

NOTICE.

Land Office at Roseburg, Ore., June 29, 1880.
Notice is hereby given that I have designated the OREGON SENTINEL as the paper in which I shall hereafter publish all pre-emptions, homesteads and applications for mining patents for lands lying near Jacksonville, Jackson county, Oregon.
W. F. MURPHY, Register.

Lost.—An enameled, gold ear-ring, oval shape. The finder will be rewarded by leaving it at this office.

ENTERTAINMENT AT ROCK POINT.—There will be a Christmas tree and dramatic entertainment to be followed by a grand ball at the Rock Point hall on Friday, Dec. 23. Come one, come all. Admission free. Those wishing to give presents to their friends can leave them in care of Mrs. H. L. White or Mrs. Cawley.

REGISTRATION.—At a regular meeting of the O. F. F. held at their hall on Dec. 15th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: C. P. H. v. Helms; H. P. S. J. Dav; S. W. Fred Otton; Scribe, John A. Beyer; Treas., John Miller; J. W. Fred Lutz; Trustees, H. v. Helms, K. Kubli and T. B. Kent. Installation ceremonies will take place on Tuesday, Jan. 10th.

WELL ANSWERED.—The ready wit of the Hibernian is proverbial; but we never heard a better answer than was given the other day, by our friend Murphy, the blacksmith, who sometimes slips over and becomes annoying, wishing to get rid of him, we requested him to go and find out what "nephews" was "The divit a nee-physics" was "The divit a nee-physics" is the ghost of an idea.—Murphy didn't go.

THE CATHOLIC SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The Rev. Father Blanchet distributed over eighty prizes to the Catholic Sabbath school children on Sunday last. The prizes were given both for proficiency and good behavior and the Rev. Father is doing a noble work, in training up the youth of his flock in the right way. We hope, when they reach manhood and womanhood, they may look back from lives of sobriety and virtue; acknowledging the value of the worthy efforts that shaped their lives aright, too frequently, without the aid of parental discipline.

DEATH OF JOHN CONLY.—This old pioneer, whose death was published last week, was one of the first residents of Jacksonville, coming here with the family of Judge Reed. Mr. Conly was a native of Donegal, County Louth Ireland. The deceased had been fast falling, for some time, and on the evening of his death fell from his chair without the slightest warning. Mr. Conly was about 75, always had a pleasant salutation for everyone and earth had many worse men than he. He was buried in the Catholic cemetery, Rev. F. X. Blanchet officiating.

DISCREDITABLE.—For some time past Rev. Mr. Sharp has been holding prayer meetings at the M. E. Church and, quite often, they have been disturbed by the bad conduct of boys, both inside and outside the Church. This is neither gentlemanly nor smart and if children do not go to Church for moral or intellectual improvement they ought to have decency enough to keep away. It is the duty of parents to teach their children common politeness, at least. It costs little, but boys, in after years, and girls too, will find it very valuable. Let us see if parents, themselves, have decency enough to make their children behave at religious meetings, or sense enough to keep them away, if they are too rude to respect the feelings of others.

WELL THOUGHT OF.—A resolution was offered in the city council, Monday evening, tendering the use of the Town Hall to the county for the purpose of holding courts and transacting other county business. It is really generous on the part of the trustees but, unfortunately, the jury would have no place but the cells for deliberation which, although quite as comfortable and fit as the rooms over the county barn, would hardly be suitable. No juror would like to return home and say that he had been in the calaboose, at the county seat, for a day or two and this unpleasant stigma is about the only difference between the lock up and present quarters. The resolution was laid over and a committee appointed to wait on Judge Hanna to ascertain if he would accept the hospitalities of the city and select one of the cells for an office.

CONCERT.—A concert, by our local talent, will be given on Wednesday evening, 21st inst. at Holt's Hall, for the benefit of the new Church. The admission is nominal and everybody can afford to go. Following is the programme:

Music, String Band. Opening Song, Reading, Isaac McCully. Song by little girls. Recitation, Annie Bilger. Duet, Katie and Johnnie Miller. Solo, Daisy Bilger. Quartette, Kate Hoffman, Tillie Miller, J. Boyer and J. Hyzer. Tableaux. Song by little girls. Declaration, Chas. Bilger. Duet, Misses Lillie Ulrich and Annie Bilger. Recitation, Ada Pymala. Solo, Mrs. D. H. Feathers. Tableaux. Duet, Clara Number and Chas. Bilger. Music, by String Band. Mal-Quartette. Recitation, Rosa Cardwell. Tableaux. Song, Susie Turner. Solo, Cora Linn. The "Sunday Welcome" says: "There should be a stringent law enacted, prohibiting the sale of liquor to children." The "Welcome" will find that just such a law is now in full force and it even prohibits boys under 18 from lounging about saloons and billiard halls. Why is there no imitation Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine? The answer is simple enough; they have patented worth protecting and they go so Companies have attempted to manufacture an imitation Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine but were compelled to abandon the scheme although it cost the company thousands of dollars.—Why?

Two young bloods of Jacksonville passed through Phoenix last Friday night, with "Ashland or best" for the night, they looked a little flustered out and in, and had a rail-rod on the buggy, in place of the doubletree, which was broken out, and the rope used in tying it on being worn out, they were obliged to procure another coil to last them through.
The saloon keepers of California seem to be the only persons determining to resist the Sunday law, and they are generally defying it. The fact is significant and may well attract the attention of legislators and prompt them to inquire; how much that particular business contributes to the general welfare and how little it contributes to the national wealth.
We hear that a very large area is being plowed in Jacksonville this winter and, with a half favorable season, there will be an abundance next year. There will be no danger of an unmarketable surplus; as there is every indication, that the railroad will be quite close to us by harvest. We don't want to hear farmers growl and call it a "damned monopoly" because they have nothing to sell, or slip on it. Let the plows run for a couple of years and farmers may be hard pressed.
The 47th Congress convened at the National Capitol on the 5th inst. and Gen. James K. Kettle, of Ohio, was elected speaker. The President's message has elicited various comments, favorable and unfavorable, but the weight of the eastern press sustains it as an able document. It is certainly issued under very delicate circumstances and the President appears to rely more on the wisdom of Congress than on his own. In this respect he must receive credit for deference to the power of the Legislature and his modesty, under the peculiar circumstances of his accession augur well for a conservative and wise administration.
The "Statesman" suggests that want of confidence is shown in Representative George, by the Portland Board of Trade; in ending D. P. Thompson to assist him in obtaining rice and har law appropriations. The "Standard" replies, forgetting that the suggestion might include Senators Grover and Slater, who, it is presumed, are also Representatives of Oregon. The intimation is unwelcome, inasmuch as the Board of Trade need not be as George's earnest solicitation and assistance in its most energetic and best qualified members to go to Washington and assist in so important a work. An apology comes due from the "Standard" to the Democratic Senators.

NOTABLE DEATH.—Jacob Tesch, who was found dead at the Biecher ranch on Sunday last, unlike many other men, had a history. He was a native of Germany, and emigrated from one of the Rhine provinces, to the United States in 1816 at the age of 26 and was, consequently, at the time of his death, 91 years of age. Settling on the present site of Covington, Tesch at one time, owned nearly half of the ground on which the city is built and was the founder of the first cotton-factory in that city. It is interesting to reflect on the possibilities of his career; had he retained his first-hand interest, instead of an obscure and unknown life, he could have earned his revenues by the million. Pecks and streets in the great metropolis would have been named for him and a fountain, grander perhaps, than the one given to Cincinnati by "robust," might have perpetuated his memory.
We are unable, now, to follow the old man through his whole career and only know that; for the last 21 years, he has made his home at the house of Henry Biecher, living about two miles south of Jacksonville. On Sunday afternoon the old man was missed and John Christopher a man living on the ranch proceeded to search for him. He was found near the gate of the sheep-enclosure, sitting in the fence corner, quite dead. The old man had eaten a hearty breakfast and his death probably resulted from a sudden, giving way of a system nearly worn out by age. This is another proof that "old diseases" are instead of a really marvellous tonic, and the position one holds of wealth, old Jacob Tesch has only a lonely grave among the mountains of Oregon, and who knows that his sleep will be any less sweet.
