OREGON SENTINEL

COMMON SCHOOLS To the people of Jackson county, Ore-

As the time is drawing near for your tions for your respectful consideration.

To begin with a small item, some of the taste of individuals. For example, the district at the head of Bear Creek Valley, is thus spoken of: Well's District, Judge Tolman's District, Grubb's District, Dunn's mountains, and in places not much frequen. District. No one ever thinks of speaking ted, should be included in districts to of you by your number.

But as the boundaries are described by known as Hamlin's or Stevenson's, which by the names of land holders, more or less should be included in one or the other of in all the districts, which lands have since those adjoining; regard being had, of changed hands several times, it requires a course, to the forms of law in making these PURCHASING AND COMMISSION AGENTS. knowledge of the first settlers to under- changes. stand what is meant. Now give yourselves a technical name which will at once show where you are.

DEFINE ACCURATELY YOUR BOUNDARIES. They have probably arisen thus : In the tricts were formed and recorded. As families multiplied, new districts were made by dividing those first organized, and record-In addition to these inaccuracies, according | boundaries for each county, to the old law superintendants had the power, by request to trabsfer families and for it, by one new law. These changes and inaccuracies have subjected newly elecand inaccuracies have subjected newly clee-ted Clerks to much annoyance in making tance. I have said much on this sub-O. D. 1865.

DEAD DISTRICTS. book, both living and dead, is 29. Ten of these at least may be considered totally dead so far as drawing school money is considered. Removal, neglect, or the force of circumstances generally, have combined to entomb them. In one case at least, (and how many more is not known) there was, is now, unexpended school money in the hands of Clerk has consulted with me as to what he should do with it? He said the money had been loaned several years since is coin and the person who borrowed, returned it is greenbacks. This was, indeed, taking bread from the children's mouths. If any more clerks of those dead districts have upexpended school money in their possession, I hope they have the came frankness and bonesty to report themselves. I suggested to my friend, in reply to his question, "what he should do with it," one or two things, viz : either that they reorganize, or (if this was impracticable being too few or too distant from each other.) cast in their lot with an adjoining district at the next annual meeting. Then they could make a common fund with what the other would draw and so all alike be mutually benefited. This would do until such times as they might be strong enough to reorganize.

Some of the dead districts have had the benefit of a recusiition by casting in their tots with their neighbors. This I commend to all.

Experience proves that it is not wise, in sparsely settled sections of the country to a so small as to aid but little in reducthe living districts of the county; and when they send their children to school in an adjoining district, by boarding them out or otherwise, they cannot avail themselves of the aid of its public funds, unless it be at the option of its patrons and directors. This shows clearly that it would be their interest to unite with adjoining organizations which have a living, efficient existence. SECTIONS OF OUR COUNTY NOT YET ORGAN-IZED INTO SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

It is desirable, indeed, the law requires, annual School Meetings, (first Mouday of that every part of the county be embraced April,) permit me to make some sugges. in some school district. Yet there are many families on the confines of civilization, as well as those in the dead districts, you have no name in particular, but many which do not belong to any. Still, however, there are some who will not listen to kind entreaties; and it is much to be regretted that there are py of complaint, if served within said Couty A number of those originally organized persons who will steal both wood and have been dead and buried for several timber from these lands thus stealing the date of said service, or plaintiff will take years, but not beyond the hope of rising money from your pockets, and knowledge judgment against you for want of an anyears, but not beyond the hope of rising from your children. I have spoken to held in Jacksonville, in said County and some of these privately, politely requesting them not to commit these trespasses-Some have promised that they would cease these depredations; and yet, in one instance at least, within a few days afterwards they returned, "like the dog to his vomit," to a repetition of the same offences. If reports be true, in some in one of the former Clerks-some $70. This stances, the directors themselves have been trespassers. How far leniency should be exercised in such cases may be a question? but there is certainly a point beyond which forbearance ceases to be a virtue. A common excuse is-"Why, everybody has been doing the same for years; everybody goes there to get wood," and such like. A wrong, perpetuated till it becomes a habit does not surely make it right. There is a piece of school land back of Phonix, on which Camp Baker stands, once a grand forest, which is now almost worthless. Uncle Sam has made and havor of the wood and timber. Who will prosecute him? Will our Hon. Pros. ecuting Attorney, Mr. Dowell, take the case? I believe it is generally considered good political doctrine that the military power should be in subserviency to the civil. Others besides Uncle Sam have had a peculiar spite at that forcest of wood and timber. There is yet another between this and Jacksonville for which there has been a peculiar love—or spite shall it be called? And yet another, back of Hopwood's mill, and some others in various places. Now, if directors and people do not take care of these lands within their own districts, I see not how have the districts too small. A district they can be effectually preserved. Let them report those depredations to the summy be large in territory, but small in the sumber of children; and small in the perintendant; not by vague flying report, but by giving names, dates, places, on paper, with many children.
