WILLIAM H. RIDDLE. Rich Dioutson .- We learn by telegraph from Portland that advices have just been received there of rich gold discoveries north. It appears that the diggings were discovered last Fall, on a creek called Carnes creek, but being deep it was impossible to reach the bed rock until Spring. There appears to be considerable excitement at Fort Yale and only one opinion regarding their great richness, and six pack trains have already left that point for the new mices, and eighty claims had already been recorded at Lytton City. Here is a splendid chance for our restless population, and this new El Dorado has the advantage of being farther off than any place except the gold coast of Mrs. Surratt—the in-son.—Descence Flori Africa, and being just a little colder than any mineral country except Siberia, and just a little hotter than a place we needn't mention. The Democratic Creed.

In this issue will be found the political creed adopted by the "Great Unwashed," at Portland, fast week. As a literary document it will do ; but we must smile at the unparcalled impudence of its assumptions The idea that the Democracy are particularly in favor of "equal and exact justice to all men" is not so strongly expressed in the Democratic Constitution of Oregon, which insigument forbids any man that the Almighty has not made white, from treading the sell or breathing the air of this State The principle of "equal justice" was promoted by their congressional candidate last winter, when he offered a bill to drive every Kanaka Chinamen and Negro beyond the boundaries of Oregon. This is equal justic with a vengeance. The platform proposes to entrust the Democracy with the care and festering of the Federal Government, and they promise to sustain it in all its vigor-just as Floyd, and Buchanan, and Benjamin, and Thompson, and Davis. and the whole traiter party have done for several years, by stealing its armament. its custom-houses and mints, destroying its credit, delaying its justice, spitting on its flag and selling it to its enemies. It would be vigorous, indeed. The Platform disclaims the assumption that the Democracy are not in favor of nullification and mossion. The whole course of that party, since the commencement of the rebellion proves the contrary. Every set of resolutions heratofore adopted by their conventions conflict with these, and If they were truthful, these are false. The candidates standing upon these glittering plants have a record perildious, black, traiterous damning, and practically in contrast with the pretensions of their creed. We would as soon expect the Devil to turn priest as that one of tice. It will do for copperhous, but won't entch many weak kneed Union men.
