he contrary, are considered as wishing to continue heir subscriptions.

2. If any subscribers order the discontinuance of fheir newspapers, the publisher may continue to send them until all arresrages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their newspapers from the offices to which they are directed, the law holds them responsible until they have settled the bills, and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers remore to other piaces without informing the publisher, and the newspapers are sent to the farmer direction, they are held responsible.

5. The Courte have decided that refusing to take newspapers from this office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facile withence of intentional fraud.

6. The postmaster who neglects to give legal netice of the neglect of a person to take from the office the newspaper addressed to him, is liable to the publisher for the subscription price.

Never witness a tear with a pathy or indifference. Words, looks, actions, may be artificial; but a tear is equivocal; it comes direct fromt the hear, and speaks at once the language of truth, nature and sincerity.

Straw is worth money on the farm, first for bedding animals, second for throwing into the feeding and barn REV. LOWELL L. ROCKES, A. M., Pressure of Mental and Moral Sciences. yards, and third, if there be surplus, for rolling where it may happen to lie. All this of course with reference to its ultimate value as manure. Yet a large class of farmers in the West, yearly burn vast quantities of straw, thus reducing it simply to its inorganic elements.

A child's logic is not to be sneezed at. His mind is keen enough to see the folly of much of the reasoning of his seniors. A little fellow in Connecticut asked his parents to take him to church with them. They said he must wait until he was older. "Wel.," was the shrewd suggestion in response, "you'd better take me now, for when I get bigger I may not want to go."

The Northern Pacific Rail Road is crawling slowly across the continent one mile of road being built daily. There are already thirty-four settlements upon the line, and the line and the sale of Government lands last year amounted to over 2,000,000 acres. The snorting and never tired steam horse will reach the Yellowstone in the course of the next two years. What a revolution steam horses make? And how long before there will arise a humbug anti-railroad party!

The Stewart grave robbers evidently thought they had got hold of a bonanza, and $2,500,000 was the first price demanded for the return of the body. From this princely figure they came down step by step to $200,000. Judge Hilton, it is said, shows no incli to pay more than $25,000, and even then will promise no immunity to the criminals. The robbers have tried in ever way to bring him to terms, but while he is willing to pay the sum offered for the body he will not compound the felony.

Every man of sense and refinement admires a woman as a woman, a thousand things that in their appropriate sphere would be admired become dis gusting and offensive. The appropriate character of a woman demands delicacy of appearance and manners refinement of sentiment, gentleness of speech, modesty in feeling and action, a shrinking from notoriety and public gaze, aversion to all that is coarse and rude, and an instinctive abhorrence to all that tends to indelicacy and impurity, either in principle or action. These are the traits which are admired and sought for in a woman.

The mere lapse of years is not life. To eat and drink and sleep-to be exposed to darkness and to light-to pace around in the mill of habit and turn thought into an implement of trade, this is not life. In all this but a poor fraction of the consciousness of humanity is awakened, and the sanctities still slumber which make it worth while to be. Knowledge, truth, love, beauty, faith, alone can give vitality to the mechanism of existence. The laugh of mirth vibrates through the heartthe tears that freshen the dry wastes within, the music that brings childhood back, the prayer that calls the future near, the doubt that makes us meditate the death that startles us with mystery, the hardship that forces us to struggle, the anxiety that ends in trust, are the true nourishments of our natural being.

Robert G. Ingersoll pays this tribute to his dead friend: "Upon the grave of the Rev. Alexander Clark I wish to place one flower. Utterly cold of dogmatic pride that often passes for the love of God, without the arrogance of the love of God, without the love of God, without the to his dead friend: "Upon the grave of the elect-simple, free and kindthis earnest man made me his friend by being mine. I forgot that he was a Christian, and he seemed to forget that I was not, while each remembered that the other was a man. * * * While this good man was living his brothren idemed him for having treated me with fairness. But I trust, now that he has left the shore touched by the myterious sea that never yet has borne on any wave the imagine of a home-ward sail, this crime will be fargiven by those who still remain to teach the the love of God."
