BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

JOSEPH SATTERFIELD.

Few of our readers will fail to recognize in the name heading this brief sketch one whom they know, or of whom they have heard; and fewer still have ever heard anything detracting from his good name. Joseph Satterfield was born in Caroline county, Maryland, in the year 1813. He was raised on a farm until he had attained his majority, when he learned the blacksmith's trade. In 1835 he concluded to go West, and with the resolution characterizing the youth of earlier and less effeminate times than these he started on foot from Baltimore, Maryland, and walked to Wheeling, Virginia. He continued his travels to Cincinatti, and from that city he went to Richmond, Wayne county, Indiana, still on foot and barefooted. Here he worked nine months as an engineer although he had learned but little engineering before. In the fall of 1838 he was married to Miss Zelpha Peale. He remained in Richmond until the Spring of 1852, when he determined to emigrate to this coast. He accordingly went to New York with his family where he took passage for Portland, Oregon, on the ship M. Howes. After a voyage of one hundred and sixty two days he arrived at his destination. He went from Portland to Milwaukee, and worked for Anson Dart, Superintendent of Indian Affairs. From Milwaukee he went into Linn county and settled on a donation claim, opposite Corvallis. Not liking the climate in that section he sold out and came to Jackson county in 1855, and settled north of Rogue river, where he remained about seven years. He then bought the Joe Davis place near Jacksonville, and carried on a blacksmith shop in town. He remained here but a few years when he sold out and returned to the northern part of the county, where he now resides, and is engaged in farming. Mr. Satterfield's wife is still living, and they have no living children. He is still stout and vigorous for one of his age and bids fair to survive many years in the enjoyment of his mental and physical strength.

In politics Mr. Satterfield is an early [illegible] movement. His Republicanism is a matter of principle with him and not a mere assumed name for the purpose of being on the strong side. He is and has long been a member of the M. E. Church, and his life gives evidence of the sincerity of his professions.

The case of Jackson county vs. Lake county, to recover a just and lawful debt of nearly two thousand dollars, appealed to the Supreme Court, having been dismissed the "State Line Herald" becomes perfectly furious. The people of Jackson county are denounced as thieves, but the fury of the editor will be of no avail and he might as well preserve his equanimity as the debt must be paid. If the debt be inequitable the representatives from the Eastern portion of the old Jackson county who introduced and procured the passage of the enabling act creating Lake county, are responsible. Inasmuch, however, as Judge Prim passed carefully on this case in the Circuit court below, deciding in favor of Jackson county, we apprehend that his opinion will be accepted as slightly superior to that of the "Herald," otherwise he should not venture East of the mountains lest he be crucified as the chief thief on a Lake county sage bush. We rather suspect that the animus of this "tempest in a teapot" is the fact that the case was dismissed "for want of proper notice of appeal," and the editor of the 'Herald' is chagrined at the ignorance of Lake county attorneys. Lake county can prepare to pay this debt, and had they listened to their Treasurer, Mr. Nurse, they would have saved a very expensive litigation.

---

The Lakeview "Herald" appears to think that the people of Lake county are almost a unit in favor of the removal of the Klamath Indians. As it is a matter of fact that a remonstrance against their removal was signed by nearly every settler in the Western end of the county, the opinion of that paper must be taken with much allowance. There is at present no danger of any attempt at removal.

---

When a married man belongs to a lodge, of course he finds the dues to pay—Ex.

And when he returns home late he finds the "devil" to pay.

Full arrangements for celebration of our national birth-day at Willow Springs will be made this week. We will not be able to give the programme until next issue.

PORTLAND VS. SAN FRANCISCO.

The now absolute certainty of direct railroad communication at an early day between the East and the city of Portland is very encouraging to the people of Northern Oregon and must result advantageously to this isolated portion of the State. Let the western connection of the Union Pacific be finished to Portland, landing freights from the East at the same rates for which they are now brought to San Francisco, and the merchants of Portland will at once enter into successful competition with those of San Francisco for the undivided trade of Southern Oregon. There can not be the slightest doubt as to this result, for the laws of trade are inexorable. We purchase where we can buy cheapest, and sell to those who give the highest price, and certainly whenever we can buy in Portland as cheaply as elsewhere it would not be in accordance with business principles to buy at a distant point with marine insurance, delay and additional freights against us. Viewing the matter in this light we must conclude that sooner or later San Francisco merchants will close their accounts with us except they can assist in furnishing superior means of transportation. It is quite possible that the Central Pacific might push a narrow gauge railway northward from Redding to such a point on the other side of the "Siskiyous" as would invite the diversion of all our traffic in that direction. This movement would be at once counteracted by the construction of a similar road southward from Roseburg, over an easier route, entering this valley and defying competition. Only so far as the reduction of tariffs on our imports is concerned would either of these roads be of the slightest advantage to us. Under no circumstances would either afford us transportation for our own products and leave us a living margin. In short there is only one way by which San Francisco may secure our trade without the slightest fear of successful rivalry, and that is by the construction of a narrow gauge from this valley to the sea. Give us a landing at Crescent City for our produce and the tribute of this rich portion of Oregon will flow through the "Golden Gate" into the lap of the great city as long as the Pacific ebbs and flows, and with such an aid to its development the tribute of Southern Oregon will be worth having. The merchants [illegible] San Francisco may well consider. Already Portland is dividing the trade with them when they may secure it all. If it can be demonstrated that a perfectly practicable route exists, and that the investment of a little over a million of dollars will pay a fair rate of interest, they should not hesitate, and if they will take the trouble to investigate we assure them that the result will be quite satisfactory. If they decide to let their best interests be destroyed by their own neglect we have nothing to say.

GRAND JURY SYSTEM.

For many years there has been a grave question in the public mind as to the propriety of keeping up the Graud Jury system, more noted for being a venerable and expensive luxury than for anything else. Scarcely a session of court is held that does not leave behind the strongest impression that the system is expensive, worthless, not only unnecessary, but unjust. It is popularly supposed to be an inquisition for the purpose of ascertaining whether crime has been committed, in reality only a modern edition of the infamous "Star chamber," a tribunal where men are tried, convicted on exparte evidence, branded as felons and sent into a community to wince perhaps under false accusations until they can stand face to face with their accuser. Men will do deeds in the dark that they will not do in the daylight, and those who serve on Grand Juries say that the evidence of witnesses before them is usually much stronger, far more convincing than it is in open court, when the accuser is confronted with the accused. Men of fair intelligence and honest purposes are often surprised to see the same evidence that has forced an indictment assume an entirely different aspect when subjected to the test of a keen cross examination in court. Inquisition is contrary to the fair spirit of this day and it should be abolished.

Justice's courts are competent to discharge all its functions. If any one be accused of crime let him be at once examined before a magistrate with the usual privilege of defense, and be either held or discharged; not for a subsequent and secret examination but for a fair jury trial. Then make a false accuser pay the expense of an examination and we venture the prediction that there would not be one criminal trial where there are five under the present system. There is a profound conviction in the public mind that this secret tribunal should be abolished, and we believe that if tested, popular opinion in this State would be almost a unit against it.

THE LIBEL LAW

There are some persons who take advantage of the latitude given by publishers to correspondents to enjoy themselves at the expense of others. Frequently allusions are made especially in small communities, which wound that the feelings of innocent parti s, or which cause the finger of scandal to be pointed at them unnecessarily For the information of publishers, as well as correspondents, we call attention to section "five hundred and thirty nine" of the criminal code as amended and passed at the last session of the Legislative assembly, and which reads as follows:

SEC. 539. If any person shall wilfully, by any means other than words orally spoken, publish or cause to be published, of or concerning another, any false and scandalous matter, with intent to injure or defame such other person, upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not less than three months, nor more than one year, or by a fine not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars. Any allusion to any person or family, with intent to injure, defame or maliciously annoy such family, shall be deemed to come within the provisions of this section; and it is hereby made the duty of the circuit judge of each judicial district of this State, to read this section to the grand jury at each session of the court, and of the Prosecuting Attorney of each judicial district to see that its provisions are enforced, whether the party injured desires to prosecute such offense or not.

Approved October 21, 1878.
