MILLER'S STORE.

CALIFORNIA'S NEW CONSTITUTION.

The new constitution adopted by the vote of the intelligent people of California, is a reform document in every sense of the term. Money was lavishly used by both capitalists and criminal classes to prevent its adoption, without avail.

It prohibits the confinement of witnesses in any room where criminals are actually imprisoned. It renders it almost impossible to hang a jury by corrupt means, in civil actions. It makes it impossible for a venal juror to make a verdict for a party. It renders it impossible for a venal juror to make a verdict for a party.

It prohibits the appointment of State officials. It requires all moneys, assessment and taxes belonging to or collected for the use of any county, city, town or other public or municipal corporation to be immediately deposited with the treasurer or other legal depository of such county, city, etc. for the benefit of the funds to which they respectively belong. The unlawful and unauthorized use of public moneys is made a felony. It prevents the holding of monopolies by gas or water companies, by guaranteeing the right to any one to supply either commodity, under certain proper and general restriction. It prevents the stockholder of a corporation from selling out to irresponsible persons, and thus avoiding the just share of the liabilities created by himself during the time he was a stockholder. It makes the directors or trustees of a corporation liable for moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation during the term of such director or trustee.
It prohibits incorporated companies from conducting their business in such a manner as to infringe the rights of individuals or the well-being of the State. It prevents a corporation from swindling its creditor, as at present is often done, selling its property, such as steamboats, etc. It prohibits corporations making a fictitious increase of their capital stock. It secures the right of representation to all shareholders in stock companies. It absolutely places out of the power of the giant railroad monopoly of the State the carrying out of the design to monopolize the grain handling of the State, with which object in view they have secured a large portion of the water front of two cities. It requires foreign corporations doing business in the State to submit to all the conditions imposed upon those incorporated under the laws of the State. It puts a stop to the thieving plan now in vogue, of officers and directors of stock companies letting contracts to themselves, thereby, in most instances, swindling the remaining stockholders. It prohibits the issuance of free passes by railroad companies to any one holding any office of trust or emolument under the State (excepting the Railroad Commissioners), and the acceptance of a pass by any such officer will work a forfeiture of his office. It creates a Railroad Commission and arms it with full powers to regulate fares and freights and prevent discrimination. It provides a system of taxation which will really bear equally on all classes, by exempting no class of property, all of which must be taxed in proportion to its value. It exempts growing crops from taxation, thereby reducing the hazards of agricultural pursuits and encouraging husbandry. It provides for the assessment of "cultivated and uncultivated land of the same quality, and similarly situated, at the same value." This will make the burden of taxation fall equally on the large landed proprietor and the owner of 160 acres. It makes impossible the fraudulent transfer of property to evade taxation. It makes it possible to tax the property of the Central Pacific Railroad monopoly within the State, at something near its value. The State is prohibited from employing Chinese labor, and their employment on county, municipal and other public works, except in punishment for crime, is prohibited. It makes malfeasance in office more odious than at present, by providing that laws shall be made to exclude from office, serving on juries and from the right of suffrage, all persons who may be convicted of such a crime. It makes eight hours a legal day's work on the public works. It provides that no person shall be disqualified, on account of sex, from pursuing any lawful business, vocation or profession.

the appropriation of any money for sectarian schools. It prohibits the teaching of denominational doctrines in the public schools. It stops the contract system in prisons, by which particular firms have, through political influence, enabled to obtain contracts at such figures as to beat down competition, and requires instead that convicts shall be worked for the benefit of the State. It arms counties, cities towns and township organizations with the necessary police powers to rid themselves of the Chinese. It gives the local authorities the power to appoint officers, to regulate the inspection, measurement or gradation of any merchandise, manufacture or commodity, but prohibits the appointment of State
collected for the use of any county,

business, vocation or profession.

collected for the use of any county,
any one to supply either commodity,
irresponsible persons, and thus avoiding the just share of the liabilities cre-
ting contracts to themselves, thereby,
ue. It exempts growing crops from
of agricultural pursuits and encourag-
