

FOR PRESIDENT,

JAS. A. GARFIELD, Of Ohio

FOR VICE PRESIDENT, CHESTER A. ARTHUR, Of New York.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS, GEO. B. CURRY, of Grant, E. L. APPLEGATE, of Lien, C. B. WATSON, of Lake.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

Chester A. Arthur, Republican candidate for Vice President, is a man of force, energy and great determination. In any political campaign in which he has ever participated his influence has been powerfully felt. He is a most skillful organizer and an ind-fatigable worker. He is a native of Northern New York, and a graduate of Yale College, a lawyer by profession, and is about 47 years of age. He first made his appearance in public affairs as the protegee of Governor E. D. Morgan of New York, who appointed him Quartermaster General of the State in the Spring of 1861. In that responsible position, the war of the rebellion then being in progress, he found ample scope for his tireless energies. Troops were being raised and dispatched to the field by tens of thousands, and they and might be toiled to equip them in a manner worthy of the Empire State. No regiments moved to the front more admirably supplied and accounted than those of New York. It is almost impossible to comprehend the incessant demands that were made upon him while acting in that capacity. War was a new ordeal for the American people at that time; extraordinary difficulty was experienced in collecting the necessary food, clothing and material needed at one time for so many troops; few persons understood precisely what would be required, and no one had previous experience at such business. Everything depended on thorough organization, and Gen. Arthur devoted himself to his task with a zeal, industry and success that brought order out of chaos, and secured for him the gratitude of his official superior and the hearty approval of the authorities at Washington. He continued at his post until the close of the war, making a record of which any public servant might be proud. Worn out with incessant hard-work, and believing his services could be dispensed with, he retired to private life, and became prominent as a legal practitioner at New York City. Under Grant's second administration he accepted the appointment of Collector of Customs of the port of New York, which position he continued to occupy until after President Hayes was inaugurated. Objections to him having arisen on the score of a not very strict observance of civil service rules, a fierce onslaught was instituted by the abolition-traitors three years ago, and an unsuccessful attempt was made to involve him in alleged irregularities. A searching investigation resulted in his complete exoneration, but he was nevertheless removed by President Hayes to make room for the present incumbent, but only after a contest of great bitterness, in which Cornell and Cocking were very prominent. After his removal he returned to legal pursuits, and is at the present time in the enjoyment of a very lucrative practice in New York city. Personally he is a man of impressive appearance—tall, dignified and self-possessed. To a "Chronicle" reporter who interviewed John Russell Young last evening at the Palace Hotel, that gentleman said: "General Arthur is a man of ability and thorough culture and of irreproachable character. I regard him as in every respect worthy of the unqualified support of the Republican party."

THE DIFFERENCE.

The nice difference in the various grades of friendship are well illustrated by the case of an old ex Judge in Arkansas, who was very anxious to close his public career by serving his county in the Legislature. Once, twice, thrice, he ran for the office, only to be beaten, and always finding a friend, Col. Smith, whom he had often befriended, working like a beaver against him—Smith belonging to the Democratic and the Judge to the Whig party. Meeting the Judge shortly after he had sustained a Waterloo defeat for the third time, the Colonel expressed a desire for a small loan on the "make it all right" security. The Judge was still smarting under defeat and remarked rather curtly: "Look here Colonel, I'm about tired of this thing, how is it?" "I've staked you, helped you out of trouble, given you more money than you will ever pay—in fact you never expect to pay it, and every time you can help me you pull your coat and go for my coat." "Why," replied the Colonel bluntly, with his fore finger in the opposite palm, "can't you see how it is?" The Judge entered he could not exactly perceive it, and the Colonel explained: "Well, Judge, here's about how it is, I'm a Democrat and must go it straight—that's principle, you know,—politically I'm against you, but financially I'm your friend." The fine point of this joke needs no microscope to detect it.

THE STATE SITUATION.

Both parties in this State are surprised at the result of the election. One that the Republican majority is so large; the other that it went Republican at all. Various reasons are assigned for the apparent revolution but the only true one is that the State is Republican and that the voters of that party went to the polls. It is assumed that the miserable cipher business of Senator Kelly, the awkwardly attempted Cronin steal and the scathing criticisms of the Supreme Court lessened the democratic vote for the State ticket but this is hardly so. Democrats do not reluke anything done in the interest of their party; and they only laugh at the attempt of a democratic Senator to defeat the will of the people, by bribery, as a kind of unsuccessful joke. Kelly has his full party vote. Whitaker has received all the votes he is entitled to. It is the Republican party of Oregon that has expressed its disapproval of the infamous course of Senator Kelly and his backers. They have placed Oregon in the list of certain Republican States in November but it must be kept there by earnest vigilance and the interest that forces Republicans to the polls when their votes are required.

THE STATE ELECTION.

The very latest returns from all the counties in the State except Coos and Curry, which are about evenly balanced, place Mr. George's majority at 1,650. The vote for Republican Supreme Judges is nearly even, Watson heading the list. Kelly and Irim are but a few votes behind Burnett but they are all here buried under a majority of about 1800—This is the "off year" for the Democracy in Oregon. Both branches of the Legislature are Republican, there being a majority of 4 in the Senate and 21 in the House.

NOTE OF RESIGNATION.

Following is the official vote of Josephine: Whitaker 289, George 203, Prim 311, Kelly 279, Burnett 288, Waldo 201, Lord 207, Watson 234, Koller 219, Hanna 294, Kent 240, Hammond 275, Odell 209, Merry 279, Sifers 275, Caldwell 232, G. B. Caldwell 265, J. O. McGee 235, Neely 256, Wimer 224, Kelly 297, Gibson 227, Nicker on 258, Hughes 283, Taylor 321, Kellogg 189, Naucke 261, Sui h 247, Lewis 292, Patterson 254, Hey 242, Sanders 270, Carson 250, Hathaway 255, Chapman 249.

OUR NEW CONGRESSMAN.

It now appears that the people of Oregon had little faith in the capacity of "Honest" John, whatever may have been their belief in his honesty for they have spurned his services, by a most decided vote. The State will now be represented by a gentleman of culture and ability, of spotless character and honest purpose and it will undoubtedly receive the service from him which it has a right to expect. Mr. George will take his seat in Congress as a type of Oregon's advancement in civilization and refinement and will assuredly draw friends to him who will aid in our material advancement. Young, able, full of ambition, proud of the honor that could only be bestowed on one in the Commonwealth we expect to see our new representative do credit to himself and State and feel sure that we will not be disappointed.

If you want to save money in your pocket go to the New York Store.

PRESIDENTIAL SITUATION.

From all quarters we hear the most satisfactory expressions with regard to the nominations made by the Republican National Convention. The ticket is exceptional as to ability and character; it should, and it will, win. The great reason why it should be successful is because it represents the principles of national freedom, of national unity and a guarantee of liberty to every citizen beneath the flag whose honor was saved at so fearful a cost. The reason why it will be successful is because the sentiment of the North, where voters are not confronted at the polls with shot guns and bull whips, is largely Republican. In 1876 the party was divided and torn by dissensions growing out of its own strength. Mr. Hayes entered the contest carrying all the odium that had been heaped on Grant's last administration. Labor was crying for employment. Every industry was depressed, business was paralyzed and people looking about for a cause, looked only on the surface; imagined that all the social and financial troubles were due to mistakes of the administration, and demanded a change. Fortunately for the country there was no change. The wise financial policy of the Republican party, carried to full success by the present administration, has placed the currency on a solid basis. Natural causes, together with restored confidence in the patriotism of the party, that saved the flag and upheld the national honor, revived the business interests of the country, and Republicans, who were willing to entrust the enemies of their country with power, now perceive their fatal mistake. Therefore there will be no change in November, as the great business interests of the North will not be permitted to be jeopardized by Southern control, solidly Democratic and the aim of which is purely political. The country cannot afford to change a policy that has restored its honor, revived its industries and strengthened its credit, merely that a horde of political adventurers may obtain place. No matter who may be nominated by the Democracy, he will be repudiated by the solid, thinking masses who have every thing to lose and nothing to gain by a change.

SWAMP LAND MATTERS.

In the dispatches of June 7th we find the following important item: Secretary Schurz yesterday decided the Oregon swamp land matters arising in the Oregon City land office, which were appealed last November by Gov. Thayer and argued by Capt. Mullan, State land agent for Oregon. The Secretary reverses the decision of the several land offices and holds that the Oregon swamp land grant was one in present, that there has not been any forfeiture, either as to land surveyed prior or subsequent to March 12, 1860, or whether selected within two years from the adjournment of the legislature or not, and consequently that all lands in Oregon actually swamp must be certified to said State. This and the Dennis Crowley decision terminates in favor of the State of Oregon all disputes between the United States and said State, that have been pending under the swamp land act of March 12 1860 for twenty years. Now, that the State has gained its rights under the grant let there be fair dealing to those who purchased under State law and who are willing to comply with its requirements. This decision should have been made long since. The titles of those holding under the State would then have been settled and a very large amount of expensive litigation would have been saved. The claimants to actual swamp or overflowed lands, holding by virtue of prior filings, have a right to demand that the discriminating law passed by the last legislature be repealed, as it is not only unjust, but deprives the State of profitable sales and retards the reclamation of thousands of acres that should be reclaimed and added to the taxable wealth of the State.
