

JACKSONVILLE, OREGON

SATURDAY, NOV. 11, 1865.

E. P. Fisher, J. J. Knowlton & Co., and W. H. Tully, advertising agents for San Francisco, Cal.

E. K. Phipps, advertising agent for Sacramento, Cal.

- List of Agents for the Oregon Sentinel, including E. P. Fisher, J. J. Knowlton & Co., and W. H. Tully.

DEMOCRATIC CONSISTENCY.

It is a most remarkable fact that the human mind is so constituted that an action done at one time, and under certain circumstances, falls to arrest the least attention...

Such seems to be the case with the Democratic press throughout the country. Acts performed by the Government and the loyal people, for their own preservation, are denounced as outrageous, while the same things, and worse, done by the rebels and traitors...

Mrs. Surratt has fallen a martyr to the cause, and the Government is about to perpetrate another outrage in the execution of the infamous Witz.

While Union men were being driven from their homes, or murdered by demons in human shape, while thousands of Union prisoners were being starved to death, and shot without the shadow of cause...

Oh what a pity Witz could not have been tried by the civil courts? What a pity he should be subjected to the inconceivable of furnishing his own witness and money to defray their expenses.

A SENSATION.—Quite a stir was occasioned in town, the first of the week, by the finding of a keg in a shed, formerly owned by an old man named Helman.

CINCY COURT will be in session next week. There are twenty-four civil cases on the docket, some of them very important.

THE WEATHER is all that could be wished for, now. The roads seem to be in excellent condition. Farmers are plowing in places.

DEATH OF DR. WORCESTER.—The death of the eminent lexicographer, Joseph E. Worcester, occurred at his residence in Cambridge (Mass.), October 27th.

It is an old adage that it is more glorious to give than to receive. This it seems, has been lost sight of by the rebels generally, and Witz in particular.

It is an old adage that it is more glorious to give than to receive. This it seems, has been lost sight of by the rebels generally, and Witz in particular.

VALUABLE WORK.

THE LIFE AND PUBLIC SERVICES OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Together with his State Papers, including his Speeches, Addresses, Messages, Letters, and Proclamations; also a history of the tragical and mournful scenes connected with the close of his noble and eventful life, by Hon. HENRY J. RAYMONDS.

To which is added anecdotes and personal reminiscences of Abraham Lincoln, by Francis B. Carpenter, the artist who painted "The First Reading of the Proclamation of Emancipation" before the Cabinet, and while painting it at the White House, enjoyed six months' familiar intercourse with our late President.

Governor Raymond, it is well known, has been the consistent and trusted supporter, through his popular journal, "The New York Times," of the Administration of the late President.

The book will also be embellished with several illustrations; will be printed in the best style, in cloth and leather binding, will contain about 750 pages, and can easily be obtained in Douglas county through the agent, who is now canvassing there.

LAMB ONTA VISIT.—The truth of this proverb was forcibly brought to mind as we were strolling up Jackson creek last Thursday morning.

The following named persons were installed as Officers of Alpha Lodge No. 1, I. O. G. T., on Tuesday evening last, for the ensuing term: J. M. Sutton, W. C. T.; Miss Hattie Thompson, W. R. H. S.; Miss Maria Riggs, W. I. H. S.; Miss Rosal Stone, W. Y. T.; Frank R. Stewart, W. S.; Miss Emma Hall, W. A. S.; E. P. Wilson, W. P. S.; Wm. Boyer, W. T.; P. B. Parsons, W. M.; Mrs. H. Robinson, W. A. M.; Miss Phoebe H. Dean, W. I. G.; J. Mahan, W. O. G.

THE GOOD TEMPLARS.—The Oregon Cavalry Lodge is a flourishing lodge of at present, only eighteen members, and working under a charter granted by the Grand Lodge of the State of California.

FEUD PATRONAGE has been inflicted at Idaho City for the murder of Samuel Packham, and the trial appointed for the 30th of October. We have not learned the result of the trial.

RECAPTURE.—Mr. A. Teabrook, one of the early pioneers of this valley, returned home this week after an absence of two and a half years. During that time he has been in the Northern Mines.

WRECK.—A little boy, son of John Rusk, miser in the Savage mine at Virginia, Nevada, fell into a shaft 130 feet deep, October 21st, and was discovered, almost dead, two days after, by his distracted father. The Enterprise says: "With a faint, indistinct hope that his boy might yet be found, he shouted down the shaft as he had done many others in his weary search, and to his indescribable joy a little voice answered from the depths: 'Oh, Pa!' The lost was found! Wildly the old parent rushed out for assistance, and in a very few moments a dozen willing hands were with him in the tunnel. A rope was procured, and Martin Nevil ventured to descend. It would not do to place a windlass over the shaft, for fear of knocking stones down the shaft. The brave Nevil made a loop at the end of the rope, and placing his feet in it, was lowered down hand over hand by Collins, Corcoran and others whose names we did not learn. When he reached the bottom, they lay the little boy, and beside him his faithful dog, wonderful to relate, both alive. He took the little fellow under his arm and was hoisted to the surface. The child was carried at once to the arms of his mother, whose joy at the recovery of her darling can be but faintly imagined. But the dog, the faithful Newfoundland pup, who had shared the falling fortunes of his little master; how fared he? He, too, was soon brought to the surface, and to the surprise of every one was apparently about as sound as ever in little braced, perhaps, but able to trot around, as well as ever. It is certainly a very remarkable circumstance—surely unparalleled in this country—the falling of a little boy and a dog into a shaft one hundred and thirty feet deep, and both escaping with their lives, and in fact almost unharmed.

Nurse and Spy.

NEW BOOK BY A NEW AUTHOR.

Nurse and Spy in the Union Army is the title of a new book, comprising the adventures and experiences of a woman in Hospital camp and Battle-field as nurse, spy, and spy; with thrilling descriptions of battles, sieges, captures, skirmishes, charges, marches, sufferings and achievements of our gallant and heroic soldiers.

It is interspersed with touching scenes in camp, hospital, and field, presenting a most vivid and graphic picture of the Great American War—struggles, trials, sufferings, and triumphs.

The work is richly embellished with very attractive illustrations, and the narrative is full of incidents, and the suspense of the plot to a religious nature, which is so truly impressed with the more than ordinary worth of a place in every family. It has already received the warmest commendations of the press, the clergy, the army, and men of influence in all sections of the country.

The agent for Douglas county is now canvassing for the above work.

THE FOLLOWING named persons were installed as Officers of Alpha Lodge No. 1, I. O. G. T., on Tuesday evening last, for the ensuing term: J. M. Sutton, W. C. T.; Miss Hattie Thompson, W. R. H. S.; Miss Maria Riggs, W. I. H. S.; Miss Rosal Stone, W. Y. T.; Frank R. Stewart, W. S.; Miss Emma Hall, W. A. S.; E. P. Wilson, W. P. S.; Wm. Boyer, W. T.; P. B. Parsons, W. M.; Mrs. H. Robinson, W. A. M.; Miss Phoebe H. Dean, W. I. G.; J. Mahan, W. O. G.

THE GOOD TEMPLARS.—The Oregon Cavalry Lodge is a flourishing lodge of at present, only eighteen members, and working under a charter granted by the Grand Lodge of the State of California.

FEUD PATRONAGE has been inflicted at Idaho City for the murder of Samuel Packham, and the trial appointed for the 30th of October. We have not learned the result of the trial.

RECAPTURE.—Mr. A. Teabrook, one of the early pioneers of this valley, returned home this week after an absence of two and a half years. During that time he has been in the Northern Mines.

WRECK.—A little boy, son of John Rusk, miser in the Savage mine at Virginia, Nevada, fell into a shaft 130 feet deep, October 21st, and was discovered, almost dead, two days after, by his distracted father. The Enterprise says: "With a faint, indistinct hope that his boy might yet be found, he shouted down the shaft as he had done many others in his weary search, and to his indescribable joy a little voice answered from the depths: 'Oh, Pa!' The lost was found! Wildly the old parent rushed out for assistance, and in a very few moments a dozen willing hands were with him in the tunnel. A rope was procured, and Martin Nevil ventured to descend. It would not do to place a windlass over the shaft, for fear of knocking stones down the shaft. The brave Nevil made a loop at the end of the rope, and placing his feet in it, was lowered down hand over hand by Collins, Corcoran and others whose names we did not learn. When he reached the bottom, they lay the little boy, and beside him his faithful dog, wonderful to relate, both alive. He took the little fellow under his arm and was hoisted to the surface. The child was carried at once to the arms of his mother, whose joy at the recovery of her darling can be but faintly imagined. But the dog, the faithful Newfoundland pup, who had shared the falling fortunes of his little master; how fared he? He, too, was soon brought to the surface, and to the surprise of every one was apparently about as sound as ever in little braced, perhaps, but able to trot around, as well as ever. It is certainly a very remarkable circumstance—surely unparalleled in this country—the falling of a little boy and a dog into a shaft one hundred and thirty feet deep, and both escaping with their lives, and in fact almost unharmed.

OUR SOCIETY.

There is probably no other section of country in America where the lines between different classes of society are so widely drawn as on the Pacific coast. We find no hereditary aristocracy who have inherited a recognized social position. Neither have we a large number of men of culture, refinement, taste, wealth and business whose aristocratic pursuits of social ambition give tone and brilliancy to the circles in which they move.

It is a fortunate circumstance, indeed, which with a few exceptions, is the one indisputable requirement of elegant society. The wealth of an Avar cannot fit a host for a gentleman's drawing-room. Neither can gentlemen have drawing-rooms unless they have wealth. Society, in its conventional sense, therefore, is composed mainly of individuals who have money, and who have enjoyed the advantages of education.

It is not, therefore, a matter of surprise that we have little society, strictly speaking, in this coast. Some of our circles, what constitutes especially our best society, are young from the droppings of the main. They rest on a solid basis of gold. The steps by which the members ascend to their social thrones are of gold. Their thoughts, language, ambitions, are of gold. They worship, if they worship at all, an image of gold. The key which opens the doors of their sanctuary is of gold, and whosoever can forge one is at liberty to enter.

Beyond that measure of respectability which is required by all decent people, no qualification is needed, save that derived from the bosom of the Assessor. The consequences are, that such circles have no charms for people accustomed to the refinements of a society more genuinely guarded. The atmosphere is hard, the tone ungenial. The servile consideration accorded to wealth is repulsive to those who place a higher value on mental culture and moral worth. The homage paid to great intellect and conspicuous virtue is alike ungrateful to him who gives and to him who receives, but that primary sympathy which attracts a vulgar millionaire is irresistibly offensive to those whose worth is in the best degree above the almighty dollar. The society of all young, speculative communists is incutured more or less by the same selfish materialism. Money is the representative of success, success, no evidence of ability. This level ruling finds the best tribute to the service of wealth, as evidence in that pursuit, who the highest honors accorded by our social law.

The very word, society, implies a product which cannot be isolated. It is guarded by no law save that mutual consideration to which each conforms, and which each expresses at every other. The individual, notwithstanding if he endures by the society as a whole, and considered by the same tribunal in case of any grave infraction of its rules. Persons coming from abroad, and presenting themselves for admission into that circle, must bring vouchers for their worthiness, or their demands will be unheeded. The recognition granted it is courteous, sincere and cordial. The stranger is at once welcomed as to a home, and received as one of themselves, equally interested as themselves in maintaining the honor of the class. Though the Pacific coast has families carefully observant of these social rules, forming little circles in themselves, there is no well-ordered organization by which the claims of visitors or aspirants in our midst are tested. As a result, however, pushing fellows, of no social recognition in the places where they have formerly lived, walk right into the ordinary circles of society, unrestrained by the accountability attached everywhere else to an introduction. In fact the facility with which introductions may be obtained into respectable families, is a matter of surprise to every well-bred stranger. In other portions of the United States, a certain responsibility attaches to an introduction. The one who introduces is responsible to the one to whom he introduces a friend for that friend's conduct, and to return holds that friend responsible to him.

The observance of that rule prevents indiscriminate introductions, and bars the way of disreputable characters. In these respects the society of the country is, in general, altogether too remote. The consequence is precisely what might be expected—an occasional exposure, which makes us seem a great deal worse than what we are.—Golden Era.

HUSBAND.—An editor in Iowa has been fined two hundred dollars for hugging a girl in church.—Exchange.

CHEAP ENOUGH! We once hugged a girl in church some ten years ago, and it has not a thousand a year ever since.—Young America.

THAT'S NOTHING!—We hugged a girl in school some twenty-five years ago, and have had to support her and the family ever since.—Toga Democrat.

COME TO SALEM, OREGON, boys! Come to Salem, Oregon, we have hugged a dozen and it hasn't cost a cent.—Democratic Review.

THAT IS TOO CHEAP! Our editor paid five dollars to hug an actress a short time since.—Salem Office Devil.

WINTER APPROACHES.—We see that some of the actors are setting their stoves and otherwise preparing for winter.

NEW TO-DAY.

Go to the City Drug Store.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE and buy a bottle of Kennedy's Salt-Rub Ointment, and cure that scald head of yours, and cure those ugly ring-worms on your neck and face.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE and buy Kennedy's Medical Discovery, and let your boils, pimples, and all other humors to which you are subject, take their flight.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE and get a bottle of Kennedy's Scrofula Ointment, and cure your old liver sore.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE and get a bottle of Kennedy's Rheumatic and Neuralgic Liniment, and your crutches will soon become useless.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE and buy your extracts, nutmegs, cinnamon, pure cream of tartar, pure soda, etc.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE and ever you want medicine of any description.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE and buy your blue stone.

GO TO THE CITY BOOK STORE and see their new books.

GO TO THE CITY BOOK STORE and see how very cheap they sell books.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.

DENTISTRY.

Dr. F. G. HEARN, [OF YREKA, CAL.]

WOULD RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE to the citizens of Jacksonville and vicinity, that he will remain in Jacksonville for two or three weeks, and is prepared to perform all operations at the lowest rates for First-class Work.

THE Trustees of Umpqua Academy have thoroughly repaired the building, and it is now ready for school. The Winter Term of 22 weeks will commence Nov. 27th. The Spring and Summer Term, 1st Monday in May, 1866.

RATES OF TUITION Per Quarter: Primary Department, $3 00; Secondary do, 4 00; Higher English, 5 00; Dead Languages, Drawing and Painting, each, extra, 2 00; Music, 3 00; Board in private families, 3 00.

F. F. ROYAL, Principal. MR. CLARK SMITH, Asst. Teacher.

SACHS BROS. DRY AND FANCY GOODS, CLOTHING, BOOTS AND SHOE EMPORIUM.

WE HAVE JUST Received and are now OPENING

THE LARGEST, BEST ASSORTED and most Fashionable Stock in the West, above line, to be found in any city. Also the best.

Latest Style Of Ladies' Hats, Cloth BASKETS & CLOAKS, WOOL HOODS AND NUBIAS.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF Ladies, Misses and CHILDREN'S HOSE.

IN FACT, EVERYTHING APPERTAINING to a First Class Dry Goods and Clothing House. All of our goods which will be sold at unprecedented LOW PRICES.

An Immense Stock Of Groceries, Liquors, TOBACCO, Etc., Of the best quality, and at prices warranting us to say that they are the cheapest in this country.

Favor us with a call and convince yourselves. SACHS BROS. September 30, 1865.

FLORENCE Sewing Machine. JOHN NEUBER would announce to the people of Jackson County, that he has procured an agency for this perfect machine, and will in a short time have a good supply on hand. This machine gathers, hems, embroiders and makes 4 different kinds of stitches.

DARDANELLS HOUSE, DARDANELLS, OGN. FIRST CLASS HOUSE

IN every respect, where the personal supervision of the proprietor guarantees prompt and courteous attention to all the requirements of guests. This house has been refitted and re-furnished. WM. BURKE, Proprietor.

J. H. LASATER, LASATER & LANGFORD, ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Walla Walla City, W. T. One door west of Kyger & Reese's Brick Store.

GO TO THE CITY DRUG STORE.