THE FAMILIAR MAN.

Of all the sad inflictions that man is doomed to meet,
'Tis the free, familiar fellow who hails him on the street—
Hails him with a wink and rib-poke, a swagger and a grin,
And a gibe on some past yielding to a dearly-cherished sin.

The brass of generations concentrates within this bore.
On whom snubbing is all wasted, whom swearing cannot floor;
Whose cheek is omnipresent, and who speaks of men of purse
As if he and they were suckled by the same lacteal nurse.

If you ask the wretch to dinner, the chance is two to eight
That he chaffs your wife's relations and spits upon your grate;
And it not infrequent happens that your household's comely dame
Is accosted by this fellow in her given Christian name.

Offer him a full cigar box, he takes some eight or ten,
Just telling you jocosely that he means to smoke again.
He'll criticise your cooking—on your wife's brow bring a frown,
And venture lying stories of the upper-ten of town—

Of people whom it may be, in the villain's crooked course,
He may have had the honor of standing by their horse.
Oh, ye people who have suffered from this vile familiar man,
Up, and crush this greatest evil in our tangled social plan.

Presence of Mind.

Self-control and presence of mind are doubtless, in some measure, natural gifts; but they may be greatly increased and strengthened by culture. Young folks may learn a valuable lesson from the heroic conduct of little Annie Lamb, a girl of 12 years. She had taken passage with her mother on the propeller Fountain City, from Chicago to Buffalo. The day after the departure of the boat the little girl, going into the kitchen, remarked that the stove smoked, to which the cook replied she was mistaken. The girl had heard her mother often say that she dreaded going on a boat for fear of fire. With this in her mind, and, taking another look at the place where the smoke seemed to come from, she saw that it did not issue from the stove. Going on deck she discovered the wood-work around the smoke stack on fire, and the flames just eating their way into the cabin. Without giving any general alarm, she went to the steward, and told him the boat was on fire. He informed the captain, who called the deck hands aft, and they extinguished the fire without one of the passengers being aware that anything of the kind had occurred. There were twenty-two ladies sitting on deck, on the bow of the boat—among them the mother of Annie—when this was going on.

After the work had been done Annie went to her mother, and said "Don't be frightened, mother; the boat has been on fire, but it is all over now."

The captain was so greatly pleased with the cool, calm and quiet manner in which the child performed her part, that he refunded the passage money of both and offered to take them back to Chicago free of charge. Had little Annie screamed "Fire!" as most children and the majority of grown people would have done, a panic would doubtless have occurred among the passengers, and disastrous consequences ensued.

A FISH STORY.—We met a boy on the street, and without the ceremony of asking our name he exclaimed:

"You just orter been down to the river a while ago!"

"Why?" we ventured to ask.

"'Cause a nigger was in there swimming, and a big catfish came up behind and swallowed both his feet, and went swimming 'long on top o' the water with him, and they came up behind another big fish, and the nigger swallowed his tail, and the nigger and two fishes went swimming about!"

"Well, then what?"

"Why, after a while the nigger he swallowed his fish and the other fish swallowed the nigger, and that's the last I ever saw of any of them."

"Sonny," said we, with a feeling of alarm for the boy, "you are in a fair way to become an editor of a political newspaper."

Nothing sets so wide a mark between a vulgar and a noble soul as the respect and reverential love of a woman. A man who is always sneering at women is generally a coarse profligate, or a coarser bigot.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Hon. Wm. H. Seward was insured to the amount of $100,000.

All our exchanges up North, through the Umpqua and Willamette Valleys, have accounts of the epizootic in their neighborhoods.

There were 307 deaths in San Francisco during the month of January. How many more deserved it? Give it up. It ain't a "fair" conundrum.

In 1865 the population of Montana was estimated to be fully 50,000. In 1872 it is represented to have dwindled down to 18,000—a loss of nearly two-thirds.

The Portland Advocate reports the recent conversion of a Catholic lady to Protestantism, in that city. There are about 5,000,000 Catholics in the United States.

Utah has twelve railroads completed, or in course of construction, and more are projected. Brigham Young and sons own five, and the "Saints" control three more of them.

There are 864 convicts in the Missouri penitentiary, and Democrats sufficient to carry the State by 6,000 majority yet on the outside. A gloomy prospect, from a moral outlook.

The Indiana divorce law is to be made more stringent, actual residence for two years being required. Merely human man may die for woman, but not live two years in Indiana for her.

The Oregonian says the friends of Senator Nye talk about bringing him forward as a candidate for the mission to China. We claim the first nomination, though we may not be "nigh" to success, or vice versa.

The State Journal at Eugene City closed its 9th Volume with the issue of Feb. 8th. Besides its excellence as a local journal, it is also one of the ablest and most reliable Republican papers in the State.

The following deeds for school lands are made out at the office of the Commissioners, in Salem, and await the order of the grantees: John P. Walker and the heirs-at-law of E. H. Greenman, Jackson county, Oregon.

The San Francisco Chronicle says there are 1,100 distinctly defined quartz ledges in Nevada county, Cal., of which only ten or twelve are being worked, yet the yield of bullion is about a quarter of a million dollars a month.

During the annual season of moisture in the Webfoot country the thoughts of the people are turned inward, and an unusul number of religious revivals are reported in that drizzly country for the present season.

The Secretary of War has directed the officers of the Quartermaster's Department to use a solution of one teaspoonful of chlorate of potash in a bucket of water as a remedy for horses affected with the epizootic; one-fourth of this quantity to be given twice a day.

An Albia (Iowa) girl, who leans towards the Sorosisters, found a nice pair of pants in her stocking on Christmas morning. Upon which we have only to remark that a limb demanding a stocking of that dimension is honestly entitled to the trowsers.

After a party people too often have headache. Not so after the party at Pioche, Nevada, where the cook had mixed the cake with epsom salts instead of saleratus. Next day (says the Record) the heads, consciences and stomachs of the guests were all clear.

R. M. Lee, an attorney of San Francisco, has been convicted in that city of the crime of "embracery." That's no crime here, we infer, judging by the extent to which it is practiced on each recurrence of a moonlight night, when the watchman turns a corner. It even reaches to sign-posts and shade trees.

Two jour printers lately skated down the Missouri river, a distance of 200 miles, in three days. One of them had his ear and one side of his face frozen, and the other had both his ears frozen. It is natural that the most exposed portion would be first frozen, and only men bearing the characteristics of long ears would undertake such a trip.

"What," asks the N. Y. Tribune, "is to be done with our thirteen murderers?" If you can prove it on them, we would suggest hanging; but if the mere object of punishment is entertained for the purpose of reformation, let them learn the facts in the case and then read the S. F. Chronicle on Modoc biography. If that don't make them ashamed of their acts it certainly will convince them of their inferiority in some things.

SENATOR MITCHELL.

The Washington City Daily Chronicle of January 24th contains the following editorial in reference to Senator J. H. Mitchell:

In a partial enumeration of railroad men, or gentlemen largely interested in railroads, in the Senate, we mentioned the other day Mr. Mitchell, the newly-elected Oregon Senator, as "a railroad king." We are assured that Mr. Mitchell is neither a king nor a prince among the railroad potentates. He is a man of moderate wealth, has been attorney of the Oregon railroads, and was interested in their construction at the beginning. He is a lawyer of large practice, and relies upon his profession for what of name and fame he has achieved. He has been frequently in public life, and was a prominent candidate for United States Senator when Mr. Corbett was elected, some years since.

As our only object in an allusion to the increasing tendency to put forward for prominent political positions leading railroad men, was to call attention to the fact, and to the change it must make in the character of the Senate, we are glad of an opportunity to set Mr. Mitchell right in this connection.

It is certainly worth while to give some thought to the fact whether men who have given life-long study to political questions, and who have had large experience in public life, can be spared for a class who, by enterprise and successful speculations have achieved for themselves a name among their fellows. Just now the country is awakening to the fact that the railroad power of the nation is sufficiently potent to carry its purposes over all opposition. If it intrenches itself in the Senate it may bid defiance to all efforts to curb its pretensions.

WILD TURKEYS.—It is a notable and singular fact that there are no wild turkeys on this coast, unless it may be a few in Arizona, though so plentiful even so far West as the summit of the Rocky Mountains;—in Colorado reaching to the largest size of anywhere else. An effort is being made to introduce the fowl into California, and we can see no good reason why they should not do well in all parts of this coast. The S. F. Chronicle says:

James Gamble has sent one pair of the wild turkeys recently received by him from Illinois, to M. S. Latham at Menlo Park, one pair to J. McM. Shafter of Marin county, one pair to Dr. Burdell of Marin, and one pair to J. W. Coleman of Oakland, to be turned out to propagate and stock our woods with the game. Judge Caton of Illinois, in sending the birds, said: "I would recommend that a pair be placed at some ranch on the plain near a grove, detached at least a mile from other timber, with a number of tame turkeys. When turned out they will be very wild, and may run off, if not kept in an inclosure by clipping one wing to prevent them from flying; but by degrees they will tame down. I have raised all those sent on my own premises. In the Spring the hen will hide away.—Let her alone, and she will come out with a fine brood, and after repeated trials one may drive them. Scatter barley about their haunts, and they can be found and driven to roost in the trees." He also says that the dozen birds sent out by him will, if properly cared for and protected, raise twenty-five pairs this year.

WHAT IS A BLOODED HORSE?—He is a horse having a more than ordinary number of drops or pounds of blood in his system in proportion to his size and weight. This large amount of blood acts upon his system through a large heart and correspondingly large arteries and veins, and put in motion, it acts in driving him to speed in the same manner as an increased amount of fire under the boiler drives off a greater amount of steam and makes the machinery go faster. This large amount of blood also acts in refining the skin, making it and the horse finer than a horse of less blood; it refines and gives elasticity to the muscles, feet, &c.; it refines the entire horse, making strong the valuable parts, and fitting the whole system for speed and endurance.

One day last week, at Oakland, Mr. Jacob Clady, of the tender age of 67, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mrs. Harper, aged 65. The ceremony was conducted in the presence of a delighted audience, who cheerfully contributed the marriage fee.
