Never Look Sad.

Never look sad—nothing so bad as getting familiar with sorrow; Treat him to-day in a cavalier way, And he'll seek other quarters to-morrow.

Let the sad day carry away Its own little burden of sorrow, Or you may miss half of the bliss That comes in the lap of to-morrow.

When hope is wrecked, pause and reflect If error occasioned your sadness; If it be so, hereafter you'll know How to steer to the harbor of gladness.

THE EXPLANATION.—A few days since we stated that Multnomah county only returned a poll list of 435, from a voting population of 2,442. At the same time the organs were requested to explain the matter.

the elections or there is in the return of the assessment rolls. Multnomah County cannot claim a loose population to defend it from accusation. When there is an election men are always ready to vote. It they are legally exempt from paying a poll-tax, by reason of non-residence, then should they be excluded from the privilege of voting.

Far be it from our desire to insult a fallen man; but we cannot forbear to say that, in the defeat of Horatio Seymour, the people of the United States have done a greater act of justice than they intended. Their objections to him were in his friends and his policy. They did not generally know that the man himself is a sniveler, a hypocrite, a coward and a trimmer, whom to call a patriot or a statesman is to do him honor he never deserved.

In a moment I found myself a prisoner in my own room. I had thought for a moment I would fling myself from the open window, but I felt that I was afraid to die. I was not penitent. At times my heart was subdued, but my stubbornness rose in an instant, and bade me not yield it. The pale face of my mother haunted me. I flung myself on my bed and fell asleep. Just at twilight I heard a footstep approach my door. It was my sister.

A Touching Story.

What agony was on my mother's face when all she had said and suffered failed to move me! She arose to go home and I followed at a distance. She spoke to me no more till she reached her own door. "It is school time, now," she said—"Go, my son, and once more let me beseech you to think upon what I have said." "I shan't go to school," said I. She looked astonished at my boldness, but replied firmly: "Certainly you will, Alfred! I command you." "I will not," said I; "you can't get me up stairs."

"I dare you to do it," said I; "you can't get me up stairs." "Alfred, choose now," said my mother, who laid her hand upon my arm.— She trembled violently, and was deadly pale. "If you touch me I will kick you," said I in a fearful rage. God knows I knew not what I said! "Will you go, Alfred?" "No!" I replied, but quailed beneath her eye.

"Then follow me," she said as she grasped me firmly. I raised my foot—"O my son, hear me,"—I raised my foot and kicked her, my sainted mother. How my head reels as the torment of memory rushes over me! I kicked my mother—a feeble woman, my mother! She staggered back a few steps and leaned against the wall. She did not look at me. I saw her heart beat against her breast. "O Heavenly father!" she cried, "forgive him—he knows not what he does!" The gardener just then passed the door, and seeing my mother was pale and almost unable to support herself, she beckoned him to come in.

"Take this boy up stairs and lock him in his room," said she, and turned off from me. It was a look of agony mingled with intensest love—it was the last unutterable pang from a heart that was broken. In a moment I found myself a prisoner in my own room. I had thought for a moment I would fling myself from the open window, but I felt that I was afraid to die. I was not penitent.

John Maney stabbed H. Leonard at Vancouver on the 23d. Twenty personal combats took place in Truckee last week. Multnomah county is the smallest but wealthiest in Oregon. Two Chinamen were run over by a train near Boca, Cal., on the 6th. There are more persons going to White Pine than the stage company can carry. A new Custom House and Post Office is to be constructed at Astoria in the Spring. Jerry Emmerson was shot and killed in a drunken row at Argenti, Nev., on the 3d inst. Dan de Houne, the tight-rope performer, broke his leg the other day at Carson—the wooden one. A man named Russel is reported to have been killed by Chinamen, last week in Sierra County, Cal. The Tidal Wave is the name of a new paper to be started at Silver City, I. T., by T. J. and J. S. Butler. John Newbauer was thrown from a buggy and seriously injured, at Sacramento on the 7th inst. At the end of the Central Pacific Railroad track they have a blacksmith shop on wheels that moves with the advance. Jacob Fug's jewelry store in Vallojo was entered by burglars on the night of the 6th inst., and $100 in goods was carried off. Fort Harney is feeding 800 noble red men. "Lo! the poor Indian, who on the west wind smells Government rations—bears them in mind."
