JOHNSON'S POLICY.

There is an honest difference of opinion as to the correctness and practicability of President Johnson's position, and the policy pursued by him in regard to the reconstruction of the late rebel States.

Mr. Johnson's theory, whether the States are in or out of the Union, can only be a theory, and he probably has the arguments for supporting his view of the matter.

But as far as the people are concerned, they have forfeited all right to protection under these State Governments, and by that fact are out of the Union, and, consequently, are treated as criminals, and, in fact, are such, both to the General and State Governments, for they are the only power that trespassed against the laws of their own State and through them those of the General Government; hence, pardons are asked for and granted.

The Constitution of the General Government has been changed, as well as the laws and usages under it; therefore, the States recently in rebellion are allowed and ordered to reconstruct so that when the amendment to the Constitution is ratified, they will be ready and prepared to take their position in the compact.

The conquered States been kept under strict military rule, or under a Territorial form of Government, without the privilege of making the attempt to reconstruct, the people in the South as well as the "Democracy" in the North, would have kept up a continual howl of tyranny, and not without some color of justice to it.

structible States can be kept under military rule, or a Territorial form of Government, for twenty years, unless they sooner reconstruct, and these growlers about liberty and States Rights can be silenced, for these States have the "right" and privilege not to reconstruct, and if they refuse to do so, thereby losing their "rights," the Union party or President Johnson cannot be held responsible.

ANOTHER UNCONSTITUTIONAL ACT.—The late political contest in New Jersey was squarely between the Union party and the Democratic party. The canvass was active and bitter, the Copperheads exerting their best efforts to maintain their supremacy. The Union man bearing the brunt of this fight was General Kilpatrick. He took the stump against the Democratic party and in favor of the Amendment to the Constitution abolishing slavery.

There was General Slocum, of New York, who had just gone over to the Democracy. He had sacrificed himself in behalf of the so-called and self-styled Johnson Democracy of that State; and if the President is in that party (which no one believes but the intractable) he should have remembered poor Slocum. General Slocum, it is said by the Johnson Democrats, was the special candidate of the President.

A NEW PARADISE DISCOVERED.—A most important discovery has just been made in South America. It is that the great river Amazon has been found to be navigable from one end to the other; that, in fact, a new route has been opened between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

THE DEBATING CLUB.—This necessary appendage to every American village and town, was permanently organized on Monday evening last, and, we are informed, under more favorable auspices than ever heretofore.

SEWARD'S SPEECH.

HE VINDICATES THE POLICY OF THE ADMINISTRATION.

At 10 o'clock, Oct 20th.—The friends and neighbors of Secretary Seward this afternoon availed themselves of the opportunity which his temporary presence at home afforded them, and paid him a visit to congratulate him upon his escape from assassination, to renew their expressions of friendship and sympathy, and to listen to whatever he might choose to say in reference to the present aspect of political affairs.

My good Friends: A meeting with you here from time to time, as opportunity serves and duty permits, is not merely a privilege, but even a blessing.

My good Friends: A meeting with you here from time to time, as opportunity serves and duty permits, is not merely a privilege, but even a blessing. Your greeting on this occasion comes in the season when fruits are clustered around us, although the leaves above our heads and the grass beneath our feet are yet fresh and green.

the consent of the whole American people he assumed the great responsibility.

[Loud applause.] The insurrection soon became flagitious, insolent, defiant, and announced, to the astonishment of mankind that the pretended free empire which it was building by usurpation within forbidden borders, was founded upon the corner stone of slavery!

States. These States are not stakes driven into the ground by an imperial hand, nor are they posts hauled together, squared and hewed, and so erected loosely upon it; but they are living, growing, majestic trees, whose roots are widely spread and interlaced within the soil, and whose shade covers the earth.

[Loud applause.] If at any time any of these trees shall be blown down or upturned by violence, it must be lifted up again in its proper place, and sustained by kindly hands until it has renewed its natural stability and erectness.

revolutionists, visited my home in Washington. They were frank, unreserved and re-awakened, as I also was in mind, were in my dwelling at the same time. I introduced the late rebel to the representatives of sympathizing England, and I said to the parties: "You lately, each of you, thought that the Southern men preferred British rule to citizenship in the United States."

VIRGINIA.—The election returns thus far received from Virginia, says the Tribune, indicate the election of the following members of Congress: Curtis I. H. Chandler, B. H. Barbour, Robt. Ridgway, Charles L. Mosby, A. H. H. Stuart, Robt. Conrad, D. H. Hoge, Curtis Chandler, Barbour, Ridgway, Mosby and Hoge claim they can take the oath.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—In the report given by the Oregonian of the U. S. District Court, Judge Deady on the Bench, we find the following: "United States vs. Charles Brooks—indictment for practicing as a physician without a license. Motion to set aside, for want of date, allowed, and leave to resubmit to Grand Jury."

A true bill was found in lieu of the one set aside for want of date. A demurrer to the second indictment was overruled and the defendant pleaded guilty, and was fined $20 dollars and costs, in default of payment of which he was committed to the county jail, there to remain one day for each $2 of the amount.

DENTISTRY.—Dr. Hearn has removed from his office in Mrs. Crosby's to the building opposite the Sentinel Office. Dr. H. has been afflicted with one of Job's comforters, on his neck, but thinks he will be able to "pull teeth" next week.
