

Valedictory.

With this issue of the OREGON SENTINEL, my connection with it ceases; and in accordance with the long established usages of the press, I take advantage of the opportunity, to return my sincere and grateful acknowledgments for the sympathy and forbearance of my readers, and for the uniform courtesy and consideration of my contemporaries throughout the State.

During the time the duty of editing the SENTINEL has rested upon me, I have endeavored, as far as my time and circumstances would permit, to give its readers correct information on most of the current subjects of local and national importance, albeit, want of space necessarily confined me in very narrow limits.

In retiring from the SENTINEL, I cannot help expressing my belief, that the interests of the people of Southern Oregon require that it should be liberally supported. Its interests and theirs are identical, and it merits a staunch and liberal patronage from all who are at all concerned in the welfare of this section of the State.

My retirement is at my own option, the most friendly relations continuing to exist between myself and Mr. Dowell, the proprietor of the paper. Hoping to see both its circulation and influence increase with the progress and development of the country, I remain its sincere friend.

E. B. WATSON.

"Shultz" on the Rampage.

The notorious robber and highwayman "Shultz," who, it will be remembered, committed innumerable daring robberies in and near Portland, several months ago, was finally captured at Cottonwood, Cal., taken back to Portland, and afterwards sentenced to the penitentiary, is at large again, having left for parts unknown on or about the 8th inst. A large reward is offered for his capture. The Salem Statesman says: "Much interest was, of course, felt concerning the escape of the notorious outlaw, Shultz, as was natural in the case of one whose record was so desperate and dangerous. Many reflections are also made on the conduct of the State Prison and the efficiency of the present management. We do not propose to pass undue judgment or be as hasty as was the irate Superintendent when he couldn't stand the fact of our yesterday's account of the escape and withdrew his official patronage, but, seriously, the frequency of these escapes and the fatality of pursuit in each instance demands more efficient management, even if it necessitates a change in the administration. At best, a man who can be so easily angered is not fit to hold any responsible public position."

General News.

The Archbishop of Paris, who was murdered by the Commune, has been buried with great pomp and ceremony.

The Democrats of West Virginia are wailing. They refused to strike out the word white from their State Constitution, as applied to voters, but now, when they find that the word is also exclusively applied to those who have the glorious privilege of paying taxes, the word has become in their eyes very odious indeed, and they want a Constitutional convention held right away to remove such an objectionable discrimination on account of color.

CAPTAIN Hall's exploration steamer, Polarie, will leave San Francisco for New York to-morrow, and thence about the 25th of June for the north pole.

The Indianapolis Journal expresses its amazement at the facility with which leading Democrats throw aside and disregard the "eternal principles" of their party in these latter days.

A SAN FRANCISCO dispatch says: The evening train has a load of live hogs, from Iowa. Having realized 7 1/2 @ 8 cents, more were ordered by telegraph, to be shipped in the same manner.

A LOT of 27 bales Oregon wool, received in San Francisco, was found to contain one-half weight dirt, stowed in the centre of the bags, and measures have been taken to prosecute the perpetrators of the swindle.

The railroad is graded to within three miles of Harrisburg, Oregon.

HORACE GREELEY IN NEW ORLEANS.—The New Orleans Picayune of May 18th gives this:

The rooms of the American Union Club on St. Charles street were densely crowded last night with members and guests, for the purpose of meeting and extending an official welcome to our distinguished visitor, Horace Greeley.

Differences of Opinion.

The Democratic newspapers, in commenting on the "Vallandigham Resolutions," show a vast difference of opinion regarding the same. The Portland Herald demonstrates to his own satisfaction, and tries to convince Oregon Democrats, that the Ohio platform which adopted these resolutions, differs in no way from the Oregon Democratic platform, and says:

The Ohio platform denounces the extraordinary means by which the last three amendments were foisted into the Constitution, and yet recognizes them as "accomplished facts." The Oregon platform denounced the means by which these amendments were foisted into the Constitution, and yet recognized them as accomplished facts by adopting a resolution in favor of rescinding them. So, also, the Ohio platform laid down the doctrine that the people had the right to alter or repeal any law.

The Bedrock Democrat, in speaking of them, gives vent to his feelings in the following manner:

We have already, in two issues, called attention to that cross between treachery and idiocy, the Vallandigham Resolutions, yelet the "New Departure." We have condemned them in as plain language as we could. We at one time hoped the thing would die of its own innate rottenness, and feared that we had devoted too much space to such an apparition. But lately we discovered that several Democratic papers (so-called) seem to be quite happy over it, and take pride in their own disgrace, so we propose to condemn and execrate as long as these hybrids applaud and endorse. The argument used by these papers exhibits an amount of barefaced political dishonesty, reckless disregard of principle and entire absence of sense that is at once disgraceful and foolish. They endorse them because they are "the right policy" (vide Herald of the 8d inst.); they recognize the validity of the three last amendments to the Constitution, yet denounce the manner in which they were thrust into the Constitution. (See same authority.) Shades of courage and honesty!

The East Portland Era, one of the best and most ably edited Democratic papers in Oregon, says:

We never have believed and can never be made to admit that the three recent (so-called) amendments to the Constitution do not "in any respect alter or modify the original theory and character of the Federal Government." However intemperate the mode of adoption, we admit that these amendments are a part of the law of the land, and must be obeyed until altered, amended or repealed; but we cannot go back upon our record and now say that all our former opposition to their adoption was simply factions. The Fifteenth Amendment struck a fatal blow at the great cardinal Democratic doctrine of State Rights, which we have always believed to be "the original theory and character of the Federal Government," and we are not prepared to give up the idea and ignore its truth. We have never counselled nullification nor secession, but hold to the doctrine that the people of the Government have the right to alter, amend or even change the form of Government at pleasure, provided always that such alteration or modification shall be made in accordance with the fundamental compact.

Pomeroy's Democrat copies the Vallandigham resolutions, and comments as follows.

The resolutions concerning the intent, meaning and constitutionality of the amendments to the Constitution should please the Democrats—they certainly satisfy the Republicans! Is it possible that solitude salivates the jaw till teeth lose their firmness?

What need of the Democratic party when it is asked to do nothing but endorse the misrule, tyranny, usurpations and corruptions of the Republicans? Why not add the following to the Dayton side-wheel improvement, and thus strengthen the Vallandigham resolutions, and add "harmony" to the elements in power?

Resolved, That the arrest of C. L. Vallandigham, the battering in of his doors, the branding him as a traitor and escorting him "out of the country," was right, proper, patriotic, and in accordance with the bayonet power of the Constitution.

Resolved, That all the Republican party has done, and all it may do, has been and will be right.

Resolved, That where there is no difference between Democracy and Republicanism one party or the other should dishand at once.

Resolved, That we put on the skin of a Jackass and hew wood and draw water for our masters.

Resolved, That the Democratic party dishand, and its members join in a carpet-bag crusade against the lung outraged and submissive people of the South.

The above resolutions are offered for the suggestion of the Democrats of Dayton and Cincinnati, as a recipe to assist in making political campaigns easy. The chairman of the committee on resolutions should now have the floor to say—

"Put me in my little bed."

It is not enough to believe what you maintain; you must maintain what you believe, and maintain it because you believe it.

Southern Oregon.

On account of the difficulty of interior travel and natural isolation, the southern portion of our State has never attracted that attention which its great natural wealth in soil and rich mineral deposits deserves. It has long been well known that Southern Oregon possesses rich gold mines, but these are not always the best advertisement of a country. The people who go to any country to mine gold are not apt to settle on farms, no matter how rich the soil or favorable the opportunity. They want to dig out a fortune quick, and then leave. They make no permanent settlement and form no ties or associations which they cannot "sell out" and break up and leave at once.

This is one reason why that, of the many people who have gone to the Southern counties, but few have remained. They speedily accumulated a few thousand dollars, which should be a credit to the country, and then left, which abandonment did the country an injury.

Again, the inaccessibility of the country by good roads or navigable rivers has deterred farmers from going there to settle, because, reasoned they, we cannot ship our produce. In these two items is found the reason why Southern Oregon is not as far advanced in wealth, in towns and general prosperity as the Willamette Valley.

But the more important question to the immigrant coming here to settle and the capitalist to invest in, what natural, permanent resources has that country to induce population in the first place, and sustain it in the second place, and thereby build up trade, business, wealth, and all the multifarious employments of well ordered and permanently prosperous communities? Having lived in Southern Oregon for several years, as well as in this Willamette Valley, we may be pardoned for expressing an opinion on this question. In all respects we consider Southern Oregon a better and more desirable country to live in, to make a home, and to secure the comforts of life to an agricultural and mechanical population than any part of Oregon. Just as beautiful and sunny France is naturally a better and more desirable country than foggy England, so is the Umpqua, Rogue River and Illinois Valleys superior to the Willamette Valley. There is not so much of them, to be sure, and yet they are far more extensive than generally believed to be. The climate of these Southern Oregon valleys is better than our Willamette valley climate. Italian skies do not surpass those of the mountain-locked valleys in the southern part of our State, while in the natural features of the landscape, the variegated and gorgeous coloring of hill and dale, arising from a different character of forests and vegetation, and the groves of ancient and umbrageous oaks, the mind of the traveler and tourist is persuaded that he has been suddenly transferred to the elysian fields of the poet's Arcadia.

The soil of Southern Oregon is different from that of this part of the State, in this, that it is warmer, quicker, and contains quite a per centage of lime, which the soil of the Willamette Valley is deficient in. It is a well known fact in agricultural science that limestone soil not only stands drought, frost, and all climatic changes better than any other kind of soil, but it also retains its capacity for crop production longer than any other soil—it lasts longer. We can all call up proof of this fact from observations among the limestone hills of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky and other Eastern States.

The valleys of Southern Oregon are more extensive than have ever been reported. Most of the people, and especially the settlers in that part of the State themselves, have never counted the foothills and up-lands as worth anything. As but few people have found it desirable to raise grain "away out South," that few found all the land needed down in the level valleys, and have never tried grain on the hills, to any extent, and have never purchased the hill lands for anything but sheep pasture. Yet these very people, having the rich black soil of the valleys, will in less than ten years be more surprised than any one else to see the neglected hills producing immense crops of wheat and oats, and making thousands of people rich from the untold quantities of grapes and other fruit which they will produce of finer quality than anywhere else in the State. We confidently believe there is ample room and occupation in the valleys of Umpqua, Rogue River and Illinois for a half million of people. To any one riding through that country on the top of a stage coach, this statement would appear extravagant. But we have been up and down those valleys, from Soda Springs to "Sailor Diggings," and from Galice Creek to Scottsburg, enough to know that we are correct. This progress and development cannot of course take place, without opening the country by a railroad. But the road will be built, unless the enemies of Oregon are strong enough to stop it. The road has worked wonders in the Willamette valley, but its effect in Southern Oregon, where the iron horse shall enter those solitudes, will be perfectly magical; clearing up, enlarging and beautifying, with towns and prosperous homes on every side, vast extents of country now wholly unoccupied. Then will the location of Southern Oregon be indeed desirable. Midway between the Columbia and the California and Eastern railroads at Goose Lake, its produce will have choice of Northern, Eastern or Southern markets, and the capital of Portland, San Francisco and Chicago must be rivals for its trade.—Portland Bulletin.

A FRIEND IN NEED.—Dr. Wislar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is a friend in need. Who has not found it such in curing all diseases of the lungs and throat, coughs, colds, and pulmonary affections, and "last, not least," Consumption?

DR. HERRHOLD will make a professional visit to the Southern part of the State about the first of July. He will be at Jacksonville on the fourth of July and remain until the first of August.

"For the very Best Photographs, go to BRADLEY & RULOFSON," No. 429 Montgomery street, San Francisco. Closed on Sundays.

HOW TO CURE IT.

At the commencement of the Diarrhoea, which always precedes an attack of the Cholera, take a teaspoonful of the Pain Killer, in sugar and water, (hot, if convenient), and then bathe freely the stomach and bowels with the Pain Killer clear. Should the diarrhoea or cramps continue, repeat the dose every ten or fifteen minutes until the patient is relieved. In extreme cases, two or more teaspoonfuls may be given at a dose.

The Pain Killer, as an internal remedy has no equal. In cases of Cholera, Summer Complaints, Dyspepsia, Dysentery, Asthma, it cures in one night, by taking it internally and bathing with it freely. Its action is like magic when externally applied to Old Sores, Burns, Scalds, and Sprains. For sick headache and toothache don't fail to try it. In short, it is a PAIN KILLER.

Directions accompany each bottle.

The Pain Killer is sold by all dealers in Medicines. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per bottle. J. LINN
