Law of Newspapers.

Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscriptions.

1. If any subscribers order the discontinuance of their newspapers, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

2. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their newspapers from the offices to which they are directed, the law holds them responsible until they have settled the bills, and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers remove to other places without informing the publisher, and the newspapers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers from this office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

6. The postmaster who neglects to give legal notice of the neglect of a person to take from the office the newspaper addressed to him, is liable to the publisher for the subscription price.

AN IRISH DEMOCRAT ON ROSECRANS.

The nomination for Congress of Gen. Rosecrans by the Democrats of San Francisco don't seem to take very well with the Irish Americans of that place. At a meeting held in that city October 5d, a Mr. O'Leary made the principal speech of the day. He said that she came to this country a Democrat as soon as he landed, and had always been a Democrat, but when he saw the character of men they nomited, he was forced to leave it. Rosecrans was a fair example. He knew Rosecrans to be a land-grabber, and he could prove it. Rosecrans had denied it in the "Call," and also that he was an employer of Chinese. He was untruthful in the former, therefore the speaker deemed it fair to presume that he was in the latter denial. He had a letter form the attorney of the Los Angeles settlers, whom he tried to defraud was personally cognizant of the circumstances, had documentary proof of it, and would produce it and print it all through this campaign. In 1868 General Rosecrans went out to grab up some lands on which mechanics and poor laboring men had settled, between Los Angeles and Wilmington, with their families and built up their humble homes. Rosecrans got men to settle on this land, take it away from the settlers, and deed it to him, and he deeded it afterwards to M. V. O'Connor. His confederates were Colonel Larrabee, J. Q. A. Stanley, R. M. Whitney and one or two others, who got a slice of land for their services. The argument made by Whitney, his attorney, in Washington was that the settlers were only poor mechanics. "Such," said Mr. O'Leary, "are the leaders the Democratic party gives us for us to vote into office. Such is the man who now presides over a meeting called to sympathize with the poor farmers of Ireland!

"I am going to print proofs of these things from now till election day, and if Rosecrans can get the vote of a single workingman when I get through with him he is welcome to it. [Applause.] There is Kalloch, too. [Groans, hisses, cries of "Give it to the old fraud!"] Kalloch got up a boom for Rosecrans. Birds of a feather flock together. He sees a kindred spirit in Rosecrans. [Applause.] I don't know whether Rosecrans has anything to do with Spring Valley or not, but it is evident that Kalloch has. Even since his election he has been conferring with the agent of the Spring Valley Company, who has been in his office nearly every day. He is the most infamous villain that has ever disgraced the Mayor's chair of this or any other city. [Cheers and cries of "That's so."] Ever since he came into this organization he has been trying to supplant Dennis Kearney, and lately to sell us out bodily to the Democracy. All this time he has been in the knowledge that there would be no municipal election this Fall, and pretending that there would be, in order to trick the Workingmen and play into the hands of the dirty, fossilized old Democratic party. I hope this will be a lesson to the Workingmen not to trust such frauds again." [Cheers.]

"Trash of Europe."

The following choice extract from a "Southern School History," now used as one of the text-books in the schools of the South, is not calculated to win our foreign born fellow-citizens to the Solid South Democracy. The brave Germans and brave Irishmen who fought side by side to save the Union wont think much of the compliment herein expressed: "The second year of the war now commenced. It found each section preparing with terrible earnestness for the conflict. The South was straining every nerve to resist the Northern multitudes. Her Congress passed a law conscribing all men under thirty-five years of age. To fill her armies the North had a better and more successful mode. She offered immense bounties and high pay. Induced by these, thousands of European mercenaries enlisted. The South had nothing but her own gallant children to put in the field, and thus she was condemned to stake her most precious jewels against the trash of Europe."

General Hancock recently said to a Southern Democrat who visited him, that he "hoped the negroes were behaving in a manner agreeable to the people."
