Politics in Kentucky.
LOUISVILLE, Aug. 7, 1872.
The Democratic Executive Committee have issued a circular to the Democrats of the United States, urging their immediate organization, for the purpose of supporting the principles of the party as they will be proclaimed by the Convention at Louisville. The Committee say that the utter abandonment of principles, as evinced by the coalition between the spoilsmen and place-hunters in their attempt to elevate Greeley to the Presidency, is an evidence, merely, of demoralization and corruption, and, as a bargain, is an open fraud and base hypocrisy—the utterance of one sentiment in the North and another in the South. It must be repudiated and spurned by every man who has one spark of honesty in his heart. There are hundreds of thousands who already proclaim their purpose of maintaining the Democratic organization at all hazards. The disintegration of the Radical party into two factions renders it evident that the Democratic masses can elect one of their own faith instead of a foe like Greeley, who still loudly asserts that he has never abandoned his principles, and points proudly yet to his record. And such a record! Can Democrats, who boast that they support "principles, not men," agree to falsify their past life by clasping hands with the worst men in the Radical party?—Sumner, Schurz, Trumbull and Fenton, and the thousand other leaders who rally around Greeley, and will control his administration if his election can be secured? Who are these men that thus seek for the highest honors and emoluments in the country, and who have extended their support to trading politicians of the Tammany school by a promise of dividing the spoils? Without exception they are the bigots whose bitterness has been evinced for the past twenty years in the defamation of their opponents; men who have uttered the most unchristian, most ferocious, most villainous sentiments about and against the Southern people—women and children as well as the men who procured the war—and who have done most to develop and pass that legislation since the war which all true Democrats denounce as subversive of liberty and against the spirit of our institutions; men who have riveted the South with chains and burdened it with burdensome debt; the proceeds of which have gone into the pockets of a select few, who have tattered upon the misfortunes of the people, and who turn to a new ring and Tammany alliance in order to still further enrich themselves. Warmoth, who has increased the debt of Louisiana $45,000,000 in three years; whose fraudulent acts and the villainies of State legislation have been denounced in Democratic papers from Maine to Texas, is the leader, par excellence, of the chivalry of the South. His influence at Cincinnati, the sixteen votes of his delegation, nominated Greeley; and yet we are coolly informed that the people have done it with enthusiasm.
Warmoth can, by fraud, elect whom he chooses, just as the Mayor of New York has in deciding the vote and in the appointing of all the election officers. The Committee declare the purpose is to carry the elections of thieves in other States by practical fraud, and they protest against it as no better a method of securing the liberty of the people than the use of partisan laws originated by prominent leaders of Greeley's party to be enforced by the bayonets of the present Administration. They declare the South cannot clasp hands with those who have persistently wronged them from the termination of the war; that Northern Democrats cannot but condemn the offenses of men like Pease of Texas, and Rice of Arkansas; or load with honors Gratz Brown, who in 1863 outdid Herod for distraction and murder position, and recanted only when office was to be obtained. They notice other leaders of the Greeley movement—Blair, who came into the party to destroy it, and nobly has fulfilled his mission; Schurz, who is the loudest of all, and who would sweep the South with a besom of destruction, and who viewed the election of a Democrat as the worst calamity to befall the country only six months ago; McMill, the butcher of unarmed prisoners in Kentucky, Barbridge, the most detested of all its citizens; in Georgia, Bruce, who as an official during our war, and under the corrupt administration of Bullock, which plundered the pockets of millions, has been and is a model of using his official station for private gain. Against a union with such men, and against their use of the Democratic name, the Committee protest and declare their belief that the people will condemn the corrupt bargain. The only precedent, they say, in history for the immediate selection of a deserter for a commander-in-chief is that of Coriolanus, and for the Democrats the comparison is unfortunate. Coriolanus betrayed his army and saved Rome when she was prostrate at his feet. So Greeley, with Sumner and other champions of negro social equality, re-indorsed with emphasis, since his nomination, with truculent advisers of centralization and tyrannical oppression of these advisers—uncompromising enemies to that Constitution which is to them "a league with hell and covenant with death," are ready to do anything for power and place, and will unscrupulously betray their own followers, if necessary, for their own advancement.

Even in the hour of victory they declare the Democratic party is the party of the future, and that its honesty of purpose will attract the support of the masses, and its future be crowned with success.
The circular concludes with a recommendation for the immediate appointment in every county of a committee of five or more, the chairmen of which shall constitute the District Committee of that Congressional District; conventions to be assembled on or before the 25th of August, and select two delegates and two alternates for each congressional district, and that full delegations from each State shall certainly be present on the 3d of September.
The circular is signed by Blanton Duncan, Chairman.

Our Washington Letter.
WASHINGTON, D. C.,
August 2nd, 1872.
Your Correspondent has, on more than one occasion, been told that negotiations were being entered into with Gen. Banks by the Democrats, the consideration of which was to be $10,000 for taking the stump against the Republican party. It is well known here that Gen. B. is exceedingly poor. His house, in which he lives in Mass., is heavily mortgaged. While in Washington he lives high at an enormous expense. What he drinks costs him more than what he eats, the quantity of the former is most visibly seen on his phiz.
This city is in great excitement over the dispatches hourly received from North Carolina. The Democrats, late last night, claimed the election by at least 10,000 majority, and it was very disagreeable to a loyal person to hear the bar-room talk of some of the Greeley men of the old rebel stripe. One says to the other, "the result of today's contest in the old Rip Van Winkle State is sufficient to every Southern mind that we shall gain by the ballot in November what we were unable to get by the sword in over four years hard fighting." What is that replied the other, the power to secede?
His question was not answered directly, but indirectly as follows: "The Union Republican Congressional Committee is compiling extracts from Horace, published in the Tribune just before and at the commencement of the war, making him out a worst secessionist than the Hon. Jefferson Davis ever dared to be." Says he, "I shall vote for Horace because he will not dare, should he be elected President, to coerce a single State, whose people desire to withdraw themselves peacefully from the Union, as South Carolina and other Southern States desired to do when they passed the secession ordinances."

The latest reports this evening are exceedingly encouraging to the Republicans, and believe me, every loyal heart beats with grateful emotion.
You, Mr. Editor, will have received the very latest reports ere you receive this, and, therefore, more is necessary on this point.
The Democrats have spared neither time, pains nor money to carry the State at all hazards. In conversation with an old North Carolinian to day, I was told that never in his recollection has there been such a contest. Why! he remarked, "Old Tammany, in its palmiest days, could not afford to spend

Letter from Umpqua.
UMPQUA, Aug. 8, 1872.
EDITOR SENTINEL—Dear Sir: The Railroad track was laid to the north bank of the North Umpqua last week, and the work is being pushed forward on the bridge. It will be finished, in all probability, by the 1st of October, and by the 10th, or sooner, the cars will be running to Roseburg, 95 miles from Jacksonville. At present the passenger train stops at Oakland, at which point connection is made with the stage from the South. The construction trains make two or more trips a day between Oakland and the North Umpqua river, loaded mostly with bridge timber from Pass Creek. The depot at Oakland is one-half mile from the town proper, which is near enough for all practical purposes, though the hill between obstructs the sight and makes it a little inconvenient. Now that the hill and depot are fixtures, the Oaklanders have begun to move over to the new town. It is evidently better to do this than to be running back and forth several times a day for an unlimited time to come; besides, "doing and undoing keep men at work."

After recovering from our astonishment on seeing an enterprise of such magnitude completed with such dispatch, we may easily premise what effect it will have on the Umpqua Valley in a very short time.
The crops are being fast gathered in without rain, and the supply will be more than equal to the home demand.
The health is generally good, and, with all her hills, Umpqua is certainly an eligible place to live.
Yours truly,
ORIGIN.

The fires in the mountains, in this vicinity are dying out.

the money that has been lavishly spent by the Democrats in this contest. Offers of $20 to $30 are made to the colored man if he will vote the Democratic ticket."
Your correspondent some two years since had occasion to write in terms not at all complimentary of Sayles J.
Bowen, then Mayor of Washington.
Mr. Bowen had been for a long time an abolitionist, and only to a few, who knew him best, was thought to be an honest man. He came to Washington from New York through the influence of Wm. L. Marcy of that State, and when the Hon. Wm. L. Marcy had no further use for him, he was provided a position in one of the Departments, remaining there until after Lincoln was inaugurated President, after which, true to his early instinct to be avaricious and get all the offices he possibly could that would pay, he got a place under John W. Forney, then Secretary of the Senate, as disbursing clerk, and while there obtained influence sufficient to get nominated and confirmed City Postmaster of Washington, under a salary of $4,000 per annum. He also was a member, your correspondent believes, of the Levy Court. At about the same time he got the nomination and was elected Mayor of Washington, and after serving his term, the people refusing to re-elect him, he was thrown out in the cold, and with no friends and no influence, he asked the President to appoint him to some lucrative office. The President had no use for him, and he, the ex-Mayor, comes out against the President, and makes charges against him as being dishonest, and one who has cheated him out of $25,000, threatening him with a lawsuit the next term of court.
The facts of the case are these: The ex-Mayor applied to the President to buy the house he used to own and occupy when the President was Lieut.
General. The President offered to sell it to him for $40,000, and the offer was accepted by Mr. B., and he paid $1,000 down to bind the bargain. A few days after the President had an offer, and accordingly informed Mr. B., who was willing to relinquish his trade, and after receiving the $1,000 he had paid, he, Bowen, released the deed, and, as was supposed by the President, it was all satisfactory. It would have been all well if Bowen, who had been a chronic office holder, had had an office provided for him. This is a truthful statement, and will account for the milk in the cocoanut.
The revelation of a new chapter in the history of the rebellion, which discloses positive proof of the hellish designs of our "Southern brethren" to lay in ashes our Northern cities, and with them necessarily thousands of helpless men, women and children, is a bomb-shell in the ranks here. What we had reason to suspect during the war, is now, after seven years, positive knowledge. Not a few, but many, of the friends of Horace Greeley, express themselves to your correspondent as being unwilling to affiliate with those who only a few years ago were banded together as so many incendiary ruffians to commit such a terrible crime. A gentleman at my right suggests that it might not be necessary to have a repetition of the rebellion if Horace was elected President, for he says, repeating Greeley at the outbreak of the war, "Let our wayward sisters depart in peace." H. G. is a man of his word, and would, Buchanan like, refuse to coerce a State, but let her go, should she desire to secede. LIFE.
