OREGON SENTINEL.

JACKSONVILLE:

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1881.

NOTICE.

Land Office at Roseburg, Ogn. June 30, 1880.

To All Whom it may Concern:

Notice is hereby given that I have designated the OREGON SENTINEL as the paper in which I shall hereafter publish all preemptions, homestead and applications for mining patents for lands lying near Jacksonville, Jackson county, Oregon.

W. F. BENJAMIN, Register.

RECOVERING.—We are glad to say that Mrs. Wm. M. Turner, who has been confined to bed for nearly five weeks, is rapidly convalescing under the skilfull attendance of Dr. Aiken.

THE FUTURE OF THE TELEPHONE.—During a series of experiments made under the auspices of the French postal authorities, Dr. Cornelius Herz succeeded in transmitting audible speech a total distance of 800 miles with the aid of his telephone system.

NEW STORE.—We learn that J. Nunan will soon open a general merchandise store in his brick now occupied by Henry Jugde as a harness and saddlery store. Jerry is one of our most energetic and go-ahead business men and we hope to see him prosper.

PAID.—At the last meeting of the Commissioners Court of Lake county it was ordered that a warrant be drawn for $663.83½ on account of the debt owed by Lake to Jackson county. This does not extinguish the whole claim which is about $2,000.

WILL LEAVE US.—Dr. D. A. Covert, accompanied by Con Lever, will soon leave us for Renton, W. T., where they propose taking up their permanent residence. Dr. Covert has proved himself a successful practitioner during his residence here, and we hope to hear of his doing well at his new home.

NEW PARSONAGE.—The Trustees of the M. E. Church, Messrs. Taylor, Walker and Hoxie have purchased the Hockenjos property, now occupied by John Noland, for a parsonage. This is a good move as the Church lot is preserved intact and will soon be enclosed with a handsome fence. The price paid for the property is $650.

TO BE RELIEVED.—By the terms of the treaty with the Klamath Indians, the places of several of the employes at the Klamath Agency will, after June 30th, be filled by Indians supposed to be educated specially for that purpose. This will relieve Daniel Cronemiller and Rev. J. S. McCain, formerly of Jacksonville and several others.

NOT BAD.—The roads leading out of Jacksonville, eight in number, are [illegible] condition. [illegible] Commissioner McDaniel and his efficient corps of workmen. A number of our town chaps are working out their own and other people's road taxes. During these healthful exercises, the "curbstone brigade" is not quite so large as usual.

OPPORTUNE RAIN.—On Friday evening last, a light rain commenced falling and continued until Sunday afternoon. It was most opportune, coming at the time it was most needed and falling so gently that it was well taken up by the soil without waste. Followed by several days of warm growing weather it has given grain a splendid start and a very few more such showers will insure a full crop for that which was late sown.

THE JOHN BROWN RELIEF FUND.—The fund for the distressed widow of John Brown, like the martyr's soul, goes marching on, already aggregating over $1,000. Mrs. Brown is living near San Jose in straitened circumstances and the people of California are responding liberally to her call for aid. The contributions are small, the Mackeys, Floods, Sharons and other millionaires not yet being heard from, and probably never will be.

A BRIDGE PROJECT KILLED.—Judge Sawyer April 16th sustained the decision of District Judge Deady granting a preliminary injunction in the case of Hatch & Lownsdale vs. the Willamette Iron Bridge Company, and denied the application for a continuance of the work under bonds. This practically disposes of the project of a bridge across the Willamette to East Portland, Judge Sawyer holding that the construction of any bridge at the contemplated point would prove an obstruction to river and harbor navigation.

ODD FELLOW'S ANNIVERSARY.—The Odd Fellows of Portland and East Portland will give a grand entertainment, commemorative of the sixty-second anniversary of American Odd Fellowship at New Market Theatre, Portland, on the 26th instant. It is for the benefit of the Odd Fellows Orphans' Home and Educational Fund and should be largely attended. Hon. D. P. Thompson, Mayor of Portland, heads the honorary committee, and we regret that an invitation to be present came too late for acceptance.

THE MASQUERADE BALL.—The bal masque given by the Eintracht society at Veit Schutz's hall on the evening of the 18th inst., proved a grand success as was generally expected. The attendance of maskers was not as large as looked for but still there was enough to make it interesting. Excellent music was furnished by Prof. Scott, Adam Schmidt and Wm. L. Bilger, and the supper prepared by the ladies of the society could not be excelled. Mrs. F. Grob, as the Tyrolese maiden, was declared the best lady character by the committee and Fred. Luy took the gentleman's prize as the Jew peddler.

The O. R. & N. Co. are surveying their line to Baker City where it will connect with the U. P. road from Granger.

Reames Bros. received a portion of their Spring stock of goods this week. Goods for the Ladies' Bazar will arrive next week.

Plymale has been kept busy for sometime past supplying teams for his customers which are more numerous than ever of late.

J. C. Fullerton, present incumbent, has been nominated as Receiver of Public moneys for the Roseburg Land office—good enough.

A. P. Armstrong, a Jackson county boy, succeeds Prof. W. Lynn White as principal of the Portland Business College. Good enough.

Ed. Donaghy and Thos. Jones, of Henly, Cal., were in town on Wednesday last. The former has sold his store at Henly to the latter.

We acknowledge receipt of a neat specimen book and price list from the Pacific type foundry of San Francisco, owned by Marder, Luse & Co.

Bilger & Mægly keep the world renowned Walter A. Woods' mowers which our farmers will do well to examine before purchasing others.

James Bowker has been published as a common drunkard, by the Recorder of Salem, and all persons are warned not to supply him with liquor.

Another fine shower fell throughout the valley on Thursday night. It made the grain laugh and was as good, if not better, than a shower of silver.

A. P. Armstrong, formerly of Jacksonville, has supervision of the commercial and penmanship branches in White's business college in Portland.

Judging from the number of little waifs, abandoned by inhuman or poor parents, found on Portland door steps; that city will soon require a Foundling Hospital.

The time occupied by the average man in buying a full suit of clothes is just one fourth the time occupied by the average woman in buying a pair of stockings.

Wm. Fehely, who started off some time since to try his fortune in some new country, returned last Thursday perfectly content to remain with us a while longer.

Dr. D. A. Covert has fallen heir to a fortune of $78,000 by the death of a relative in Mexico and will soon visit that country to take possession of the property.

Louis Hubert has lost one of his horses and any one knowing his whereabouts will confer a favor by letting him know. The horse is a small white pinto.

This is the season of unleavened bread among our Jewish brethren. Mrs. E. Jacobs will accept the thanks of our "office force" for a bountiful supply of matzos.

Joseph Rapp was round on Saturday with a donation of the most choice apples ever brought to town—Can't get the printers to say anything mean about Mr. Rapp.

Moody and Sankey have left San Francisco for New Orleans. They made many converts in the Bay City but left behind them a large quantity of unworked clay.

K. Kubli has received the agency for the celebrated Buckeye Mower, Reaper & Binders, and his prices are as low as the lowest. We advise farmers to give him a call.

The first through train from The Dalles arrived at Walla Walla on Sunday last, 17th, the time from Portland to Walla Walla is now only twenty four hours instead of three days.

The party at White's hotel at Rock Point promises to be a fine affair. We hear of quite a number of Jacksonvillians who will attend and they are assured of the very best treatment.

The assassins of the Czar of Russia were strangled to death last Friday, and six more suspected conspirators are to be tried by a military court. The end can be guessed—the end of a rope.

Business is very desirable, but when a man indecently pushes himself into the house of mourning to snatch the coppers off a dead man's eyes, perhaps he is procuring it at too great a cost.

Mrs. Fanny Thurston Kennedy, relict of Ezekiel Kennedy, and mother of Mrs. F. E. Robertson and Mrs. C. Devis, died at the latter's residence on April 18th, aged 84 years and one month.

Rial Benedict will start for the Eastern States in a few days to pay a visit to the old folks at home. His father, who is now about 98 years of age, may accompany him on his return here.

Complaints are made about the difficulty of crossing Emigrant creek with heavy loads; the banks having been badly washed by high water and no repairs made, and one or two bridges are badly needed.

We regret to learn that the health of C. Scheffelin, formerly of this county but now of Los Angeles, Cal., has been quite poor of late. At one time last month he was so low with pneumonia as to cause alarm.

The risk of being bit by a mad dog is greatly over estimated. Out of every 1,000 big and little dogs only two care to get up a row with the human race, and those two are ready and willing to die.

Mr. Windom's funding scheme is endorsed very generally by the press of the country. The only papers that oppose it are those that don't want to endorse it because Secretary Windom is not of their party.

William Reid of the Scotch N. G. R. R. has gone east, it is said, to sell that road to Villard. If purchased by the latter it will probably be extended to Lake county and Jackson county will be left in the cold.

Geo. Milo Dutcher and Mrs. Judge Watson of Philadelphia, temperance lecturers, arrived by stage yesterday from the north. They made their stay in Portland short, considering what a fine field it is for temperance work.

Residents of Josephine county will remember the Odd Fellow's ball at Kerbyville on April 26th. It is for the benefit of the Odd Fellow's Orphan's Home and Educational Fund and we expect to hear of a large attendance.

"Old Abe," the famous live war eagle of the Eighth Wisconsin, which accompanied the regiment all through the late war of the rebellion and took part in thirty-one different battles and skermishes, died at Madison, Wis., March 26.

Where one of the most important thoroughfares in this county crosses Jenny creek there is to be erected a hundred dollar bridge covered with poles, Mr. Van Horn having the contract to build it. This will beat nothing all hollow.

Out of every 100,000 people in this country 99,000 get up cross in the morning, but only a hundred or so remain in that condition very long after breakfast. As an unvarying rule the best time to present a subscription paper is after a meal.

One of our hide merchants has just discovered that in purchasing hides he has also bought considerable sand, placed in the hair to make them weigh heavy. The merchant says he will buy both hides and sand but wants them put up in separate packages.

L. S. P. Marsh, the enterprising contractor and builder of Ashland, paid us a flying visit this week. He reports lots of work on hand. Mr. Marsh has obtained the contract to put up the new quarters at Ft. Klamath, and will soon begin work on it.

Several Willow Springs boys got to feeling quite well last Saturday night and in passing Pape's saloon one of the large panes of glass was demolished. Judge Nunan gave it as his opinion that they had each had about $8 worth of fun and all three paid their fines.

After an illness of about one week Michael Murphy died at his residence here of lung fever. He was a native of county Cork, Ireland, and was about 55 years of age. He was in the employ of the O. & C. Stage Co., as hostler, and was a very worthy and industrious citizen.

Mr. Jamison of Rock Point was in town this week and tells us that Bybee and Fisher's big ditch out of Rogue river to work Big bar is well under way, about one half mile being finished. The ditch will carry about 2,000 inches of water when completed and can never go dry.

A certain well to-do gentleman arrived in town this week and offered any one $250 who would get him a wife. One of our young hotel clerks undertook the job and came very near getting the reward. The only difficulty encountered was that the woman said no instead of yes.

Capt. Alex P. Ankeny arrived from Portland on Thursday and immediately left for his Sterling mine, accompanied by Tod. Cameron. The Captain will remain for a few days at Sterling and assist operations by his genial presence. He thinks railroad prospects look very favorable at present.

The evidences of the late freshet are visible in various parts of the county. Deep washouts, occasional quagmires and damaged bridges along the public thoroughfares still remain to stir up righteous indignation of a suffering travelling public. Why is this thus? Where, O where is the road overseer?

Henry Judge will next week move his saddler shop to the building formerly occupied by Mat. Dillon as a saloon. On account of the fire ordinance he will be forced to build a new brick addition in the rear to make sufficient room and in due course of time he will build a substantial brick in front.

One of General Lane's Mexican veterans, here, relates that when a Mexican town was to be raided, Lane would ride along the line and exhort the boys to be very careful to see that when the town was taken the "women and chickens were protected"—the children could look out for themselves, and if a chicken crowed in Spanish its neck was to be wrung on the spot.

Idaho papers say that the immigration to Wood river is setting in too early as there is still snow all over the ground. No prospecting can be done until the middle of June. The Wood river country is said to beat least one hundred miles square but here are no placer mines, the mineral all being contained in quartz; consequently it is a poor place for a man without capital to go to.

Miss Ada Skinner of Yreka, who passed through here Saturday last on her way North, was married to Mr. Frank H. Darling of the Stewart Publishing Company, at Salem on Monday. It is not every girl that can pick up a "darling" that way and she is to be congratulated on her good luck. The wedding was at the residence of her uncle W. W. Skinner of the O. & C. R. R. Co.

Thos. Rodgers passed through town last Wednesday on his way to Ashland from Silver creek. He reports miners busy in that camp and all have excellent prospects. About seventeen men are employed on the creek at present but only a few of them have commenced cleaning up as the water supply lasts all the year round. An ounce per day to the hand seems to be the pay of those who have cleaned up.

Joseph Epperson of Uniontown precinct was in town one day this week. He had not seen Jacksonville for a number of years and finds things considerably changed since his last visit. Mr. Epperson is an old Mexican war veteran having fought under Gen. Joe Lane at the battles of Buena Vista, Huamantla and other engagements. At the former battle he was shot through the right arm, which ever afterward disabled him from reaching with his hand over his head.

The Oregonian says: "Mrs. Henry Denlinger of this city, now a student in the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, at a recent regular examination stood at the head of her class composed of 76 ladies, and was the only one who was perfect in all the branches studied. Mrs. Denlinger will graduate from the college in September 1882, when she will return to Portland to practice her profession." Henry was formerly owner of the SENTINEL and we congratulate him on his wife's splendid examination.

In Stewart's forthcoming history of Oregon there will be illustrations of public buildings of each county. We hope that the Court House of Jackson county will not be overlooked; as it will give a good idea of the early architectural taste and primitive style of a quarter of a century ago. Joking aside, however, is it not about time that this county had a Court House that would not be mistaken by strangers for a barn?

DEATH OF GENERAL LANE.

On Tuesday night, General Joseph Lane, the first Territorial Governor of Oregon, and a man who has occupied a most important place in the State's history passed away at the ripe age of 80 years. His death had long been expected and it was no surprise to his friends. Genl. Lane was born in North Carolina in 1801 and in 1821 moved to Indiana, settling on a farm in Vanderburg county. In 1822 he was returned to the Legislature; his representative career, thenceforth, extending over twenty five years; as State Senator and member of the lower branch of the Indiana Legislature.

At the breaking out of the Mexican war, in 1846, he resigned his seat in the Indiana Senate and volunteered as a private soldier, but was at once appointed Colonel by President Polk and soon afterwards commissioned Brigadier General. At the battle of Buena Vista, where he was wounded, he commanded the left wing of the American army. Oct. 9, 1847, at the head of 3000 men, he defeated Gen. Santa Anna at Huamantla. On the 19th he took Atlixa, losing only one man, while the enemy lost 500. Nov. 22 Lane took the strongly fortified town of Madrie Mori, with a large quantity of military munitions. He [illegible] took Orizaba. On the 24th he defeated Gen. Jaruata at Tehaulapan. At the conclusion of the war Lane was brevetted a Major General of the U. S. Army and in August, 1848 was appointed Governor of Oregon Territory, from which office he was subsequently removed by President Taylor. In 1851 Genl. Lane was elected Delegate to Congress, beating Gov. Gaines, and continuing to represent the Territory until 1858 when, on July 7th he was elected to represent the new State of Oregon in the U. S. Senate, receiving 45 out of 50 votes in the Legislature. In 1860 Joseph Lane was nominated by the National Democratic convention, at Balimore, for the Vice Presidency on the ticket with Breckenridge and on the breaking out of the war was in hearty sympathy with the doctrine of secession. During the Indian war in Rogue river valley he took an active part, having been unanimously tendered command of the forces operating against the Indians. General Lane filled every position honestly and well and any errors committed, even the fatal mistake of sympathizing with the rebellion, were errors of judgment. As a private citizen Joseph Lane leaves the unsullied record of an honest man. The brave old veteran has answered to the roll call of the Eternal and may his rest be easy.

The old soldier was laid to rest yesterday in the Masonic Cemetery at Roseburg in the family vault just constructed, and to which the remains of his wife had been removed. There was a large attendance from Salem, Albany, Corvallis, Eugene City and Oakland, and there was a very large attendance from Douglas county. A very eloquent and impressive oration was delivered by his old friend, ex-Senator J. W. Nesmith, who paid a fitting tribute to the memory of a man who has filled so large a space in Oregon's history.

Josephine County Items.

ED. SENTINEL.—The crops look splendid, never better. The grasshoppers are making their appearance in considerable number here this Spring.

More cattle than usual are being purchased by drovers. They are to be taken east of the mountains.

A somewhat fatal disease is going around among the horses, Mr. Jones lost a valuable animal not long since.

Mrs. Jones the genial hostess of the Junction house left here to-day for Yreka, to visit friends there. She contemplates visiting San Francisco, before she returns.

Among the many things the late flood did, was in the unearthing of the remains of a number af human skulls and skeletons at the old Vannoy Ferry on Rogue River. The oldest residents have no recollection of their ever being buried there. They are evidently the remains of the noble red men.

Miss Ida Wade, is teaching the young idea how to shoot at the Slate creek school house and Mr. Porter wields the rod at the Pine Grove. Several school teachers hailing from across the "Rockies" have several schools hereabouts, at remunerative prices.

April 2, 1881, will long be remembered by your correspondent as a day that presented to his view, the grandest spectacle in the phenomena of the clouds ever beheld; the sunset at evening, was equally as grand. B.

Wilderville, April 17, 1881.

The Holman ledge is still being prospected by Richard Cook who, it is said, has struck some small veins of very rich silver ore. It will be remembered that many years since, a considerable quantity of "horn" silver was found as "float" at the mouth of Shively gulch, just under the Holman, and it has long been a question where it came from. We believe now that Mr. Cook has solved it, but whether the ore will be found in paying quantities is another question.

The Lakeview Examiner is severe on Indian Agent Nickerson of Klamath for seizing a ten gallon keg of whisky, nicely boxed up, while inside the reservation on a "county road." The fact of the keg being concealed in a box is quite suspicious in itself and this is the first time we ever heard of a county road being established inside of a government reserve. The chances are; Agent Nickerson has done just exactly right for if the man Webb had been "on the square" he would not have hidden the liquor.

Willie, the oldest child of Geo. F. Merryman, now of Oakland, aged about two years is lying at the point of death.

TO FOOT'S CREEK AND RETURN.

A six hours brisk walk of a lone footman, on his arm a basket whose contents seem to increase in weight every step he takes, the route leading over high mountains and through densly timbered canyons, is a pleasure more vigorous than delightful. Never having come that way, on an unused trail and so dim that you are at a loss to tell whether you are on any trail, and no one to guide, the situation becomes interesting by the disquieting thought that you may possibly be on the wrong trail. Crossing the divide between Jackson and Jackass creeks your tourist reached Hopkins' saw mill, said to be five miles from Jacksonville. A stiff climb up the mountain in a Westerly direction brings the walkist to the summit dividing the waters of Jackass from those of the left hand fork of Foots creek. From here the real difficulty of the trip commences. To say that it was rough but faintly expresses the present condition of this would be trail. The dense forest, the thick underbrush and the great number of fallen trees blockading the trail in every direction vividly brings to mind the story of the African jungle by Livingstone. Two and one-half hours more in this wilderness brought us to the wagon road near the residence of Oscar Swacker, left hand fork of Foot's creek.

We found a number of the miners still working away on their claims, though with a diminished head of water; others were engaged cleaning up. At the Goldsworthy and McKnight claim the pipes and bulkhead had just been moved higher up the gulch, and the supply of water on hand, with the system of reservoirs, will enable the proprietors to continue piping for sometime yet. Judging from the amount of ground worked over on this fork of Foot's creek a profitable yield of gold will no doubt crown the efforts of the respective miners.

The mines on the right hand fork of Foot's creek are scarcely opened yet. The mining claim of Messrs. Duffield, Lance & Hosmer we consider among the best in the State, if not on the coast. All ground worked so far has prospected uniformly at 25 cents to the cubic foot, which average if it should hold out, is very good. What this claim needs to make it the best in the country is a greater volume of water. Since this mine has been opened only about a quarter of an acre of ground has been worked over, with the bed rock ranging from fifteen to twenty feet below the surface. We have here seen the second longest flume for catching the gold and carrying off the tailings in the county—the Sterling company's flume exceeding this in length only a few rods. This flume is over a quarter of a mile in length, is constructed in the most substantial manner, on a grade sufficient to carry off all the tailings that get into it. Piping away the gravel in this mine the other day four different kinds of drift wood; among them the stump and several of the main roots of what is supposed to have been a yew tree were exposed to view, at a depth from the surface of twenty feet. These lay imbedded in a drift of loam and washed rock, the stump in an upturned position close to the bed rock. The heart of the tree seemed to be in a comparative state of preservation. The question when and how did this tree get there? your correspondent is unable to solve.

The Foot's creek school over which Miss Ida Klippel presides, is in a flourishing condition, with an average daily attendance of 29 pupils. The school children seem to be willing to apply themselves to their studies and to improve their opportunities, and as the directors and patrons of the school all take a deep interest in its welfare no doubt is entertained of its entire success.

The most important social event on Foot's creek took place last Saturday, and consisted in the marriage of Mr. Nelson Hosmer, a well-to-do miner and farmer, to Mrs. Martha J. Matthews, a lady of considerable executive ability. The event was not altogether unexpected, both being of lawful age, and believing in the Scriptural injunction, that it is not good for man to be alone, the parties went away from home to have the knot tied, and when they returned on Sunday evening, all was over and no one got any wedding cake. Mr. Hosmer will soon commence building a handsome residence for himself and family, on an eminence just above his present dwelling house.

The best appointed farm we have seen on Foot's creek is that of Mr. George Lance. It is a fine level body of land, extending from Rogue river up the Foot's creek bottom for a couple of miles, with a spacious two story frame residence with all necessary improvements for insuring the comfort of every member of his family as well as that of the stranger who may be temporarily sojourning there.

Old Mr. Anderson and family who for the past few years have resided on the Emmerson farm, have just finished moving to Waldo, where they expect to engage in the hotel and livery business.

The claim of Duffield, Lance and Hosmer on Foots creek is one of the best in the county. It will average about 20 feet in depth, prospecting uniformly twenty-five cents to the cubic foot, while the bed rock is very rich. These gentlemen have only washed off about quarter of an acre which has yielded over $10,000—the work of several years.

Two giants are still in operation at Sterling, and nearly twice the amount of dirt washed last season has already gone through the flume. It is the intention of the enterprising owners, Messrs. Ankeny and Ennis, to enlarge the main ditch next summer so as to furnish water for a third giant and an extension of the ditch is already in progress.

A FINE STALLION.—Granville Naylor's fine Sligart stallion, Taylor, will be at Cardwell's stable every Saturday and at Mr. Naylor's farm, three and a half miles east of Jacksonville, the rest of each week during the season of 1881. Taylor is a fine large roadster, a beautiful dark dapple bay, six years old, 16 hands high and weighs 1,200 pounds. He is well proportioned, of good bone and action and excels as a roadster. Taylor was sired by Young Sligart, he by the well known Capt. Sligart, imported to Jackson county by W. C. Myer. His dam was a fine whip mare; grand dam was sired by a colt of old Black Hawk of Illinois, who trotted 100 miles in 10 hours. We advise stock raisers to look at the horse. *

CLOTHES CLEANING.—Ladies' and gentlemen's silk and woolen clothing cleaned and repaired at reasonable rates and made as good as new. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call at my place of business, next door to the W. U. Telegraph Office. RICHARD MEE.

BORN.
