

SENATOR SLAYER OF OREGON.

The policy of protection to American labor and manufactures developed a new enemy, from a new and unexpected quarter, during the Senate debate Monday on the bill for the appointment of a Commission to revise the tariff law, in the person of Senator Slater of Oregon. He denounces the existing tariff and all tariffs for protection as inimical to the agricultural interest of the country, and devised for the purpose of enriching the manufacturers. Some of his statements are startling to statisticians. For instance, that notwithstanding all said to the contrary, the agricultural products of the country have not increased under the policy of protection to labor and manufactures. It is curious that any man should venture a statement in the Senate so far from truth and so easy of refutation. In 1870 the population of the United States was $38,550,000, against 50,152,000 in 1880. The increase was 30 per cent in ten years. In 1870 and 1879 the cereal products of the country compared as follows:

Table with 2 columns: 1870 Bushels, 1879 Bushels. Rows: Wheat, Corn, Oats.

In these ten years the increase per cent of the above principal cereal crops was wheat, over 90 percent; corn, over 50 per cent; and oats, over 70 per cent. In the same decade the production of flour, meal, pork, bacon, hams, lard, butter, cheese, and all other products afflicting with or dependent on the cereals increase in proportion—about two and one-half to three times the per cent of the increase in population. Would the increase have been greater under a tariff for revenue strictly? Certainly not. The countries to which we exported our agricultural surplus took what they were obliged to take, and no more. But the home market for these productions, created by manufactures, was much larger than it would have been had the protection to those manufactures been taken away.

No part of the American Union is more deeply interested in the maintenance of the protective policy than the Pacific States and Territories. Our staple exports are wheat, flour, fruits and lumber. They are taken duty free by countries that must take them. But we want, and must have, a local system of manufactures before we can be populous and prosperous. We have unlimited resources in coal and iron. We have not so far utilized them by iron manufactures with protection. Can it be expected that we shall ever do so without protection? California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho have immense power for the production of sheep and wool. With protection we have made some headway in woolen manufactures. What would be the result of a tariff withdrawing that protection? It would destroy every woolen mill in existence on the coast. The arguments of the Oregon Senator, carried to their logical conclusions, would stop all manufactures begun here and in his own State of hats, boots and shoes, leather, harness, the making of sugar from beets, the refining of imported cane sugar, and close out at a blow all our future prospects in the manufacture of iron and steel, for which our natural resources are so vast and our market constantly enlarging. It is certain that England would not take from us more of our wheat and flour than she needs if we should take her iron and steel rails and her other manufactures free. It is equally certain that the revenues from customs duties would decline and internal taxes have to be increased. The Oregon Senator advocates appropriations to the amount of $5,000,000 by this Congress for the improvement of his State's facilities for water transit. Where is the revenue to come from for such a purpose if we should follow his ideas on the tariff question.—[S. F. Chronicle.

Nothing Short of Unmistakable Benefits Conferred upon tens of thousands of sufferers could originate and maintain the reputation which AYE'S SARSAPARILLA enjoys. It is a compound of the best vegetable alteratives, with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and is the most effectual of all remedies for scrofulous, mercurial, or blood disorders. Uniformly successful and certain in its remedial effects, it produces rapid and complete cures of Scrofula, Sores, Boils, Humors, Pimples, Eruptions, Skin Diseases and all disorders arising from impurity of the blood. By its invigorating effects it always relieves and often cures Liver Complaints, Female Weakness and Irregularities, and is a potent renewer of vitality. For purifying the blood it has no equal. It tones up the system, restores and preserves the health, and imparts vigor and energy. For forty years it has been in extensive use, and is to-day the most available medicine for the suffering sick, anywhere.

Almost Buried Alive.

The "Whig" published several days ago a telegram from Knoxville, stating that Cadet Parham Adams, of the Academy at that place, was at the point of death in consequence of absorbing the poison of forty cigarettes which he had on a wager smoked one after another. The case turns out to have been a most remarkable one. Adams died, as everybody supposed, at 8 o'clock Monday morning. The body was prepared for burial, and a coffin purchased. Three hours after his supposed decease, and in the midst of active preparations for the entombment of the body, a bystander observed a peculiar spasmodic movement of one of the limbs. A doctor was quickly summoned; other evidences of vitality were discovered. In time, by the prompt and vigorous application of the proper restoratives, the supposed corpse was revived. His condition was, however, still very precarious, but he continued to improve, and at last accounts strong hopes were entertained of his complete recovery. Cadet Adams will probably forswear cigarettes after this. Coming so near being the cause of his burial alive, one would think the very sight or smell of a cigarette would send a cold shudder through his frame.—[Richmond Whig.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS—Never Despair Something that never fails—Fever and Ague—To the sick it is of little consequence how they are cured, whether from a rational view of the disease or by the rules defined for the guidance of the profession, so long as the cure is certain and expeditious. To a suffering man the question on the relative merits of quinine or calomel is uninteresting. The faculty may wrangle and discuss their various theories, but Dr. Holloway's treatment dispels doubts ere the disciples of Esculapius have finished the first stage. Holloway's Pills are the only remedies which effect a speedy and radical cure without danger of a relapse. Read the advertisement elsewhere.
