Letter From Washington.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7th, 1868.

THE ROSECRANS-REBEL MANIFESTO.
In my last letter I mentioned that Robt. E. Lee, Alex. H. Stephens, Buregard, Gov. Pickens, Gov. Letcher, and in fact, nearly all the leading rebels, were assembled at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, where they indulged in a grand ball on the 27th of last month. Gen. Rosecrans, who won the reputation of being a good military man, but is pronounced by those who know him intimately, the most crackbrained of all the officers who served in the army, instead of going on the mission to Mexico, to which he was recently appointed, took it into his head to enter into a consultation with the rebel leader, and accordingly visited White Sulphur Springs, where he spent several days with the rebel magnates.
Rosecrans' object was to make capital for the Copperheads, and injure Gen.
Grant, against whom he cherishes a bitter animosity. He prepared a paper, in the form of a letter over his own signature, and addressed it to Lee, in which he inveighs against the Congressional plan of reconstruction, and expresses great confidence in the honor, veracity, and patriotism of the "trusted and beloved leader of the Confederacy," as he affectionately styles the rebel General, and "that body of brave, energetic, and self-sacrificing men" who fought to destroy our Government, and propounded to them certain questions to which he requested a reply. They kindly consented to furnish the desired information, and appended to the document their precious names, to give weight to its statements with the Northern people.
Thirty-two of the leading rebels signed the document, commencing with Lee, Buregard, Stephens, and proceeding down to the tail of "that body of brave, energetic, and self-sacrificing men." They inform the Northern people, and the rest of mankind, that the ex-rebels of the South are thoroughly loyal to the Union, peaceably inclined, very patriotic, and only ask to be "let alone." If they could only get the Southern State Governments out of the hands of "carpet-baggers" and "niggers;" and get them in their own hands once more, they think they might get along first rate, and would be willing to promise not to reduce the negroes to slavery again. They say "the idea that the Southern people are hostile to the negroes, and would oppress them if it were in their power to do so, is entirely unfounded.
They have grown up in our midst, and we have been accustomed from childhood to look upon them with kindness.
The change in the relations of the two races, has wrought no change in our feeling toward them. They still constitute the important part of our laboring population. Without their labor the lands of the South would be comparatively unproductive." They still "look upon the negro with kindness," as they did when they showed their affection by pursuing him with the lash and the blood-hound. And they assure us that "the change in the relations of the two races, has wrought no change in their feelings" towards their former slaves. But they are willing that these men shall enjoy their kindness in the future as in the past, and continue, as in days of yore, "to constitute the important part of our laboring population," because "without their labor the lands of the South would be comparatively unproductive!" How kind, how thoughtful, how candid, and, above all, how cheery, are these "brave, energetic, and self-sacrificing men," and their "trusted and beloved leader!" This ridiculous correspondence, between W. S. Rosecrans and thirty-two "brave, energetic and self-sacrificing" rebels, was made public last Saturday, the 5th inst., and is now being paraded in the papers all over the country by the Copperheads as an electioneering document for Seymour and Blair. Rosecrans would be delighted to see Gen. Grant and the Union party that saved our Government, defeated by the rebels and Copperheads—that "body of brave energetic, and self-sacrificing men," who fought to destroy it—but he will not have that pleasure and will find that he had all his pains for nothing.

THE VERMONT ELECTION.
The Republican majority of 27,000 in Vermont at the State election last Tuesday, has cast a damper over Copperheads, being a close gain of 7,000 votes since last year. A day or two before the election the Boston Post said it would result in a "large reduction of the Radical strength," which would "act electrically on the subsequent elections in the other States." And it declared that "the result in Vermont will establish the fact of the tendency everywhere else," and predicted that "Maine will heed the example and hasten to put it to good use." The New York World claimed that the Republican majority would be decreased five thousand votes. On the 14th inst. "Maine will heed the example" of Vermont, and "hasten to put it to good use," by giving a Republican majority of from 15,000 to 20,000, instead of 8,000, which she gave last year, and that will "act electrically on the subsequent elections in other States."

THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN OTHER STATES.
In every Northern State numerous political mass-meetings are being held daily. Great enthusiasm and complete harmony prevails among the Republicans everywhere. Their prospects were never better—not even in 1864, when Lincoln swept McClellan and Copperheadism almost out of existence.
Judging from present indications, the Copperheads will not carry a single State for Seymour and Blair on this side of the Rocky Mountains, except Kentucky, Maryland and perhaps Delaware, either North or South. Even in Delaware it will be a close fight.
All the New England States are certain for Grant and Colfax by a large majority, except Connecticut, where the vote will be close. The Republicans count New York absolutely certain for their State ticket and for Grant.
Pennsylvania they are sure of twenty or thirty thousand majority, and in Ohio at least 20,000. All the Western States will give heavy Republican majorities. The Canvass is one of the most exciting ever known in the history of the country. In Indianapolis the Republicans held a mass-meeting last week, which surpassed anything of the kind ever held in that State before. Fifteen thousand torches marched in the procession, and thirty thousand people participated in the grand demonstration. That is only a specimen of the kind of meetings that are occurring almost daily all over the country. The soldiers and sailors will hold a grand mass convention in Philadelphia on the first and second of next month to which all the Republican Governors, and loyal ex-Governors who served during the war, are invited. It is expected that 50,000 people will be present.

POSITION OF THE CABINET.
It is now stated positively that Secretary McCulloch is supporting Seymour and Blair, and will throw whatever patronage he may have in their favor.
But he denounces all the financial planks in the Democratic platform, and says if it were to be carried out it would certainly bring financial ruin on the country. He says the only objectionable plank in the Republican platform is that in relation to reconstruction, but as that is paramount at this time to everything else, he prefers the Democracy. Welles and Browning take the same side, and Randall tries to go between, taking care to give the Copperheads a lift whenever convenient. Seward and Evarts keep silent, and Schofield is openly for Grant.

Mitchell, Edward Broadhead, Lewis E. Webb, John Hersey, M. M. Davis, Joseph Harris, of Wisconsin; and all such persons who shall or may be associated with them and their successors, are hereby created and erected into a body corporate and politic in deed and in law, by the name, style, and title of the Oregon Branch of the Pacific Railroad Company; and by that name shall have perpetual succession, and shall be able to sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, defend and be defended, in all courts of law and equity within the United States, and may make and have a common seal. And said corporation is hereby authorized and empowered to lay out, locate, and construct, furnish, maintain, and enjoy a continuous railroad and telegraph line with the appurtenances, namely:

Section one: Beginning at or near Portland, Oregon, thence in a southerly direction to some eligible pass in the Cascade mountains, in the vicinity of the Klamath Lakes, to be fixed by the survey of said Company, thence to or near the north end of Goose Lake, and thence on the most eligible route, as shall be determined by said company, to connect with the Pacific railroad (running from the Missouri river to the Pacific ocean) at the north end of the Humboldt river, in the State of Nevada. And the said company, by and with the consent of the legislatures of the States of Oregon and Nevada, are hereby vested with all the powers, privileges, and immunities necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act as herein set forth.
The capital stock of said company shall consist of eighty thousand shares of two hundred and fifty dollars each, which shall in all respects be deemed personal property and shall be transferable in such manner as the bylaws of said corporation shall provide. A majority of the corporators herein named, either in person or by proxy, shall have power to select nine of their number who shall act as commissioners to transact the business of the corporators as hereinafter provided, and shall be called the board of commis-ioners of the Oregon branch of the Pacific railroad; and the first meeting of said corporators herein named shall be held at Portland, in the State of Oregon, on the 23d day of June eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, or at any time within three months thereafter, as any ten of the corporators herein named of the State of Oregon shall designate, notice of which shall be given by them in at least one daily newspaper in the city of New York, San Francisco and Portland, once a week for at least six weeks previous to the day of meeting. Said corporators, when thus convened, shall organize by the election of president and secretary of said meeting, and proceed to the election or appointment of the board of commissioners herein provided for. Said board of commissioners, so soon thereafter as may be found convenient, shall meet in the city of Portland, Oregon, and they shall meet every three months thereafter until the company is fully organized by the election of directors, and so forth, as hereinafter provided. Said board shall organize by the choice from their number of a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and they shall require from said treasurer such bonds as may be deemed proper, and may from time to time increase the amount as they may deem necessary. The secretary shall be sworn to the faithful performance of his duties, and such oath shall be entered upon the records of the company, signed by him, and the oath verified thereon. The president and secretary of said boards may call special meetings, naming the time and place thereof. It shall be the duty of said board of commissioners to open books, or cause to be opened, at such times and in such principle cities or other places in the United States as they, or a quorum of them, shall determine, within twelve months after the passage of this act, to receive subscriptions to the capital stock of said corporation, and a cash payment of ten per centum on all subscriptions, and to receipt therefor, and shall have power to meet any necessary liabilities, and expenses incurred so soon as the same shall be paid into the treasury of the company; and ten dollars per share actually paid into the treasury of the company; the said president and secretary of said board of commissioners shall appoint a time and place for the first meeting of the subscribers to the stock of said company, and shall give notice thereof in at least one newspaper in each State in which subscription books have been opened, at least forty days previous to the day of meeting; and such subscribers as shall attend the meeting so called, either in person or by lawful proxy, then and there shall elect, by ballot, nine directors for said corporation; and in such election each share of said capital stock shall entitle the owner thereof to one vote. The president and secretaries of the board of commissioners, and in case of their absence or inability, any two of the officers of said board, shall act as inspectors of said election, and shall certify, under their hands, the names of the directors elected at said meeting.

And the said commissioners, treasurer and secretary shall then deliver over to said directors all the moneys, properties, subscription books, and other books in their possession, and thereupon the duties of said commissioners and the officers previously appointed by them shall cease and determine forever, and thereafter the stockholders shall constitute said body politic and corporate. Annual meetings of the stockholders of the said corporation for the choice of officers and for the transaction of business, shall be holden at such time and place and upon such notice as may be prescribed in the by-laws.
Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the said Oregon branch of the Pacific railroad shall have the same privileges, rights, franchises, immuni-ties, and subsidies per mile, that have in character and amount been granted the Central Pacific Railroad Company, by the act incorporating said Company and telegraph line from the Missouri river to the Pacific ocean, and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes, approved the first of July, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, and all the amendments thereto, except as otherwise provided in this act. And that the bonds to be issued to said Oregon branch of the Pacific railroad shall be the same in amount per mile, west of the Cascade mountains for a distance of two hundred and fifty miles, as provided for the Central Pacific route in the Sacramento valley, and the same amount for each mile of mountain country to the extent of one hundred miles, as is provided for the Nevada mountains, and the same amount per mile for the route from the eastern base of the Cascade mountains to the point of connection with the Central Pacific railroad as is provided per mile for the Central Pacific from the eastern base of the Nevada to said connection; and the said Oregon branch of the Pacific railroad shall be subject to all the limitations, restrictions, and disabilities of said Central Pacific Railroad Company, except as otherwise provided in this act.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted:
That if the lands hereby granted to
road shall be found included in the grant to any other railroad, to aid in the construction of which lands have heretofore been granted by the United States, the amount of land heretofore granted shall be deducted from the amount granted by this act, unless the same shall revert to the United States, in which case the said lands shall pass to the said Oregon branch of the Pacific railroad under the terms of the act: Provided further, That the railroad company receiving the previous grant of land may assign their interest to the said Oregon branch of the Pacific Railroad Company, or may consolidate and associate with said company; and it shall be the duty of the Oregon branch of the Pacific Railroad Company to permit any other railroad, which shall be authorized to be built by the United States or by the legislature of any State in which the same may be situated, to form running connections with it on fair and equitable terms. And the said company is authorized to accept to its own use any grant, donation, loan, power, franchise, aid, or assistance which may have been granted to any other company by the Congress of the United States, by the legislature of any State, or by any corporation, person, or persons, either by consolidation, association, or purchase; and said corporation is authorized to hold and enjoy any such grant, donation, loan, power, franchise, aid, or assistance to its own use for the purposes aforesaid.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the directors chosen in pursuance of the first section of this act shall, so soon as may be after their election, elect from their own number a president and vice-president, and said board of directors shall from time to time, and so soon as may be after their election, choose a treasurer and secretary, who shall hold their offices at the will and pleasure of the board of directors.
The treasurer and secretary shall give such bonds with such security as the said board from time to time may require. The secretary shall, before entering upon his duty, be sworn to the faithful discharge thereof, and said oath shall be made a matter of record upon the books of said corporation.
No person shall be a director of said company unless he shall be a stockholder and qualified to vote for directors at the election at which he shall be chosen.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the president, vice-president, and directors shall hold their offices for the period indicated in the by-laws of said company, not exceeding three years, respectively, and until others are chosen in their places and qualified. In case it shall so happen that an election of directors shall not be made on any day appointed by the by-laws of said company, the corporation shall not for that reason be deemed to be dissolved, but such election may be holden on any day which shall be appointed by
