the poor; in a word, all the treasures of christian charify are distributed with open hands, but with intelligence by the Siefers of Charity. Nothing, consequently, deserves more encouragement; nothing is more worthy of our patrounge and protection than this Charitable Invittution. The example of our brethren of every relinors depositionation, who, on similar occasions, at Solem, at French Prairie and at Portland, seem to be actuated with uncommon real, should excite in us a holy sumistion, to exercise our humanity and testify relatity to the establishment of the Academy Trusting to the past liberality shown have, a co-lection shall be started for the purpose of purchas-ing a convenient ground, and building a comfortable home for the fisters School.
