NATIONAL REPUBLICAN PLATFORM. THE RESOLUTIONS. The Republican party, in National Convention assembled, at the end of twenty years since the Federal Government was first committed to its charge, submits to the people of the United States this brief report of its administration:

It suppressed a rebellion of men to subvert the National authority. It reconstructed the Union of States with freedom instead of slavery as its cornerstone. It transformed 4,000,000 human beings from the likeness of things to the rank of citizens. It relieved Congress from the infamous work of hunting fugitive slaves, and charged it to see that slavery did not exist; it has raised the value of our paper currency from 38 per cent to the par of gold. It has restored, upon a solid basis, payment in coin of all National obligations, and has given us a currency absolutely good and equal in every part of our extended country.

It has lifted the credit of the Nation from the point where 6 per cent bonds sold at 86, to that where 4 per cent bonds are eagerly sought at a premium. Under its administration railways have increased from 31,000 miles in 1860 to more than 82,000 miles in 1879. Our foreign trade has increased from $700,000,000 to $1,150,000,000 in the same time, and our exports, which were $200,000,000 less than our imports in 1860, were 264,000,000 more than our imports in 1879. Without resorting to loans, it has, since the war closed, defrayed the ordinary expenses of Government, besides the accruing interest on the public debt, and has discharged annually more than $30,000,000 for soldiers' and sailors' pensions. It has paid $880,000,000 of the public debt, and by refunding the balance at lower rates, has reduced the annual interest charge from nearly $150,000,000 to less than $89,000,000. All the industries of the country have revived, labor is in demand, wages have increased, and throughout the entire country there is evidence of a converging prosperity greater than we have ever enjoyed. Upon this record the Republican party asks for the continued confidence and support of the people, and this Convention submits for their approval the following statement of the principles and purposes which will continue to guide and inspire its efforts.

First—We affirm that the work of the Republican party for the last twenty years has been such as to commend it to the favor of the nation; that the fruits of the costly victories which we have achieved through immense difficulties should be preserved; that the peace we gained should be cherished; that the Union should be perpetuated, and that the liberties secured to this generation should be transmitted undiminished to future generations; that the order established and the credit acquired should never be impaired; that the pensions promised should be paid; that the debt so much reduced should be extinguished by the full payment of every dollar thereof; that the reviving industries should be further promoted, and that the commerce already so great should be steadily encouraged.

Second—The Constitution of the United States is a supreme law, and not a mere contract. Out of confederated States it makes a sovereign nation. Some powers are denied to the nation, while others are denied to the States, but the boundary between the powers delegated and those reserved is to be determined by the national and not by the State tribunals.

Third—The work of popular education is one left to the care of the several States, but it is the duty of the national Government to aid that work to the extent of its constitutional ability. The intelligence of the nation is the aggregate of the intelligence in the several States, and that the destiny of the nation must be guided not by the genius of any one State, but by the average genius of all.

Fourth—The Constitution wisely forbids Congress to make any law respecting an establishment of religion, but it is idle to hope that the nation can be protected against the influence of sectarianism while each State is exposed to its domination. We, therefore, recommend that the Constitution be so amended as to lay the same prohibition upon the Legislature of each State, and to forbid the appropriation of public funds to the support of sectarian schools.

Fifth—We reaffirm the belief avowed in 1876 that the duties levied for the purpose of revenue should so discriminate as to favor American labor; that no further grants of the public domain should be made to any railway or other corporation; that slavery having perished in the States, its twin barbarity, polygamy, must die in the Territories; that everywhere the protection accorded to a citizen of American birth must be secured to citizens by American adoption. That we deem it the duty of Congress to develop and improve our watercourses and harbors, but insist that further subsidies to private persons or corporations must cease; that the obligations of the Republic to the men who preserved its integrity in the hour of battle are undiminished by the lapse of fifteen years since their final victory. To do them honor is and shall forever be the grateful privilege and sacred duty of the American people.

Sixth—Since the authority to regulate immigration and intercourse between the United States and foreign nations rests with the Congress of the United States and the treaty-making power, the Republican party, regarding the unrestricted immigration of Chinese as a matter of grave concernment, under the exercise of both those powers would limit and restrict that immigration by the enactment of such just, humane and reasonable laws and treaties as will produce that result.

Seventh—That the purity and patriotism which characterized the earlier career of Rutherford B. Hayes in peace and war, and which guided the thoughts of our immediate predecessors to him for a Presidential candidate, have continued to inspire him in his career as Chief Executive; and that history will accord to his administration the honors which are due to an efficient, just and courteous discharge of the public business, and will honor his vetoes interpreted between the people and attempted partisan laws.

Eighth—We charge upon the Democratic party the habitual sacrifice of patriotism and justice to a supreme and insatiable lust for office and patronage; that to obtain possession of the national and State Governments and the control of place and position, they have obstructed all efforts to promote the purity and to conserve the freedom of suffrage, and have devised fraudulent ballots, and invented fraudulent certification of returns; have labored to unseat lawfully elected members of Congress to secure at all hazards the vote of a majority of States in the House of Representatives; have endeavored to occupy by force and fraud the places of trust given to others by the people of Maine, rescued by the courage in action of Maine's patriotic sons; have, by methods vicious in principle and tyrannical in practice, attached partisan legislation to appropriation bills upon whose passage the very movement of the Government depended; have crushed the rights of the individual; have advocated the principles and sought the favor of the Rebellion against the nation, and have endeavored to obliterate the sacred memories of the war and to overcome its incalculable value to the nation, personal freedom and individual equality.

Ninth—The equal, and steady, and complete enforcement of the laws, and the protection of all our citizens in the enjoyment of all privileges and immunities guaranteed by the Constitution, are the first duties of the nation.

Tenth—The dangers of a "Solid South" can only be averted by a faithful performance of every promise which the nation has made to the citizen. The execution of the laws, and the punishment of all those who violate them, are the only safe methods by which an enduring peace can be secured and genuine prosperity established throughout the South. Whatever promises the nation makes shall not be performed. A nation cannot with safety relegate this duty to the States. The "Solid South" must be divided by the peaceful agencies of the ballot, and all honest opinions must there find free expression. To this end the honest voter must be protected against terror, violence or fraud.

Eleventh—And we affirm it to be the duty and the purpose of the Republican party to use all legitimate means to restore all the States of this Union to the most perfect harmony which may be possible, and we submit to the practical, sensible people of these United States to say whether it would not be dangerous to the dearest interests of our country at this time to surrender the administration of the national Government to a party which seeks to overthrow the existing policy under which we are so prosperous, and thus bring distrust and confusion where there is now order, confidence and hope.

Twelfth—The Republican party, adhering to the principles affirmed by its last National Convention of respect for the constitutional rules governing appointments to office, adopts the declaration of President Hayes that the reform of the civil service should be thorough, radical and complete. To this end it demands the co-operation of the legislative with the executive departments of the Government, and that Congress shall so legislate that fitness, ascertained by proper practical tests, shall admit to the public service.

CREDIT MOBILIER. The San Francisco "Examiner," with its accustomed efforts to traduce the Republican candidates, accuses Garfield of having been deeply involved in the Credit Mobilier frauds, and notorious for the De Goyler swindle. Now Jerry S. Black is a staunch and honorable Democrat, whose word no Democrat will dispute, and it will probably be remembered that he wrote an able open letter in reply to a great speech made by Garfield at the time of the Credit Mobilier business, in which he exonerated Garfield, though condemning other Republicans. This letter was published in pamphlet form, and sent broadcast over the land, at last Presidential election, as an electioneering document against the Republicans. Addressing himself directly to Garfield in reply to that gentleman's masterly speech, he used the following language.

I will therefore call your attention to another case to which Dahnemann's rule does not apply, and in which the failure of the Republican party to punish its own rascals has been equally signal; I mean the frauds of the Union Pacific Railroad Company and the Credit Mobilier. You will pardon me, I am sure, for referring to this affair; you are the last man upon whom I would make a personal point, and I could not do it here if I would try; for the conviction I have often expressed remains unchanged, that your integrity was not stained by such connection as you had with the business.

Black has held the position of U. S. Attorney General and other important positions at Washington, and had every opportunity to notice Mr. Garfield's career. Speaking in this same letter confidentially, Black further said, "But we both know that it (Credit Mobilier) was the most gigantic fraud that the history of modern times discloses. Thus it is shown conclusively by Jerry Black that Garfield was as free from taint as himself in this transaction, and therefore there is no need of any defence being made in his behalf, though proper to explain the misrepresentation of papers who will admit no honorable record in an opponent, no matter how justly entitled to it.—"Yreka Journal."

THE MONROE DOCTRINE. The Burlington Hawkeye man thus expatiates on the Monroe doctrine: "The Monroe doctrine, simply and explicitly declares that foreign nations shall not come over here and slide down our cellar door; that England and France shall not hang on our front gate to do their courting; that they can't bring over their syrup-pots and elderspots and make sugar in our maple grove; that Germany and Austria can't spot 'n' cut tree in our woods; that Italy can't eat her firewood out of our hedge rows; that Russia can't spank her neighbors children with our butter paddle. The Monroe doctrine simply means that we are the bull of the woods between two oceans, and that the man who joins farms with us on either side had better not move the boundary fence until he talks to us about it, and that he can't slyly patch his farm to anybody until we are satisfied that the new tenant will make a good neighbor for us. That's about all there is of it."

MOTHER. There is one being in this world that can afford comfort in the heaviest sorrow and often the most rigorous trials of our life. We call this being mother. God gave her to us to sweeten with her kisses of love the bitter cup that is often pressed to our lips. He sent her to our cradle with the wings of affection to hide from our view the dark future into which we are to be hurried to contend with death. He appointed her to fold our hands in the first prayer, and made her smile the dawn of infinitude of our hopes. To us she is the incarnation of goodness, virtue and mercy, and the hour of temptation we may hear her tender voice pleading to our soul. Whenever we feel a generous emotion, the desire to dry a human tear, to help the unfortunate, to break our bread with the hungry and to perform any noble act for our fellow-beings, we are often unconsciously impelled by the subtle power of the mother's influence, for it is she who fashions our character and stamps upon it impressions that remain forever.
